INFLATION PLAN CREDIT SLAYER, GLASS ASSERTS

Virginian's Warning of Federal Reserve's Peril Flouted.

SENATE VOTE GIVES ROOSEVELT POWERS

Chamber to Ballot Today on Move to Pay Bonus in "Greenbacks."

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Flouting a stern but measured warning from Senator Carter Glass that the administration's inflation program involves ultimately "an almost complete paralysis" of the commercial credit facilities of the Federal Reserve System, the Senate voted, 53 to 35, yesterday to vest President Roosevelt with plenary powers over coinage and currency, gold, silver and paper.

After a notable half-hour address by Senator Glass, a former Secretary of the Treasury and a recognized authority on banking and currency, the greenback coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans decisively rejected a proposal by Senator Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, to strike out the permissive authority to alter the gold content of the dollar.

Eleven Democrats, including Senator Glass, joined with 24 Republicans in resisting the Reed amendment.

Final Vote Today.

With the Robinson (Indiana) amendment to pay the soldier bonus certificates in greenbacks scheduled as the next order of business, the Senate will resume at 11 o'clock this morning. Administration leaders hope to reach a final vote on the inflation section today. The Senate then will revert to consideration of the agricultural provisions of the omnibus farm bill.

Advocates of the greenback bonus claimed vastly augmented strength in both Houses last night. In the Senate, however, it still appeared doubtful whether the Robinson amendment could be passed.

House leaders have determined to take no action on the bonus until the Senate result is available.

A revision of the Robinson text yesterday would make the bonus authority permissive in the hands of the President. In its original form the amendment contemplated mandatory authority in the hands of the Director of Veterans' Affairs.

Holds Platform Broken.

Senator Glass told his colleagues the mere discussion of the inflation bill this week already had "literally destroyed the mortgage bond market of this country." He predicted that its enactment—with the certainty that no man on earth would be able to resist the political pressure to apply its authority through the Federal Reserve System—would mean ultimately "an almost literal wiping

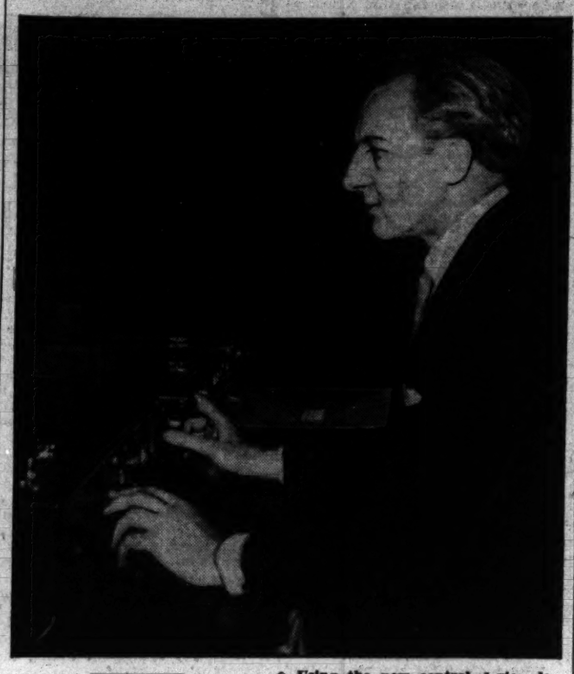
Auditory Perspective Music Test Succeeds



Stokowski, Here, Leads His Orchestra in Philadelphia.

Using the new control device developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Dr. Leopold Stokowski controls the music of his symphony orchestra, in Philadelphia, from Constitution Hall here.

By ELISABETH E. POE.

Had Edward Bellamy, author of "Looking Backward," been in Constitution Hall last night at the concert given by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, reproduced from Philadelphia through an auditory perspective method under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences, he would have felt perfectly at home.

For this concert was the realization of Bellamy's prediction, made more than 50 years ago, that the day would come when an audience would sit in a concert hall in one city and through the mere touching of buttons, hear music played in another city many miles distant.

It was the first public demonstration of the new apparatus designed to transmit orchestral and other music in full perfection over miles

SCOTTSBORO GROUP STAGES JAIL REVOLT

Suspects Put on Bread and Water in Cells Which Have No Bunks.

Birmingham, Ala., April 27 (A.P.).—The Scottsboro case defendants mutined in jail here today after arming themselves with plumbing fixtures, and now they face confinement in day cells and bread and water rations as punishment for insubordination.

The nine Negroes—defendants in the Scottsboro assault cases—refused to return to their sleeping quarters after spending the day in day cells. They ripped pieces of plumbing fixtures from their cell and defied the wardens.

Sheriff James F. Hawkins ordered them locked in the day cells until they changed their minds.

The Negroes went on strike after complaining they had been mistreated by one of the wardens. The sheriff assured them of proper treatment, but they said they were afraid they would be "beaten up." Sheriff Hawkins made no attempt to force them to their sleeping quarters, but warned they would be put on bread-and-water rations unless they obeyed orders.

And when the boys declined to go to their sleeping quarters, the sheriff locked them in the day cells. The day quarters are large and airy, but have no bunks. The Negroes face the prospect of sleeping on the floor and living on bread and water until they will obey the sheriff.

There was no violence of any kind. The prisoners made no effort to use the pipes, and the officers did not resort to force.

The jail is on the seventh floor of the courthouse. The Negroes were brought here pending new trials on charges of assaulting two white girl hoboes. Their trials have been postponed indefinitely.

Possession of Beer Test Case in Kansas

Lawrence, Kans., April 27 (A.P.).—Frank McDonald, president of the Young Democrats of Kansas and former athletic director of the Haskell Indian Institute here, was charged today with possession and sale of liquor in connection with a sale of 3.2 beer at a camp near here last Monday, in a purported effort to obtain a test of the Kansas prohibitory laws.

Bank President Is Shot By Fleeing Holdup Man

Holland, Minn., April 27 (A.P.).—Paul Reikow, president, was shot in the leg and slightly wounded late today by a holdup man who obtained $400 at the First National Bank here.

As the robber fled, Edward Boemke, cashier, fired through a window and the former stopped, raised his hands and shouted, "I'll give up." As Reikow attempted to seize the man, the latter drew a pistol and shot Reikow. He escaped in an automobile.

MOSCOW ASKS END OF TOKYO INTRIGUE

Soviet-Japanese Tension in Far East May Lead to Open Break.

Moscow, April 27 (U.P.).—The growing seriousness of the Russo-Japanese controversy in Manchuria drew a sharp demand here today that Tokyo suppress anti-Soviet intrigues which might cause an open break between the two nations in the Far East.

The demand was voiced through the official organ, Izvestia, which revealed growing irritation and dissatisfaction among high Soviet officials over the Japanese policies in Manchuria. The dispute has grown out of the controversy over rolling stock in the Chinese Eastern Railway, jointly operated by Russia and Manchukuo, the new puppet state.

Charges by the Manchoukuo authorities that the Soviets are seizing rolling stock illegally and keeping it over the border in Siberia and by the Soviets that these charges are trumped up, have brought the feeling between Russia and Japan close to the breaking point.

Tientsin, China, April 28 (Friday) (A.P.).—Chinese military leaders today claimed their forces had reoccupied Peitaiho and Chinwangtao, east of the Lwan River, following continued evacuation by Japanese and Manchukuan troops of the newest battle zone south of the Great Wall.

Increasing tension between Japan and Russia over the Chinese Eastern Railway was considered by Chinese leaders as one of the reasons for the sudden withdrawal of the Japanese and Manchukuan troops.

Rum King Indicted As Income Dodger

Waxie Gordon Accused of Failure to Pay Tax on $1,616,690.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—A Federal grand jury today indicted Waxie Gordon for alleged evasion of taxes on a net income of $1,427,531 in 1930 and $189,159 in 1932—most of it reputedly proceeds from an illegal liquor business centering in New York and New Jersey.

The defendant was named as Irving Vexler, alias Waxie Gordon, in the indictment. Two others were named as conspirators with Gordon—Louis Cohen and Sam Gurock.

Max Greenberg, recently shot to death in Elizabeth, N. J., also was named as a conconspirator in the indictment. Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman issued bench warrants for all three defendants.

PARIS AND U. S. ARE AGREED ON TRADING TRUCE

Premier Herriot to Leave Today Well Pleased With Results.

JUNE SILVER PAYMENT TO SAVE FRANCE THIRD

Consultative Pact Goes Far Toward Solution of Disarmament.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

France's genial envoy, former Premier Edouard Herriot, will leave Washington today on the road back to Paris, carrying with him the following concrete results of his five-day stay here with President Roosevelt:

First, the United States will be glad to receive France's deferred debt payment of last December and will accord a virtual reduction of one-third in the French payments due this June 15, through acceptance of the debt in silver;

Second, hopes for achievement at the disarmament conference are luminous following the tentative understanding between the United States and France on the basis of a consultative pact to enhance France's security;

Tariff Truce Agreed.

Third, the United States and France have practically agreed on a tariff truce between April 27 and June 13, at which date the World Economic Conference will convene in London with similarly bright hopes for definite results.

Certain additional information on the attitude of this Government toward future debt payments was, however, clarified in authoritative statements from high official sources last night. It was declared that while this country will gladly receive the deferred French payment whenever it is made, this payment will have to be made unequivocally and without any contingency clauses attached.

Great Britain made her debt payment of $95,550,000 last December without any special concession and France is expected to act in the same way with her deferred payment of $19,220,000 and her $40,000,000 quota due six weeks hence. However, the fact that Senator Pittman's amendment to the already amended farm relief bill contains provision for payment of the June debts in silver, is tantamount to a reduction of 30 per cent in the value of this sum.

Bargaining Is Decried.

At the same time the notion of bargaining in the Franco-American discussions was emphatically decried. The payment of the debts, as well as the adjustment of tariff inequalities,

Five Get Prison Terms In Reeltown Disorders

Dadeville, Ala., April 27 (A.P.).—Stating that he believed they had been "misled and made victims of bad advice," Judge W. B. Bowling today imposed prison sentences, varying from five to fifteen years, on the five Negroes convicted of assault with intent to murder in connection with the Reeltown disorders last December 19.

Irvin Schwab, defense attorney employed by the International Labor Defense, filed notice of appeal.

3.5 ANNUITIES CUT VOTED BY HOUSE GROUP

Deductions Would Go On Until Age of 68 Is Reached.

MANDATORY 30-YEAR CLAUSE IS RULED OUT

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The House Deficiencies Appropriations subcommitte late yesterday decided to make 3½ per cent deductions from annuities paid 30-year Federal employes under retirements authorized in the pending independent offices supply bill.

Modifying the original Budget Bureau recommendation, making separation from the service mandatory after 30 years, the subcommittee determined to leave retirements to the direction of the administrative heads of departments.

Deductions would be made from annuities of retired employes at the rate of 3½ per cent until the retired worker reached the age specified for his class under the retirement act, 60, 63 or 68.

Redraft Believed Complete.

Although House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan declined to divulge the results of yesterday's subcommittee session, it was learned on good authority the group completed its redraft of the retirement section.

Department heads, it was understood, would retire 30-year workers wherever it was necessary to keep within appropriations.

The mechanics of the procedure, including selection of employes for retirement, whether on the basis of efficiency or health considerations or both, would be left to the determination of department heads.

The language was so phrased that retired employes might be called back into the service if needed, with the proviso that annuities cease during the period of reemployment.

Illustration of Reduction.

As an illustration of how the annuity deductions would work out under the committee's plan, a worker retired after 30 years of service at the age of 50, who was authorized to retire under the present law at 68, would lose 3½ per cent of his annuity for 18 years.

On the other hand, should an employe be within two or three years of the age fixed for retirement under the present act, his 3½ per cent annuity deductions would stop as soon as the legal age was reached.

Some members of the subcommittee suggested that the plan be extended to employes with less than 30 years' service, but this proposal was said to have been sidetracked.

Banking Swindle Sends Town Founder to Prison

Borger, Tex., April 27 (A.P.).—A. P. Borger, founder of this city and former president of the defunct Borger State Bank, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment today on a charge of accepting deposits knowing that the bank was in a failing condition. The bank closed January 11. Depositors have received nothing since.

Society Woman Wins Suit Against Island Cult Chief

Canadian Court Gives $37,000 Judgment on Mrs. Mary Connally's Testimony She Was Induced to Give Up All Her Worldly Possessions.

Nanaimo, British Columbia, April 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary Connally, former Asheville, N. C., society woman, has won a suit for $37,000 against the missing leader of an island cult in which she said once-wealthy persons were induced to give up all worldly possessions.

Chief Justice Aulay Morrison of the supreme court awarded Mrs. Connally the full amount of her claim against Amiel de Valdez, otherwise known as Edward A. Wilson and "Brother XII," the leader of the colony.

Mrs. Connally testified "Brother XII" and his companion and secretary, Zura de Valdez, disappeared recently and that the cult, with headquarters on the British Columbia Gulf of Georgia, had disbanded.

Saying she had left a life of ease to follow the leadership of Wilson, Mrs. Connally related all had gone well at the colony, known as the Cedar-by-the-Sea Foundation, for a time. She said the movement boasted a membership of 8,000 and included persons of wealth and prominence, among them the late Will Levington Comfort, American author.

Later, she said, she turned over to "Brother XII" approximately $35,000 for the purchase of two islands, known as Valdez and De Courcey, for the colony.

Finally, Mrs. Connally testified, through "mental domination," she was compelled after her money was exhausted, to plow a 3-acre field, carry wood and scrub floors. "Brother XII" then departed with two women companions, she declared. They were reported to have sailed for England on a fishing smack.

In aiding her case, witnesses testified forts were built on one island under the direction of "Brother XII," and men armed with rifles were assigned to guard them. Others told of personal sufferings and of having been defrauded of money.

IOWA JUDGE DRAGGED OUT OF COURT BY MOB IN MORTGAGE BATTLE

Bonus March Delayed As Leadership Splits

Foulkrod Announces Temporary Abandonment of Second Trek Following White House Parley; Albright Opposes Move.

As announced plans for a second bonus march on Washington were temporarily abandoned yesterday, a dark cloud of contention loomed in the ranks of former B. E. F. leaders. Some held that the time is now ripe for another descent on the Capital, while others urged their "buddies" to stay away—for the good of the cause.

A White House conference between Louis Howe, one of the President's secretaries, and Harold B. Foulkrod, legislative representative of last year's bonus army, resulted late yesterday in cancellation of the proposed march for at least two weeks. Foulkrod, instigator of the new drive, seemed pleased with results of the conference and announced his plans were off pending another audience with the President or his secretary.

The bonus leader was accompanied to the White House by John H. Newlin, adjutant of the B. E. F., and several other officials of the encampment last year. At the conference, which lasted for more than an hour, the viewpoints of both sides were discussed, and Howe promised to lay their plight before the Veterans' Administration and others connected with relief work among former service men.

Meanwhile, as the matter was discussed pro and con among members of Congress, Ernest Albright, leader of the Oklahoma unit of B. E. F. members, issued a formal appeal to veterans in all sections of the country urging them not to join a new march on Washington.

In his statement, approved by Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, and Representatives Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, and John Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, Albright declared:

"I urge upon all buddies who are really sincere and want to see the bonus paid, to think carefully before joining any movement which will hurt our cause. I can not see where leaders of the movement expect to aid our cause by another march on Washington."

An official Presidential message, urging 500,000 employers throughout the country voluntarily to add one employe to their pay rolls on June 1, was requested of President Roosevelt last night, in a resolution adopt-

Rope Put Around Neck to Compel Promise.

JURIST DEFIES 100 FARMERS

Left Partly Conscious, Grease Smeared and Bleeding.

Le Mars, Iowa, April 27 (A.P.). A crowd of more than 100 farmers late today dragged District Judge Charles C. Bradley from his courtroom, slapped him, carried him blindfolded in a truck to a cross-roads a mile from here, put a rope around his neck, choked him until he was only partly conscious, smeared grease on his face and stole his trousers.

The abduction occurred after the judge had refused to swear he would sign no more farm mortgage foreclosures.

The story of the abduction was related by a news correspondent who accompanied the farmers and who remained with Judge Bradley throughout the entire affair.

Shortly after 4 p. m., the farmers entered the judge's courtroom to discuss with him hearings which are to determine the constitutionality of two new laws relating to mortgage foreclosures.

Told to Remove Hats.

The judge requested them to take off their hats and to stop smoking.

"This is my court," he said.

The farmers rose in reply to his demands, dragged him off the bench, slapped him and shook him, and carried him bodily out of the courtroom, through the lobby of the courthouse, and onto the lawn.

There they demanded that he "swear" not to sign any more foreclosure actions. Judge Bradley, about 60, defied the crowd and was roughly handled some more.

Many Wear Masks.

When he persisted in refusing to give the oath, the farmers, most of whom were masked, loaded the blindfolded judge into a truck, climbed in behind him and carried him away. At a crossroads about 1 mile southeast of Le Mars, they put a rope around his neck, the witness related, and repeated their demands. The judge still refused, and one of the farmers tugged on the inch rope.

Judge Bradley fell, only partly conscious but still refusing to comply with the demands, the witness said. The farmers dragged the judge to his feet, carried him to the side of the road and threw the loose end of the rope over a sign.

"Make him get down on his knees and pray," one of the farmers shouted.

The judge was pushed to his knees, and declared:

"I will do the fair thing to all men to the best of my knowledge."

One of the farmers removed a hub cap from a nearby truck, partly filled with oil and placed it on the judge's head. The oil and grease ran down his face as farmers threw dirt which stuck to the oil.

The farmers removed the judge's trousers and filled them with dirt, then drove off, leaving the begrimed

CONTEMPT FUGITIVE AND TRIO DIE OF GAS

Mrs. Genevieve Clark, Mate and Two Children Found Dead.

St. Paul, April 27 (A.P.).—An automobile containing the bodies of four persons, including one tentatively identified as Mrs. Genevieve Clark, Minneapolis woman, under sentence for contempt of Federal court, was found tonight 15 miles south of here in Scott County.

The bodies were those of a man, woman and two children and indications were the four apparently had died from monoxide gas poisoning.

The bodies of Mrs. Clark and the two children were found in the back seat. A blanket was thrown over Mrs. Clark's head. Clark's body was in the front seat.

The identification was made by Dr. F. H. Perrin, of Prior Lake, from pictures of the family seen in newspapers.

Mrs. Genevieve Clark, believed to be the woman mentioned in the above dispatch, was sentenced to prison for failing to notify the court that she was a former employe of Wilbur B. Foshay, Minneapolis millionaire, when she was called as a juror in Foshay's trial on fraud charges. Mrs. Clark held out for acquittal against the votes of the eleven male jurors for conviction, and a mistrial resulted. Later Mrs. Clark's status as a former employe of Foshay became known and she was tried and sentenced for contempt of court.

A month ago the United States Supreme Court denied her appeal from the sentence, and two days ago a bench warrant was issued in Minneapolis for her arrest to begin serving her sentence.

Island Blows Up Off Alaskan Coast

20 Miles Across, It Vanishes as Earthquakes Are Felt in Area.

Anchorage, Alaska, April 27 (U.P.). Reports here tonight said that St. Augustine Island, off Kamishak Bay, had blown up and disappeared below the waters of the Pacific Ocean.

St. Augustine Island is about 20 miles across and is situated between the tip of the Kenai Peninsula, scene of severe earthquakes Wednesday and today, and the Aleutian Peninsula.

Anchorage, Alaska, April 27 (A.P.). Southern Alaska continued today to be rocked by earth shocks following several jolts here and at Seward and other points yesterday afternoon which were described as "the worst in 30 years."

Shocks of varying intensity were felt here throughout last night. The first one stopped clocks at 4:55 p. m. yesterday. Apparently running in a north-south direction, the shocks have been felt approximately every hour since yesterday.

SENATE UNIT TO ASK D. C. FUND INCREASE

Committee Reports Today Its Recommendation for Budget Additions.

The Senate District appropriations subcommittee will report to the full committee at 10:30 this morning its recommendations for liberalizing 1934 District appropriations voted by the House.

Meanwhile, District officials, headed by Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer, yesterday called on House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan in an effort to elicit House support for the moderate Senate appropriations increases.

Accompanied by District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan and George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, the local group is said to have pointed out to Mr. Buchanan and Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, former chairman of the District subcommittee, the urgencies of the local unemployment situation.

The District supply bill to be reported to the full Senate Appropriations Committee today is said to carry $250,000 more for 1934 relief than the House allowed. Both Buchanan and Cannon were told the additional funds must be appropriated if needs are to be met.

The Senate District appropriations subcommittee is expected to recommend a Federal lump sum of $6,250,000 and additional funds for health activities, and new school and bridge construction.

Berlin, April 27 (A.P.).—Hermann Goering, cabinet minister without portfolio and Premier of Prussia, tonight announced the formation of a "secret state police" department in the state.

The department will be under the command of Capt. Goering and will be charged with combating bolshevism and other subversive forces.

Swindles by 'Higrading' Come Back With Mines

Boulder, Colo., April 27 (A.P.).—Increased mining activities, Sheriff George Richart said today, has brought about a revival of a racket known to veteran mining men as "higrading."

The term is applied to thieves who steal pieces of ore from rich veins and conceal them on their persons when leaving a mine.

62 Vienna Reds Seized; May Day Plot Charged

Vienna, April 27 (A.P.).—Sixty-two Communists, including ten leaders of the party, were arrested today and large quantities of illegal propaganda material confiscated.

Authorities said the material indicated the Communists planned serious disturbances May 1, the traditional day for Communist manifestations. Further arrests were expected.

$27,000 Gem Robbery Leaves Victims Trussed

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Two manufacturing jewelers and a visiting salesman were robbed today in a fifth floor office on Canal street, lower Manhattan, of approximately $27,000 worth of gold and precious stones by three armed men who used handcuffs, copper wire and tape to make their victims helpless.

ALL AKRON DEBRIS THOUGHT LOCATED

Wiley Expresses Opinion Work of Reinforcing Ship Had Not Been Finished.

(Associated Press.)

A belief that the entire wreckage of the Akron had been located and testimony that certain structural reinforcements in the airship had not been completed before her last flight were given yesterday to the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

Lieut. Comdr. J. L. Fisher, mooring officer at Lakehurst, who recently returned from salvage operations on the U. S. S. Falcon, told the court that from the observations of divers and wreckage thus far recovered he had become convinced the Akron's hulk had been located.

"Given the time and reasonably good weather," Fisher told the court, "I believe the entire wreckage of the Akron can be recovered."

Evidence that certain reenforcements on the Akron had not been made before the last flight was given by Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, sole surviving officer. Wiley took the stand at the afternoon session, following testimony given in the morning, at his own request, to correct previous testimony he had given on this subject.

Presumed Work Finished.

"I knew of these reenforcements," said Wiley, "and had seen like ones being made on the Akron. As they were not of an urgent nature I had concluded that they had been attended to."

Wiley said, however, that his previous inspections of the Akron had convinced him of the thoroughness of construction, and that he was struck with the fact that no inferior construction or material was getting into the ship.

Earlier in the day, Wiley had been questioned by the court on how his experience with airships compared with that of the German wartime Zeppelin commanders. He replied that he had some 5,000 hours in airships, while some of the German captains of his acquaintance had much less.

Storm Higher Too.

Wiley also testified that perhaps any course taken by the Akron on the night of April 3 would have been as good as any other.

"Did you think of flying over the top of the thunderstorm?" he was asked.

"I did," he replied, "but after being informed of a heavy cloud above 6,000 feet I discarded the idea."

He said he thought the Akron could have reached a maximum altitude of 11,000 feet with her ballast and fuel aboard, but as storms in that area had been known to "reach altitudes of more than 12,000 feet he didn't think it advisable."

France, Pleased by Parley, Fears Trouble in Congress

Paris Wonders Whether Roosevelt Can Swing Capitol Hill Into Line on Disarmament and War Debts; Gold Return Hoped For.

Paris, April 27 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt's ability to swing Congress into line regarding war debts and disarmament was the chief concern today of the French press, in reporting Premier Edouard Daladier's preparations for paying the defaulted French debt installment to America.

Developments in Washington generally impressed newspapers and official circles alike, wherein great attention was accorded the possibility that the installment may be paid when Edouard Herriot returns from his talks in Washington.

The initiative in paying the $19,000,000 due the United States last December 15 now depends on what M. Herriot can produce from the White House conversations which will satisfy parliament that a moratorium will be granted for the duration of the world economic conference.

Financial quarters today attributed a recent decrease in gold held by the Bank of France to British purchases and discounted the idea of private hoarding. The gold coverage for the week ended April 21 increased from 77.57 per cent to 77.69 per cent. The leading financial paper, L'Information, said that "the technical situation of the franc thus appears to be more solid than ever."

A Franco-British financial agreement, said to involve a temporary loan to France of a portion of the francs in the large British equalization fund, is still hanging fire, it was reliably reported.

The arrangement—described in London as a "bookkeeping" measure with no widespread ramifications—is believed to involve a loan of 2,000,000,000 francs (about $86,000,000) at 2¼ per cent interest.

Some opposition developed today in parliamentary circles, which fear that French financial independence will be lost by the agreement. It was considered likely the question may come before the parliamentary financial committee.

"In the present state of affairs," said Finance Minister Georges Bonnet today, "we must neglect no effort to help realize stabilization of other moneys, which is an essential condition to the return of confidence and the end of the world crises."

The statement was made in connection with the loan plan, it is believed, under which the money would be loaned the French Treasury to tide over the current need. France wants both the United States and Great Britain to return to the gold basis.

LUMBERMEN FIGHT BLACK 30-HOUR BILL

Measure Opposed as Hurtful to Employment; All Officers Reelected.

Opposition to the Black bill limiting labor to 30 hours per week in manufacturing industries was voiced by the National-American Wholesale Lumber Association before adjournment of its forty-first annual meeting in the Hotel Mayflower yesterday.

Enactment of the bill would "instead of increasing employment greatly decrease it by shutting down mills," it was stated in the resolutions passed. The association asked that the lumber industry be excluded from provisions of the legislation, in order that its members could negotiate with foreign interests on an equal basis.

The association voted to act in concert with the National Lumber Manufacturing Association in hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission, seeking a general reduction in freight rates.

The entire slate of officers, headed by Max Myers, president, of Cleveland, was reelected. New directors chosen for varying terms included: Harry N. Anderson, of Aberdeen, Wash.; L. K. Creason, of Kansas City, Mo.; J. A. Currey, of New York City; C. A. Goodman, of Marinette, Wis.; R. C. Pepper, of Springfield, Mass.; W. H. Schuette and O. H. Babcock, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; R. P. Shannon, of Vancouver, British Columbia; John C. Shepherd, of Charlotte, N. C.; Horace F. Taylor, of Buffalo, N. Y.; J. R. Thames, of Birmingham, Ala.; J. W. McClure, of Memphis, Tenn.; E. B. DeVoe, of Spokane, Wash., and Otis N. Johnson, of San Francisco.

Savannah Lawyer To Get Legal Post

Guy T. Helvering Leading Entry for Internal Revenue Place.

Stella Akin, a Savannah (Ga.) attorney, is due to be named to a post in the Department of Justice, while the new Commissioner of Internal Revenue will be appointed probably today, it was learned yesterday in informed circles.

Guy T. Helvering, of Kansas, is the leading contender for the Internal Revenue post, with another candidate, Robert Gore, slated to be governor of Puerto Rico. With the commissioner selected, the appointment of internal revenue collectors in the various districts can go ahead. These appointments have been held up pending a choice of the commissioner. Helvering was formerly Representative from Kansas, while Gore is a newspaper publisher and was active in the campaign.

Warren Delano Robbins has been virtually chosen as Minister to Canada, but his appointment has been held up because of the visits of distinguished foreigners to Washington. Robbins, who is chief of the protocol division of the Department of State, has been engaged in handling the formal reception and entertainment of the foreign statesmen.

Camden Man Kills Son and Himself

Once-Rich Manufacturer Is Said to Have Brooded About Losses.

Camden, N. J., April 27 (A.P.).—George Schick, 48, once-wealthy Camden manufacturer, shot and killed his 22-year-old son, George, jr., today and then committed suicide in their apartment, police said.

Authorities said they learned from relatives Schick had been brooding over loss of his business, a machine company, in January, 1932.

Reconstructing the shooting, police said the son was shot as he slept. The father then went to his own room, placed the muzzle of the shotgun in his mouth and pushed the trigger with a screw driver, authorities said.

Catholic U. and Society To Get Bulk of Estate

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The Catholic University, of Washington, D. C., and the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, of Baltimore, receive the bulk of the estate of George V. A. McCloskey, attorney, whose will was filed for probate today.

A bequest of $10,000 was made to the society and the residue went to the Catholic University, with the exception of $3,500 set aside for publication of the attorney's poetic works. A nominal value of more than $10,000 was placed upon the estate.

PROFIT BY DOHERTY OF $17,748,032 TOLD

Federal Trade Quiz Reveals He Gained 1,000,000 Votes in Deal.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission was told yesterday that Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, in March, 1929, realized a $17,748,032 profit by sale of 200,000 shares of Cities Service Co. common stock, while almost simultaneously increasing his control in the company by 1,000,000 votes.

This testimony was given by Dr. Thomas W. Mitchell, examiner economist, in presenting a detailed study of the operations of Cities Service Utilities Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Cities Service Co.

The sale of 200,000 shares at the then high market prices, said Mitchell, "offered Mr. Doherty an opportunity to put his personal affairs in order and at the same time to realize a large profit by selling this portion of his holdings."

The sale, he said, was shown by the income tax return of Henry L. Doherty, of which Doherty was "sole proprietor," to have brought $20,500,000 for the shares, whose cost was listed at $2,751,967.

He said company representatives assigned as reason for the sale that Doherty had been seriously ill with arthritis since some time in 1926 and that he needed the proceeds of the sale to pay off "a large accumulation of personal debts and to provide ready cash with which to pay inheritance taxes" in event of his death so as to safeguard the estate from forced-sale shrinkage.

Ten days prior to the sale of the stock, Mitchell said, the Doherty management took steps toward increasing his voting power in Cities Service 1,000,000 votes. The shares sold represented 40,000 votes.

The sale, however, was not on the market, but directly to Cities Service Securities Co., which held the shares. The transfer was on March 31. Next day, Mitchell said the stock was quoted at 120¾. It dropped somewhat in the next two months and then rose rapidly.

The steps toward giving Doherty greater voting strength involved reclassification of Cities Service common from par value to nonpar with substitution of four shares for one, and the creation of a new class of noncumulative $1 par stock of 1,000,000 shares to be sold to Henry L. Doherty & Co. at par.

The board of directors, Mitchell said, recommended this to the stockholders of Cities Service and the stockholders approved.

"Mr. Doherty was sole proprietor of Henry L. Doherty & Co. so that in that capacity he obtained 1,000,000 votes in place of the 40,000 votes he sold," Mitchell said.

Miss Day Resigns Relief League Job

Illness Forces Secretary to Quit Montgomery County Post.

Resignation of Miss Willie Greene Day as executive secretary of the Montgomery County Social Service League was announced yesterday by Dr. J. W. Bird, president of the league. Miss Day's resignation will become effective June 1. Mrs. Virginia Lee Bennett, case supervisor of the league, will assume Miss Day's duties until a permanent appointment is made, according to Dr. Bird.

Dr. Bird said Miss Day's resignation was the result of the serious illness followed by an operation at Columbia Hospital several days ago. Miss Day was reported as recovering at the hospital, but she will be unable to assume arduous duties for some time. It is understood that she will accept a place with a charity group in Washington upon her recovery.

BRITAIN SIGNS PACT WITH THREE NATIONS

Trade Agreements Arranged With Denmark, Germany and Argentina.

London, April 27 (A.P.).—Trade agreements with Denmark, Argentina, and Germany were announced today by the British government to enlarge Great Britain's foreign markets.

Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, and Julio A. Roca, vice president of Argentina and head of a commercial delegation to Europe, initialed a commercial pact in which "all points of principle" were agreed upon.

Subsequent negotiations in Buenos Aires will deal with tariffs, but authentic reports said the understanding involves a loan by British financial houses aggregating $38,000,000 to run for 20 years.

Under the Anglo-German reciprocal trade and tariff concessions, the United Kingdom granted tariff changes in a limited field in return for the double of quotas for British coal exports to Germany.

The Danish market for British industrial products will be increased by the Anglo-Danish agreement in return for larger quotas for Danish agricultural products in Great Britain.

(Both chamber of the Danish Parliament ratified the treaty today.)

(Associated Press.)

Official reaction in the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement announced yesterday in the House of Commons was slow to find expression here, where the transaction was viewed by students of the situation as a natural and favorable development in the economic relations of the two countries, so closely linked for half a century.

3 Held in Holdup And Theft of Taxi

Suspects Seized by Montgomery Police Identified by Hacker.

Three Negroes, alleged to have held up and robbed a colored taxicab driver of $7 and his taxicab, yesterday were arrested shortly after the robbery by Montgomery County police.

Cris Jackson, 447 O street northwest, was arrested near Rockville by Policeman Paul Watkins, who saw him driving the stolen taxicab toward Rockville. James Poindexter, Chevy Chase, Md., and Charles McCoy, Richmond, Va., were arrested walking along Wilsconsin avenue by Policemen Frank Soper and James S. McAuliffe.

The three men were identified by Bertrial Lewis Ivy, the hacker, 212 S street northwest, as three of the four men who hired his taxicab at Seventh and O streets, in Washington, and took $7 and his cab away from him on Bethesda avenue, in Bethesda, Md. Poindexter and Jackson were charged with larceny and McCoy was held for investigation.

HOLDUP PLOT PAIR'S PASTS INVESTIGATED

Police Seek to Link Boyle and Hansen to Recent Robberies Here.

A searching investigation into the activities of two men arrested early Wednesday as suspects in a thwarted plot to hold up the Washington Savings Bank, 21 Tenth street northwest, was being conducted last night by Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke.

Although it has been definitely established that the pair, Carl W. Hansen, 26, and Thomas Boyle, 29, are known to police authorities in Kansas City, Mo., it was understood that police were attempting to trace their activities in an attempt to account for other robberies and holdups in and around Washington during the last few months.

It was also learned that the men may be connected with a bank robbery in Baltimore, Md., some weeks ago. Boyle, when arrested, was suffering from a gunshot wound in his foot. At least one participant in the Baltimore affair was shot by police in making an escape.

Boyle, alias Charles Elmer O'Neil, and Hansen, alias Arthur Carlson, remained under guard last night for investigation.

PREMIER HERRIOT IS PLEASED WITH CAPITAL VISIT RESULTS

are items in the general program before the executives of the two countries which are to be examined concurrently but apparately.

The actual discussions of intergovernmental debts has been confined to principles. President Roosevelt had in turn explored the debt situation with Prime Minister MacDonald and has now finished similar undertakings with the visiting French statesman. It was emphasized, however, that no definite agreements have been made, either for stabilization of currency or tariff agreements or still less debt understandings. The debts are regarded as far less of a menace to understanding at the world economic conference than many people imagine. That conference can be a success and probably will be a success, even if the debt problem is eliminated from the discussions or left behind as unfinished business.

M. Herriot received the press last night in the Hotel Mayflower and announced his satisfaction with the achievements of his conversations with the President. He attached particular importance to his contacts with members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

U. S. Senate Power Cited.

"The American Senate—the greatest and most powerful legislative body in the world since the days of the Roman Senate," he mused last night aloud. Then he added with an engaging smile:

"And believe me, I know senators. I was one myself in my younger days in France." And he smiled at his sally because the French Senate is august and octogenarian in its character.

However, the former premier declared that he is not taking back to Paris with him any definite understandings or agreements. That will be for the world economic conference. However, there has been a marked improvement in the general atmosphere since the beginning of the Roosevelt-MacDonald-Herriot conversations. The premier admitted that at one time last week, things looked so dark for the conference that there was doubt that it would ever be held. Now the date has been fixed and the most auspicious signs hover around its announcement.

Tariff Truce Agreed.

Another favorable sign for the outcome of the London conversations is in the tariff truce, which was yesterday practically agreed on by the Secretary of State and the French delegates. This was, in effect, the same proposal that the Secretary had made when he was in the Senate two years ago, but its adoption at this time has an appropriateness and an effectiveness that will go far in creating the necessary good will and cooperation to make the conference a success.

The President is expected to embody in his special message to Congress suggestions for dealing with the June 15 debt payments. Any possibility that the President would request a moratorium was violently decried last night, and it was reiterated that this Government expected the June 15 payments to be met even without any special facilities. The President will be equipped, however, to meet any failure to pay by the special emergency tariff fixing powers Congress will endow him with before the economic conference.

Britain Has the Silver.

The silver solution to the war debt problem was a proposal of Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who has an exhaustive knowledge of the silver problem, which he has studied in the Far East as well as in the silver regions of this country. He pointed out to the British Prime Minister, as well as to the French premier at the White House Tuesday night, that more than one-half of the countries of the world are on silver and to neglect this basis of commercial agreement at this moment, would be as uneconomical as it would be unjust. Britain is owed approximately $90,000,000 in silver from her Indian markets and this sum, if received here in lieu of the British debt due June 15, would alleviate the burden of the British debt payment on that date.

Apropos of the debt negotiations, it was revealed yesterday that an American, believed to be William C. Bullitt, now special assistant to the Secretary of State, had returned from a trip abroad several months ago and told some of the members of President Roosevelt's staff on his return that France was willing to pay the debt and was only searching for some "new fact" which would enable the chamber to reopen the negotiations and make the payment. Such an opening could not be made by this Government in fairness to Great Britain, although there was considerable unofficial satisfaction at the metamorphosis of public and official opinion in Paris.

Communique Due Today.

It was announced that a formal communique summing up the results of the Roosevelt-Herriot conversations of the last few days would be made today before the departure of the French statesman for New York. He will return to Paris on the same boat he arrived on, the Ile de France.

The White House conversations will continue with Canadian Prime Minister Richard Bedford Bennett, who is now the guest of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Likelihood of a special tariff treaty between the United States and its second-best customer was expected as the result of the talks. This treaty would be outside of the general tariff agreements of the London conference and would be in the nature of the reciprocal understandings sought after by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Joint Statement.

The President and the prime minister yesterday stated they had found the exchange of views "very helpful." The joint statement said:

"The Prime Minister of Canada and the President have discussed further the program of the world economic conference and related questions of trade policy in which these two neighboring governments have an important and immediate concern.

"They have found this exchange of views very helpful.

"Present also was the Canadian Minister, the Secretary of State and Assistant Secretary of State, Raymond Moley."

30-Hour Week Is Proposed For Government Workers

Representative Mary T. Norton Launches Study of Federal Statistics and Employe Sentiment Preparatory to Introducing Bill in Congress.

A study of Federal employe statistics, looking to legislation placing Government workers on a 30-hour week, was launched yesterday by Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey.

Should she find that conditions justify it, Mrs. Norton said she would introduce a bill to bring the Government establishment within the five-day week.

She said it is her idea that the Government should lead the way in short-work-week legislation, but she does not intend to press the matter unless she finds Federal employe sentiment is with her.

The New Jersey representative indicated definitely that her proposal would be embodied in separate legislation and would not be offered as an amendment to the Black 30-hour week bill.

If she decides to sponsor the measure, she said she would seek its enactment at this special session. Government employes generally are in favor of the five-day week, local surveys have shown, providing they do not have to pay the cost of it out of their salaries.

UPRISING OF LABOR FORESEEN BY WOLL

Threat Is Voiced as House Group Studies Secretary Perkins' Plan.

(Associated Press.)

A threat of an uprising by wage earners and a demand that industry be allowed to run its own affairs were put before the House Labor Committee yesterday in an effort to bring modification of Secretary Perkins' plan for Federal control of wages, production and hours of work.

The threat was by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who said that if male workers withdrew their opposition to minimum-wage legislation, they "may well understand that they have again become serfs, not under domination of employers as such, but to the Nation."

"If that be the purpose of this proposed legislation," he added, "labor might well consider massing its power and influence solely in the political and revolutionary field."

Opposes Minimum Wage.

He restated organized labor's outright opposition to Federal establishment of a minimum wage and insisted that unless 30-hour-week rules were applied to imports the proposed bill would discriminate against American industries.

Industry's demand for freedom to run its own business came from Henry L. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, representing the 1,500 organizations that are its members.

Doubts Plan's Validity.

The principles of shorter hours, fair minimum wages and production control, advocated by Secretary Perkins, are fine, Harriman testified, but referring to the Black bill recently passed by the Senate, he said:

"These objectives can be obtained without the rigidity of Senator Black's measure and without governmental boards provided for in Miss Perkins' bill."

Like other manufacturers, he implied doubt as to the constitutionality of the Perkins plan, and asked that industries be left to bring about the proposed reforms through agreements among themselves, in conferences with labor and the Government.

GLASS DENOUNCES INFLATION AS FEDERAL RESERVE PERIL

out of the facilities of those institutions to accommodate trade."

He was unhappy and extremely reluctant to leave the party and the President on the question. "I have not deserted my party!" He was distressed by the thought of taking a stand publicly against "the occupant of the White House, whom I love and respect, and who has shown unexampled courage."

But—"I wrote with my own hand that provision of the national Democratic platform which declared for a 'sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.'"

The suggestion for revalorization of the dollar appeared to Senator Glass a matter of "national repudiation."

"To me it means dishonor! To my conception, it is immoral! * * * It is a contravention not only of my party's platform, but of the promises of the party spokesman during the campaign."

Holds Bonds Unmarketable.

Debate on the Reed motion to strike out the gold provision was under a unanimous consent agreement which, in effect, limited each senator to half an hour. Senator Reed opened for the sound-money minority with an earnest plea for a consideration of the existing uncertainty in business and finance. He said that on last Wednesday the city of Boston had offered $3,000,000 in municipal bonds, "and did not receive a single bid at any rate of interest."

"It is practically impossible, I am told by men who know, to sell a municipal bond, or more than one or two of them at a time in the city of New York today.

"I would not say what I am about to say did I not see it printed plainly in this morning's New York papers—that there is no market in New York today for bonds of the United States Government, save as an artificial market is provided by the purchases of the Federal Reserve System. * * * If this bill passes in its present form, Mr. President, with a power in the President of the United States to debase the currency by lowering the gold content of the dollar, or to indulge in the unlimited free coinage of silver at some ratio to be fixed by him, those powers will hang like a cloud over the markets. No man will dare contract for future business; no one will dare to buy a bond payable in the future; no one will dare to agree to build a house or a locomotive, or to build any machinery for future payment—because he does not know in what medium the payment will come. * * * I do not believe that prosperity can be created by legislation, but I do believe that prosperity can be destroyed by legislation."

"Act of National Dishonor."

Senator Fess (Republican), of Ohio, characterized revalorization as "an act of national dishonor" not far removed from "highway robbery."

"It would be writing perfidy over the brow of this great Government."

Nor is inflation, as Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, had suggested, a blow at the wealthy, Senator Fess added.

"The degradation of the reichsmark absolutely destroyed the entire middle class of Germany."

In America, as everywhere, inflation has been tried, the worker would take the rap, he asserted.

Senator Robinson (Republican), of Indiana, said that with the bank holiday, veteran cuts and wage reductions there had been approximately $11,000,000,000 of deflation in the United States since March 1, and that the total number of unemployed in the country had increased by 500,000 to approximately 13,000,000. For his own part, he feared "catastrophe and chaos in this country before the middle of summer."

Long Decries Alarms.

Senator Huey Long, the Louisiana Democrat who styles himself the "original inflationist in this heah body," said his Republicans colleagues—and a few constitutionally perverse Democrats, as well—were voicing childish alarms that the bonus rider certainly would head off whatever potential disaster might lay in the inflation measure.

"We people of progressive ideals want to see this money out circulating among the folks. * * * We all know it was a mistake to lay the ax on the veterans."

Lapsing unconsciously for an instant to the gestures and delivery of the Louisiana medicine man, Huey exhorted the Senate, "This inflation, Mr. President, is good anyway you take it!"

He added it was only the beginning of "an inflation which will be worldwide from top to bottom."

Glass Denies "Desertion."

Senator Glass said he rose merely for the purpose of "briefly indicating my objections to the measure."

He objected to newspaper reports which had characterized his disagreement with President Roosevelt as sensational.

"The implication is, of course, that any senator who now preserves his intellectual integrity and consistently maintains the views which he has privately and publicly expressed for many years, is creating a sensation. I have not deserted my party. I wrote with my own hand that provision of the national Democratic platform which declared for a 'sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.'"

He recalled that in the campaign he had rebuked Messrs. Hoover and Mills "with all the righteous indignation that I could command" for the Des Moines statement that early in 1932 the United States was within two weeks of being pushed off the gold standard. No less than 5,000 telegrams reached him after that radio address.

"The first telegram in the first bound volume is one from Franklin Delano Roosevelt, now President of the United States, who said the speech was to him an inspiration. In his public utterances at Brooklyn and other places he textually commended that part of the speech which so bitterly criticized his political adversary and competitor for suggesting that this country was in imminent danger of going off the gold standard. This simple recital will indicate that I have not deserted anybody or any party in opposing this bill. I am simply consistently maintaining an attitude of earnest conviction on public questions, which is more important to me than the favor of party or potentate."

Mr. Glass then took up the bill, section by section.

"I object to the first section of the bill because, as I said yesterday, it creates the Federal Reserve Bank System into a servile agency of the Treasury Department. It was not instituted for that purpose."

Reserve System Purpose.

He traced the history of the reserve system from its inception, concluding it was established "not to finance the public indebtedness of the United States Government but to respond to the requirements of the tradesmen, of the industry, and of the agricultural interests of the country—the agricultural interests being given precedence in the maturity of their paper."

Open-market operations already have "utterly choked up the Federal Reserve Banks" with Government bonds. And this diversion of resources from commercial credits to budgetary deficits explains in large measure the shocking restriction of bank loans during the last year, in Senator Glass' view.

"Really Is Deflation."

The reserve system can not continue this absorption of Government obligations "without utterly demoralizing the entire bond market of the United States; and yet we have here a proposition to accentuate that disastrous condition and further imperil the reserve system by adding $3,000,000,000 more of United States bonds to its portfolio.

"What does that mean to the business interests of the country? It means that in just that measure the Federal Reserve Banks of the United States will be unable to accommodate their members banks, and in just that measure their member banks will be unable to accommodate trade. That is what it means! It does not mean inflation. It means deflation! * * *

"Why, we have literally destroyed the mortgage bond market of this country. The Federal Land Banks, with all the millions of assistance the Government has given them, can not sell their tax-exempt bonds today—not to save their life. There is no market for them. We have destroyed the mortgage bond market.

"We are proceeding upon the assumption that nobody hereafter will want credit or need it; that farmers hereafter will not want credit or need it—because we are destroying credit and have already largely done so."

As for the theory of inflation, Senator Glass could not see how anybody ever could be better off with two 50-cent dollars next week instead of one 100-cent dollar today.

England did not raise domestic prices by leaving gold, he insisted.

Mellon Denies Attempt To Halt Inflation Plan

(Associated Press.)

Andrew Mellon, former Ambassador to Great Britain and former Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday denied charges made in the Senate that he had actively interested himself in trying to defeat President Roosevelt's pending inflation legislation.

Mr. Mellon, who returned to his home in Washington yesterday, said he did not want to be understood as indorsing currency inflation, proposed silver legislation, proposals to issue fiat money or reduce the gold content of the dollar.

He said there were parts of the administration program, such as the gold embargo and continuance of the Government's open market policy, which were justifiable and he hoped would have a beneficial effect.

GUARDIANS DIVIDED IN REYNOLDS BATTLE

Bank and Family of Little Ann Can Not Agree on Estate's Division.

Concord, N. C., April 27 (A.P.).—Coguardians of Ann Cannon Reynolds 2d, disagreed in court today as to the proper method of settling the estate of her father, Smith Reynolds, and questioned the legality of a proposed agreement whereby Ann and her half-brother, the infant son of Libby Holman Reynolds, would each receive $2,000,000.

The first wife of the youthful tobacco heir, Mrs. Ann Cannon Reynolds Smith, now the wife of a Charlotte realtor, sat with her husband and parents through the reading of lengthy legal papers until 5 p. m., when Judge Wilson Warlick recessed court until tomorrow at 9 a. m. Affidavits and arguments remained to be heard.

Estate Badly Tangled.

One of these affidavits, A. L. Brooks, of Greensboro, attorney for the Cannon family, said, will be by Mrs. Smith in support of the contention of her mother, Mrs. Annie L. Cannon, that no effort should be made to set aside a trust fund established for little Ann before her father's death.

The Cabarrus Bank & Trust Co., coguardian with Mrs. Cannon of the 2-year-old girl, petitioned Judge Warlick to order Mrs. Cannon to join it in an effort to have set aside a pre-divorce settlement, in which Ann's rights to her father's estate were renounced for $500,000.

Mrs. Cannon refused on the ground that her granddaughter already had the $500,000 trust fund and, under a recent agreement, would be given an additional $1,500,000.

$15,000,000 for Charity?

Under this same agreement, Libby Holman Reynolds' baby would be given $2,000,000, in order that the children might share equally. In addition, Benet Polinkoff, attorney for Mrs. Reynolds, said the former Broadway favorite would be given more than $500,000." The remainder of the estate, estimated at $15,000,000, would be used to establish a charitable foundation.

The bank contended that no one had the right to sign away the rights of Ann, and that the settlement Smith Reynolds made with his first wife shortly before they were divorced should be set aside. It also contended the remainder of the estate should not be used for charitable purposes, but that the two children should share equally.

LINK IS SEEN IN KIRK AND HENDLER CASES

Kidnaping Suspect Will Be Questioned on Bombing of Spinster's Car.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Federal authorities expressed the opinion today that the death of Ida Kirk at Leonardtown, Md., last January might be linked to the recent attempt of kidnapers to extort $7,500 from L. Manuel Hendler, Baltimore ice cream manufacturer.

Hendler's son, Albert, was abducted and returned a day later. A letter mailed from New York April 13 warned the father not to follow Ida Kirk's example of informing authorities of threats against him and his son.

Alvin McK. Sylvester, assistant United States Attorney, planned to question Lucian Pesco, of Johnstown, Pa., about the Kirk case, but was in conference all day with postal inspectors. Pesco is being held in connection wth the Hendler kidnaping in default of $15,000 bail.

Authorities declined to say what progress they made in the investigation today, but said they had learned that Pesco acknowledged that Dominick Perroni, to whom Hendler was ordered to address the ransom, was formerly his roommate.

All phases of Pesco's career are being investigated. Authorities said he had been arrested only once before and then on a misdemeanor charge.

4 Still at Large After Jail Escape

Two Killers in Quartet Which Slid Down Rope at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, April 27 (A.P.).—Sneering defiance at the law, four members of the Maug gang—two of them convicted killers—escaped from Western Penitentiary today and are still at large.

Led by John Maug, generalissimo of the mob, and Edward Turpack, both serving life terms plus 60 to 120 years for the slaying of Vernon (Port) Moses, Ross township constable, the group stalked over the roof of the penitentiary early today and slid down a rope 80 feet to the street.

Besides Maug and Turpack, police throughout Western Pennsylvania and parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky are tonight watching for Freddie Prince, known as "The Pock-Marked Bandit," sentenced to 15 to 30 years for a series of robberies. The fourth fugitive is Theodore Joseph Geisler, serving from 20 to 40 years for robbery.

Bonus Army Leader Back; For Hoover and MacArthur

But John Alferi Has Not Changed His Mind About Payment.

JOHN ALFERI.

John Alferi, 44-year-old World War veteran, who claims to be the first bonus marcher, is in town for the first time since the evacuation of the tatterdemalion army of '32.

Discounting the feasibility of a new bonus march, Alferi said that wherever he had met veterans on his 5,000 mile roundabout trek here from Los Angeles, his home town now, he had advised against such a course. Alferi traveled here by blind baggage.

Alferi brands as unjustified claims that former President Hoover's action in moving the bonus army out of the Capital with military forces was "brutal." He said that he believed the President acted entirely in fairness to all concerned.

The Italian-American, who served 23 months overseas with an Engineer outfit, declared that the bonus encampment here had become a "racket" by July, 1932, and that all veterans should have left by June 15 of that year. He said he was in the Pennsylvania avenue camp when the tear gas was first turned on.

Alferi also paid tribute to Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who commanded the evicting military on July 28 last. The veteran said the chief of staff of the Army had donated considerable money to feed the bonus seekers when they first came here and had been their friend. Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, said Alferi, helped the "racket" by acting as treasurer of the B. E. F.

Alferi, however, still seeks the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus. He presented a petition for that action yesterday to Representative William E. Evans, of Los Angeles.

The first bonus contingent arrived here in December, 1931, and was led by Alferi. The group came from Philadelphia, which was then Alferi's residence.

ed at a meeting of the Ex-Service Men's National Progressive Democratic League.

The organization, in an open message to the Chief Executive, asked that these employers, in an effort to relieve unemployment among veterans, pay one-third of the regular remuneration during the first month, two-thirds during the second month and full remuneration beginning the third month.

The 500,000 employers, the organization pointed out, represent only a portion of the total in all States. Enactment of the plan, it was declared, would do much toward restoring public confidence and bring about a wider circulation of money.

In presenting the resolution, introduced at the meeting at 2301 Georgia avenue northwest by Ray F. Smythe, the organization urged all veterans to "sit tight" in view of the proposed new march on Washington.

"We take this means of notifying all former service men in the United States, through medium of the press, that it is our conviction that all former service men in the present situation should sit tight and especially keep their heads," the message read.

Lundeen Favors Visit.

The new march, however, was welcomed by Representative Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, of Minnesota. Apparently referring to Albright's statement, Representative Lundeen said there are members of Congress who "will be glad to see the veterans whenever they think best to visit our Capital City."

"Certain Congressmen," his written statement declared, "have been quoted in the press as advising the soldiers to stay away from Washington. I wish to take issue with these gentlemen. I want the veterans of America to know they are welcome."

Foulkrod pointed out that his group had no connection with a proposed march on Washington in May. He said that if his group issued a call for a bonus army march, almost a half million men would respond.

A date for the new march may be fixed within two weeks, Foulkrod declared, as a second White House conference is expected.

Albright pointed to Washington's struggle to feed its own unemployed without any added burden as a factor in his appeal for veterans to remain at home.

He was joined in his appeal by John Alferi, who claims to have led the first bonus march here in 1932. In a trek across country from his home in California, he stopped to urge veterans not to join any proposed movement.

In the first ballot of the judges, Edward T. Keating, Denver, Colo., a junior, was tied with James for second place. After a consultation the judges gave James second honors and Keating extraordinary honorable mention.

U. S. Devotion Seen As Calamity Help

Rev. Smith Says Faith in God Has Saved This Nation Much Suffering.

Tracing the intangible links between the church and the development of the United States, the Rev. Ignatius Smith, professor of philosophy, declared last night that America had been spared many national calamities because of the devotion to God displayed by the Nation throughout its history.

Father Smith spoke before the Converts' League of the Catholic Daughters of America. Many non-Catholics were in the gathering, which is designed in part to provide spiritual society for those not affiliated with a church.

Preceding Father Smith's address, the Rev. Francis X. Cavanagh, chaplain of the court of the District of Columbia, discussed "Fortitude," and the Rev. Aloysius Burggraff, of St. Paul's College, answered questions pertaining to the Catholic Church.

A musical program was rendered by students of Trinity College. Orchestral selections were given under the direction of Miss Bernadette Sheehan; harp solos were presented by Miss Kathryn Mahon, and vocal solos sung by Miss Eileen Gorman and Miss Margaret Conlon, accompanied by Miss Mahon.

GENEVA SEES U. S. OBSTACLE TO WAR

Arms Delegates Believe No Nation Will Dare Fight if America Disapproves.

Geneva, April 27 (A.P.).—The opinion was expressed in disarmament conference circles tonight that, in view of recent developments in the United States, any nation electing to start a war will have no chance for success if America throws her economic and financial forces against a wave of war sentiment.

Norman H. Davis, the American Ambassador at Large, assured the conference steering committee that the United States means to act to increase international security against war, thus ending a movement to adjourn the conversations pending definite announcements as to what the various nations will do on vital questions.

The delegates await precise declarations by Mr. Davis as to just what the United States will do to strengthen the peace machinery.

The opinion was heard that if America decides upon a real plan for outlawing an aggressor nation, the possibilities of wars will be infinitely more remote.

After a day's recess, the conference tomorrow is slated to tackle the delicate problem of reducing armed land, sea and air forces.

STOKOWSKI PROVES NOVEL MUSIC DEVICE

of space through instruments invented by the scientists of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Last night any one listening with his eyes blindfolded could not have been certain that the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra was not present in person on the stage. One felt that a new era had dawned in music. Dr. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the orchestra, spoke of this possibility when he addressed the enthusiastic audience briefly at the close of the program.

It was a novel sight to see Dr. Stokowski, usually a picturesque poetic figure at Philadelphia Symphony concerts with baton leading his master musicians, instead sitting quietly in a rear box manipulating the controls from an instrument board while the orchestra itself, led by Associate Conductor Alexandria Smallens, followed his slightest electrically communicated command on the stage in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. The magic of the spectacle and its tremendous possibilities appealed greatly to the imagination of the audience and every number on the program was followed by rounds of applause.

Stage drops designed in attractive colors and with marvelous scenic effects added to the enjoyment of the numbers by this additional interpretation of the spirit behind the compositions played by the orchestra. The lights were dimmed and it was easy to visualize the scene in Philadelphia as the orchestra played for its distant audience. These designs were by Eugene Savage and George Davidson while the stage direction—through the courtesy of the Yale School of Drama—was by S. R. McCandless.

The program consisted of the Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, by Bach; Beethoven's Symphony, No. 5, in C Minor, L'apres-midi d'un Faune of Debussy and the Finale of Wagner's Gotterdammerung.

During the intermission Dr. Harvey Fletcher, director of acoustical research at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, presented some experiments which demonstrated the important characteristics of the new apparatus.

A workman was heard constructing a box with all the incidental sounds and noises and vocal comments on the stage of the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. So realistic was the effect that the audience almost believed the scene was taking place on the stage before them. Not only were the sounds of sawing, hammering and talking faithfully reproduced, but the correct auditory perspective enabled the listeners to place each sound in its proper position, and to follow the movements of the actors by their footsteps and voices.

While Second Leader Arthur C. Witcomb, of the United States Marine Band, played a trumpet on the stage of Constitution Hall another trumpeter in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia played a few phrases of the same selection. There seemed to be a trumpeter on either side of the stage to the Washington audience, but when the lights were raised there was only the local trumpeter from the Marine Band. This experiment demonstrated the complete fidelity of reproduction and the effect of auditory perspective.

For another demonstration the audience heard a soprano sing "Coming Through the Rye" as she walked back and forth through an imaginary rye field on the stage in Philadelphia. Her vioce was reproduced in Washington with such exact auditory perspective that she might have been strolling on the stage of Constitution Hall.

Other tests to show the volume range possible with the new equipment were made. Throughout the entire range the reproduction was faithful in all respects and the marvellous tone variations possible with it promise a new day in orchestral music.

That use of the new method will mean the bringing of good orchestral music to all parts of the country was pointed out by Dr. Stokowski in his concluding remarks.

STEEL HELMETS GO OVER TO NAZI CAUSE

Veterans Group's Command Turned Over to Hitler by Franz Seldte.

Berlin, April 27 (A.P.).—Franz Seldte tonight turned over the command of the Steel Helmet War Veterans' organization to Chancellor Adolf Hitler, thereby giving the Hitlerites a final victory over their Steel Helmet rivals.

Less expected but no less sensational was Herr Seldte's announcement that he had joined Hitler's Nazi party and had given up his affiliation with the Nationalists. The change was another step toward making the cabinet 100 per cent Nazi.

Seldte, the labor minister, said he saw in the Nazi chieftain "a leader of the German future," and therefore fused the Steel Helmeters with the Nazis.

"Opponents are impossible at present, as are also-rans," said Herr Seldte in relieving his comrades who do not plan to follow him into the Nazi fold from their oath of allegiance.

"I shall cooperate in paving the way to freedom," the erstwhile leader said, appealing to others of the 1,500,000 Steel Helmeters to confess their faith in the chancellor.

"The friendship I sealed with the leader of the Nazis is the realization of your most ardent desires," he said. "German soldiers belong together."

While some sort of affiliation of the war veterans' organization and Hitler was expected, political circles were nevertheless surprised to find the merger so complete, since it was understood that Seldte, in the earlier stages of negotiations for the amalgamation, insisted that the Stahlheim, while following Hitler politically, must remain outside his movement.

Lusk Assails Cost Of Governing D. C.

Urges Cosmopolitan Club Members to Demand Tax Reduction.

Speaking before the Cosmopolitan Club at the Carlton yesterday, Rufus S. Lusk, secretary of the Washington Taxpayers' Protective League, declared that it costs more per capita to govern Washington than any other city in the country. He said the cost here is about $90 per capita per year, which is more than even New York and Philadelphia. He said government costs are as low as $14 per capita in some cities.

Mr. Lusk declared that there has been an intensive increase in the cost of government here during the past ten years. He saw hope in the new appropriations bill, which gives the Commissioners power to adjust taxes downward and urged the club members to unite in a demand for lowered taxes rather than to let a surplus accumulate to be paid into the Treasury.

Resolutions of condolence for the family of the late Patrick J. Hodgins, director general of the International Federation of Cosmopolitan Clubs, who died Wednesday, were adopted.

Nation Seen as Caught Up On Thinking to Cure Crisis

Despite Complex Inflation Proposals and Riots at the Ball Park, America Will Run True to Form, Like a Champion Horse, Is View.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

I have just about decided to wash my hands of the whole gummy business of inflation, farm relief, international debts and so forth and to go to some ball games, convinced that, however much I might worry about it all, that which is going to be is inevitably going to be and that the outcome will be a fairly even compromise between the best hopes and the direst fears of my countrymen. It always has been so, and a champion country, like a champion horse, ought to run fairly true to form.

Down here in Washington journalism consists largely of an effort to make the people think, but now that they are catching up on the thinking which they neglected through all the years of the wonderful nonsense, it does no perceptible good.

But life goes on.

There was a great patriotic debate in the Senate the other afternoon with Mr. Vanderberg, of Michigan, a minor-league publisher in private life and a county-attorney type of orator, up on his feet, swishing his coattails and shooting his cuffs as he viewed with alarm the proposal to dilute the gold dollar. But on the bulletin board in the back-room of the press-gallery, where they stick up little memoranda like "Mr. Wilson, your wife says call her up," and "Mr. Anderson, your horse was scratched," there was a notice reading, "Washington vs. Red Sox, wet grounds."

How do you go about diluting a dollar and what happens then? You're asking me? I am a baseball writer and fight man. How the hell should I know when no two of the statesmen themselves can agree? In fact, no one statesman can agree. How should my colleagues of the Washington set know? Who are they? A lot of graduate rewrite men, telegraph editors, men up from the courthouse beat and night police and the State capitols at Little Rock, Springfield, Hartford and such places.

You read a book about Andrew Jackson, one about Aleck Hamilton, something about Henry George and the works of Claude Bowers, adding to this the gossip derived from a nodding acquaintance with some senators, lobbyists and national committeemen and, before you know what has come over you, you are an expert and when you go to parties pretty ladies push their pretty snoots close up to yours, bat their beautiful trusting eyes and entreat you to tell them all about the depression.

And where did all the money go to? And if they inflate the dollar will I have twice as much money? And if the farmers are growing too much corn and bacon and beefsteak why are people hungry? And if I am broke and they double the dollar will I be twice as broke as I am now? And, oh, you great big, wonderful economic expert!

Worrying about all this seems to do no good. If I thought that a long worry, a strong worry and a worry all together would help out I would stay away from ball-games and concentrate, but I am beginning to learn from past observation that one crisis dissolves into another and my curiosity as to the outcome of these world emergencies is giving way to a fatalistic ease of mind. When this one is fixed up there will be another and when that one has been worried away our citizens will find that they have drifted into some climax having to do with the troubles of the Indian Empire or the drawing of the color line by the New York Prizefight Commission.

This would be a fine time to start a backfire except that the backfire causes unrest, too. Here in Washington, while the statesmen were kicking the gong around on Tuesday afternoon and the fate of nations trembled on the brink of an abyss labeled "Oblivion," a couple of hired ball players got into a fist fight on the town lot, a hundred citizens hopped onto the field and started flogging one another with 54-ounce ball bats and the episode outweighed everything else in the world for two editions of the local papers, including the venerable and reverend Washington Star, the only rival of the Directory of Directors.

So what am I going to do? Does Mr. Roosevelt know the answer? I think Mr. Roosevelt is only trying out his guess, bearing in mind that, even if he goes wrong, his life will not go with it, and that, even if it should, dying might be not so bad compared to living amid the debris.

I don't think the statesmen know. I know the newspaper experts don't know, and I make no pretense that myself, a baseball and prize-fight man, have the faintest idea as to how the dice are going to fall when they quit tumbling around. And, moreover, I am not very curious any more, bearing in mind that as soon as they show their numbers and this great climax in the affairs of the Nation and the world is settled, they will be seized up again, rattled around in the box and chucked out once more to the worriment of another generation.

HOUSE WILL PROBE LOWELL ACT TODAY

Judiciary Committee to Go Into Judge's Release of Ilsley Suspect.

The House Judiciary Committee inquiry into the action of Federal Judge James A. Lowell in freeing the Negro charged with the slaying of two Middleburg, Va., women, will get under way this morning.

A last-minute call for a committee meeting was issued last night by Representative Hatton W. Sumners, Judiciary Committee chairman.

After studying the seven articles of impeachment presented in the House Wednesday by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, Representative Sumners said he would seek to expedite action on the case.

The Texas Democrat indicated his committee will first determine its course of procedure, then examine into questions of fact and law involved.

George Crawford, alleged self-confessed slayer of Mrs. Spencer Ilsley and her maid, was released under a habeas corpus writ by Judge Lowell in Boston Monday. Representative Smith impeached Lowell on the floor of the House Wednesday, and the House immediately afterward directed a House Judiciary Committee investigation into the case.

Representative Smith is unanimously backed by the Virginia House delegation in his effort to discipline Lowell. Senator Byrd, of Virginia, yesterday also came to the support of Smith, declaring the Boston decision "an outrageous miscarriage of justice."

Boston, April 27 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today assured speedy disposition of an appeal taken by the State of Massachusetts to the decision of Judge James A. Lowell in granting habeas corpus to a Negro wanted for murder in Virginia when it set May 23 as the date of hearing.

Judge Lowell granted the writ halting extradition of George Crawford in a decision that brought a storm of protest from Virginians and action to impeach him in Congress. He said ultimate conviction of Crawford in Virginia would be nullified by the Supreme Court because Negroes did not serve on juries in the Southern State. Gov. Joseph B. Ely previously had ordered Crawford extradited.

The Circuit Court will meet in special session at the request of counsel for Crawford and with the approval of Massachusetts authorities, who took the appeal. Judge George H. Bingham set the date for the special session.

Lawyer Probes Case.

William G. Thompson, prominent Boston lawyer and former president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, today said he would investigate facts of Judge Lowell's decision and "if the judge is right," present them to the Bar Association. Thompson contended Judge Lowell had been "outrageously and wrongfully attacked in Congress." Thompson gained wide attention as counsel for the defense in the celebrated Sacco-Vanzetti case.

It was made clear by Thompson that his action was taken without consultation with Judge Lowell.

Meanwhile, Judge Lowell continued silent in the face of criticism from Virginia of his decision.

Gov. Pollard of Virginia said he desired quick action on the appeal, remarking that "as long as this case remains open, it is a menace to the good feeling between sections and races."

Mrs. Clark Denies Plot in Balm Suit

Wife of Man Who Wants $300,000 Replies to "Badger" Charge.

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Funk Clark denied in depositions today that she was guilty of the "badger game" that Judge John R. Caverly suggested in throwing out of court James G. Clark's $300,000 alienation of affections suit against Norman Harris, Chicago banker. Clark's divorced wife gave the depositions before his lawyer, now preparing to lay the same case before a Federal court judge.

Of the charge that there was collusion between husband and wife in seeking damages from Harris, she said "that is horribly unjust and untrue. My husband didn't know about—me and Norman—until Norman himself insisted that I write to him and tell him. Then he came home furiously angry, of course."

She said the alleged financial arrangements between Clark and Harris, basis of the suit thrown out of circuit court here, were made "just to be decent about the whole thing and to soften the blow."

Sims to Propose Placing of Annapolis on Post-Graduate Basis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 27.—A proposal to convert the Naval Academy into a post graduate school, with the proviso that only graduates of accredited colleges shall be eligible for admission, will be the basis of a minority report to be submitted by Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, it became known today when the board of visitors completed the annual inspection of the institution.

Members of the board, which was composed of senators, representatives and civilians, 18 in all, had been here since Monday. A report embracing general conditions and recommendations of needs for the next academic year will be filed with President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Swanson. Admiral Sims headed the list of civilian appointees of the President. He returned to his home in Boston without discussing details of the post graduate proposal. He will prepare his report there and forward it to Washington.

Other findings and recommendations of the official board will not be revealed until they are filed through the customary channels, but it was made known that the group considered the question of extending the academic course from four to six years, and suggested the appointment of a commission to study the matter.

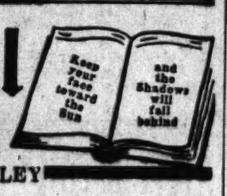
The Federal Diary



By GEORGE D. RILEY

"Surveys Section, Airways.

"Gentlemen: Will you please send us samples of airplane seed?"

If you can imagine great airplanes from little seedlings growing—a trimotored Fokker, a Curtiss, Ford, Stinson or your favorite brand, you'll understand there really is such a thing as "airplane seed," only it's called grass seed.

Arthur Hook, in charge of emergency landing fields, Airways, may yet have to cross a prop with a tail-skid or a strut with a fuselage or manifold with an aerilon to get "airplane seed," but what's the use, as long as the correspondent really wants grass seed, the kind best suited to planting on landing fields?

And would you believe it, as fine as Bermuda grass is for landing fields, it's not being done. Farmers complain that Bermuda may be the world and all to the city folks, but to those in the countryside Bermuda grass grows faster than wild onions and it's toughrooted and spreads like water on the wind shield. And if you've ever hoed you know your grass.

Try this on your own private emergency landing field—clover mixture. Never mind what clover mixture is, it's the stuff for landing fields. And we'd judge it has some clover in it.

And now it is this gold standard business.

First they preserved the credit of the United States of America by cutting our salary. Now they're saving the farmer and the exporter by pushing up the price of things . . . and the cafeteria had no offerings of vegetables at all at a nickel today, and the only nickel sandwiches were little bitty things about the size of the palm of your hand.

Salads were a dime to 20 cents. The lady got a shrimp salad, with six shrimps, count 'em, and two pickles and a cup of coffee for 29 cents. And I got hit worser and worser.

But maybe you're getting tired of this dam cafeteria business. But the people around the department figured that you started something, and dozens of 'em want to get their finger in to help with a squawk.

I am planning to organize a commercial luncheon club, and am open to offers from legitimate restaurants for a special price on a guaranteed volume of business at a specified hour of the day. Mr. Hoover's gag about having cut prices any percentum at all is a big bunch of "bulloney."

CURIOUS to learn why Indian Spring's course is so popular with golfers, we called on George Dilfenbaugh, pro, for some answers to a lot of questions.

George has the task of starting off the 200 entrants in The Federal Diary's first annual golf tournament May 25, when competition for The Washington Post Cup will be the big news of that day.

You know, there've been many battles fought on Indian Spring course and they've not all been golf battles. When they were putting the ground in order for the course they came across many arrowheads, so we'd judge the Indians, not having heard of the grand old game of golf, must have been aiming at enemies with malice aforethought, as our lawyer friends over in Justice would put it.

We noticed the grass tees as well sodded as the fairways. We asked George:

"They don't seem to go in for sand tees to any great extent nowadays, do they?"

"The tendency is all to the grass tees now and the little wooden or celluloid tees. A dentist named Lowell one day, waiting for the rest of his foursome to show up, picked up a bit of wood and fashioned the first wooden tee and now he has quit the practice of dentistry."

We made some observations on how the "land lays," as they say, but we'll hold that for another time. The beautiful rolling effect, with practically every greens approach uphill and, well, today's entrants bring the total to close up to 150, so that there's room yet for about 50 more. Send in your blank. The 50-foursome limit mark may be reached at any time now. Latest entrants:

Went up on the Hill yesterday to visit our personal friend, Senator John H. Bankhead, from Alabama. You know the senator trumped Tom Heflin's ace in 1930.

Imagine our setback when the senator said he reads The Washington Post every morning but he hasn't been reading The Federal Diary heretofore. The senator and we agree business is getting better.

"I DON'T see why all the holler about Government cafeterias," a correspondent writes. "What's all the shooting about? For a quarter, 2 bits, or 25 cents, one can satisfy the inner man and so on and come out feeling well fed.

"Of course, if one must go in for a lot of what he sees on the counter and loads the old tray down with delicacies, it'll cost him. But the 2-bit lunch is plenty okeh by me. Maybe, it's a case of eyes being of greater dimensions than the digestive apparatus."

IOWA MOB DRAGS JUDGE FROM COURT

jurist standing in the middle of the road. Several offered him a ride, which he refused.

His neck was chafed and his lips were bloody, in addition to the dirt and grease on his face and hair.

He was taken back to town in a car by Wilbur DePree, son of the Rev. J. J. DePree. Arriving at the courthouse, he asked to be left alone.

"I'd rather not say," he replied, in answer to queries as to whether he would seek prosecution for his abductors.

Sheriff R. E. Rippey appeared on the scene shortly after the judge regained his chambers.

First of Several Cases.

The judge set today as the date for hearing on the first of several cases brought by mortgage holders to test the validity of new Iowa statutes postponing mortgage foreclosure sales.

Earlier in the day farmers, reported to be the same persons who participated in the abduction, were held off by a crowd of 22 deputies at Primghar, Iowa, while Sheriff Ed Leemkuil directed the sale of the John Shaffer farm.

The farmers stormed the O'Brien County Courthouse but the efforts of the deputies held them to the two lower floors while the sale was completed. The farm, 160 acres near Calumet, Iowa, brought $6,500.

O. R. Montzheimer, attorney for the mortgage holders, was seized as he left the courthouse and forced to kiss the American flag and to promise not to bring further foreclosure actions.

Another Man Is Seized.

After returning from Primghar, the delegation of Plymouth County farmers seized Clarence Becker, mortgage holder in another foreclosure action, carried him to the ball park grounds and threatened him with a rope. Sheriff Rippey persuaded them to disperse and they proceeded to Judge Bradley's chambers.

Insurance companies involved in the suits which Judge Bradley was to hear include the Metropolitan Life, John Hancock Life, Equitable of New York, Mutual Benefit Life and the Franklin Life. Other mortgage holders involved are the Collins Mortgage Co., Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank Federal Land Bank, Fremont Joint Stock Land Bank, Des Moines Joint Stock Land Bank and the First Trust Joint Stock Land Bank.

The mortgage holders question the constitutionality of the law suspending foreclosure proceedings and the law extending the redemption period on foreclosed property until March 1, 1935.

Senator Dickinson Calls Abduction "Unfortunate"

(Associated Press.)

The abduction by farmers of Judge Charles C. Bradley, of Le Mars, Iowa, last night was termed "most unfortunate" by Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa.

"I presume it is an outgrowth of the farmer holiday movement," Dickinson said, after reading an account of Bradley's seizure. "They are trying to stop foreclosures. I thought foreclosures were pretty well stopped in Iowa."

Representative Gillette (Democrat), Iowa, of the Le Mars District, could not be reached last night, but Representative Gilchrist (Republican), Iowa, who represents a neighboring district, said he knew Judge Bradley and commented:

"It is hard to believe the farmers would have acted as stated. Such things should not be done."

John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union and representative here of the National Farmers Holiday Association, commented:

"I am afraid it indicates that trouble is starting. It is too bad, but that is the information I have got from close touch with conditions in the Midwest. I hope that we will hurry and get legislative relief through Congress which, I believe, necessary to stop trouble."

DRUG STORE HOLDUP PAIR FLEE WITH $700

Owner Reports He Handed Over Cash When Menaced by Revolver.

Police last night were combing the city for a trace of two young white men in a small sedan who early yesterday held up and robbed Samuel Wolfovits, 34, proprietor of the Manor Park drug store, 6324 Third street northwest, and made off with more than $700.

Wolfovits told police that one of the bandits walked into the store shortly after he had opened for business, pointed a revolver at him and said:

"This is a holdup. Lets have your money."

The drug store owner said he then handed the man his money, which he had drawn out of the bank Wednesday to pay bills due yesterday. He said he had insured himself against holdup several weeks ago.

No one witnessed the holdup so far as police could determine. Wolfovits said the man drove away from the store with a confederate who was waiting at the wheel of a light sedan, motor idling.

COLONIAL MANSIONS OPEN AT ANNAPOLIS

Visits to Landmarks Are Arranged for Benefit of Lee's Birthplace.

The old colonial mansions at Annapolis, historic landmarks of the colonial era in the little Maryland capital, will be open to the public today and tomorrow for the benefit of Stratford Hall, the birthplace of Robert E. Lee, in Virginia.

Visitors to the old State capital will be conducted through the old mansions by guides, and numerous hostesses have been appointed to entertain. The old houses are among the triumphs of the early builders and architects of the Nation. One of the most interesting of the group is the Hammond-Harwood House, built by Capt. Mathias Hammond in 1760. It has recently been restored and is being kept as a museum by St. John's College.

Just across the street from this mansion is the Chase House, one of the few three-storied houses in colonial America. It was built in 1769 by Samuel Chase, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Whitehall, regarded as one of the finest examples of Georgian domestic architecture still preserved, was built by the colonial governor, Horatio Sharp. It is situated just across the Severn River from Annapolis, and will be open to visitors during the two days.

A tea will be served this afternoon by Mrs. Cusachs at her home, formerly the residence of Gov. Ogle.

All Japan observed a holiday to acclaim the envoy and to participate in a Shinto ceremony for those who fell in battle for Japan in the last year.

Floating Power engine mountings of course. Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Bodies to protect you. A big, powerful, 70-horsepower, six-cylinder engine. A large, roomy body . . . comfort for a full-sized family of five.

Yes . . . it's the biggest, roomiest six in this new price class. Brilliantly engineered! Solidly built. An honest value.

And the price! That's the biggest news of all. Today Plymouth matches competition dollar-for-dollar . . . and on top of this piles up value features that nobody else can offer.

For example: A new Plymouth Standard Six 4-door Sedan sells for $510. You can buy a four-cylinder car for this price . . . but nobody else offers you a six in this model. The Plymouth Standard is America's lowest-priced six-cylinder 4-door Sedan.

See these cars. Take a test ride in the Plymouth Standard Six; don't buy any car until you give it a trial.

A DE LUXE SIX WITH 112-INCH WHEELBASE

YOU'LL agree something important has happened when Plymouth announces two new cars. This part of the story is about the new, long wheelbase Plymouth De Luxe.

It has typical Plymouth values. A 70-h.p. six with Floating Power engine mountings. Safety-Steel Bodies . . . Hydraulic Brakes . . . Free Wheeling . . . Rigid-X frames.

Best of all, the De Luxe is bigger! It has a 112-inch wheelbase . . . the biggest low-priced six in America.

The radiator has been restyled. Interiors are more luxurious . . . upholstered in real broadcloth or mohair. There's a new smart instrument panel . . . a convenient glove box . . . all the touches that gladden a woman's heart.

A TARIFF TRUCE.

Secretary Hull suggests agreement among the nations to a tariff truce that would prevent the erection of more trade barriers until the World Economic Conference gets under way. Indications are that Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, may put forward this suggestion at Geneva when the preparatory commission meets Saturday.

The objective of such an agreement is to prevent nations from erecting excessive barriers for trading purposes. It is well known that before every economic conference the participants are in the habit of boosting their tariff rates so that they can appear to give concessions without actually sacrificing anything. Secretary Hull is well advised in trying to avoid that practice at this time. The United States can not manipulate its tariff rates by arbitrary executive orders as most other nations do. Invariably this country is beaten in a game of tariff boosting for bargaining purposes.

It is somewhat strange, however, to hear a truce proposed by the State Department just as the Senate is putting the finishing touches upon the farm relief bill, which will double the tariffs on some commodities and put new duties on others. Would a tariff truce mean abandonment of the farm measure? Or does Secretary Hull think that the farm bill can be enacted and forgotten before the truce idea is formally advanced?

Congress would not, of course, abandon its plan to extend greater protection to the farmer in order to secure a tariff truce. The larger objective is the protection of American enterprise. From the idealistic standpoint a great deal is said about restoring international trade and opening the markets of the world, but Congress has manifested its determination to reserve the American market for domestic producers so far as that is at all practicable.

It may be assumed that the increased agricultural duties will be enacted. Secretary Hull might be very much embarrassed if he should propose a tariff truce just after Congress finished its work of elevating American agricultural duties. Other nations would insist upon adjusting their own duties before they would adhere to the truce. The result would doubtless be artificial stimulation of trade barriers instead of curtailment. It is quite impractical for the Government to move toward freer trade and greater protection at the same time.

A BLOW TO CIVIL SERVICE.

The storm of protest against compulsory retirement of employes who have been in the Government service 30 years or more is gaining momentum every day. Men and women who have spent their lives working for the Government are astounded at the proposal to separate them from the service by arbitrary action. The Budget Bureau has attempted to reassure these employes by emphasizing the fact that the President would be given broad discretion under the proposed compulsory retirement provision, but its efforts have been futile.

Regardless of what powers of discretion may be given the President under this scheme, it is a backward step so far as the civil service is concerned. At present employes are rated according to their merits. If they render efficient service, they may look forward to retaining their positions until they are incapacitated by age. Under the Budget Bureau's proposal Government positions would be secure for only 30 years; then they would be subjected to the whims of politicians.

The Budget Bureau lays great emphasis upon the fact that discretion in these matters would be lodged in the President. But in practice decisions as to the status of employes after 30 years' service would be made by subordinates. It would be impossible for the President to pass upon the merits of 19,000 employes. That duty would probably fall to the dispensers of patronage. It would be impossible to keep political considerations out of the administration of this proposed law.

Is this measure part of a general assault upon the merit system? The dispensers of patronage have already lifted a number of positions out of civil service to reward faithful political workers. At the Library of Congress the morale of employes has been severely shaken by an inquiry into their political affiliations. Although the library is not under the classified civil service, its employes are chosen on the basis of merit. The dispensers of patronage seem to be dissatisfied with this plan. They have demanded a list of all employes, together with the names of their sponsors at the time of employment.

The public looks with dismay upon efforts to disrupt the merit system. It is unthinkable that Congress will subject employes who have spent the best part of their lives in the Government service to the whims of politics, merely because they may have served for 30 years or more.

A GREENBACK TRAP.

Among the intriguing illusions of the inflation proposals before Congress none is more deceiving than the proposition to issue $3,000,000,000 in unsupported Government notes to be used for the retirement of Government bonds as they fall due. The argument is advanced in support of such procedure that, since the bonds are simply promises to pay, with nothing behind them except the credit of the Nation, their replacement by greenbacks based on Government credit would make no vital difference in the Federal obligation, and the interest saved on the bonds can be utilized as a retiring fund for the fiat notes.

This seems very plausible at first glance. It misled a number of writers into acceptance of the idea, a position that some of them have hastened to reverse as the proposal has been investigated and its probable effects made clear. In the first place, bonds do not circulate as money and have no effect upon prices. The replacement of large amounts of bonds by greenbacks that could only be retired at the rate of 4 per cent a year might greatly disarrange market values, since all compensating movement is lost.

This further objection is found in the fact that, while bonds offer opportunity for controlling credit, the greenbacks do not. Through its open market operations the Federal Reserve can buy bonds and thus increase the currency holdings in banks available for loans. When restrictive measures are necessary the Federal Reserve can sell bonds and thus curtail money stocks. In the case of greenbacks they can be exchanged for bonds and can be redeemed over long periods, but they can not be resold, and so they afford no facilities for prompt contraction of the currency, which may at times be as necessary as expansion. Thus the elasticity of open market operations with bonds is lost, since a managed currency operating with greenbacks can operate in only one direction.

GRATUITIES FOR STATES.

Enactment of the $500,000,000 grant to the States for relief purposes may be considered virtually complete. The measure passed by the House was similar to one already approved by the Senate. It will soon be on the statute books as one of the administration's anti-depression measures.

Further aid to the States is undoubtedly necessary to enable them to care for the families of the unemployed. When hunger and want are abroad it frequently becomes necessary to dip into the public purse for relief funds. Some of the States have exhausted their resources, and it becomes necessary for Uncle Sam to go to their rescue to avert undue hardships and suffering.

It is a matter of regret, however, that in extending this aid to the people through State governments Congress should adopt the handout system. For several months the Government has been extending aid to the unemployed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on the basis of loans to supply actual needs. Under this plan the funds supplied by Congress have brought the maximum of relief, because they have been used only where urgently needed. States have been required to draw upon their own resources and to support their own destitute people so far as possible.

This sound method of distributing the relief burden has now been swept away. Congress has taken on the role of philanthropist, distributing millions of dollars without regard for the ability of some States to take care of their own people. New York, for example, has just adopted the sales tax as a means of balancing its budget. For political reasons the Federal Government will not resort to this means of securing revenue. The Treasury at Washington has a $1,500,000,000 deficit and has no such promise of increased revenue as has the treasury at Albany. Yet New York will obtain a large slice of this $500,000,000 gift. It is an inexcusable waste of money to extend gratuities from a depleted Treasury to States that are capable of raising their own funds.

The absurdity of this policy stands out in bold relief when it is considered in relation to the financial problems of the District. In the House a much curtailed budget for the National Capital has been adopted. The House slashed to a pitifully low figure the contribution which Congress is directed by law to make for the support of the Federal City. This action will result in the discharge of many employes and will suspend work on urgent municipal projects, while men and money remain idle. A policy of drastic economy has been imposed upon the Capital, for which Congress is responsible, while extravagant gifts are made to States for which Congress has no responsibility. Uncle Sam takes on the role of the spendthrift father who is ready to fling money to every one save his own family.

ENCOURAGING HOARDERS.

Some gold hoarders are clinging to their coin and their gold certificates with unusual tenacity. The Government has found it advisable to issue another warning that hoarders will be prosecuted if their precious metal is not returned to the Treasury by May 1. Since Congress authorized the President to demand the return of gold and gold certificates $700,000,000 of hoarded metal has been released, but the Treasury is determined to recover the vast sum still in hiding.

The return flow of gold has diminished recently. People who were willing to surrender their treasure a few weeks ago and neglected to do so are now reluctant to give it up because Congress is moving swiftly toward a devaluation of the dollar. When the Government reopened the banks with the assurance that only sound institutions would be permitted to resume business the incentive to hoarding was largely removed. But the inflation program encourages hoarding of every gold coin and certificate that can legally be held.

Treasury regulations permit an individual to retain gold up to $100. If only 2,000,000 of the 122,000,000 people in the United States avail themselves of this privilege, $200,000,000 in gold will remain in hiding. When the Department of Justice begins its investigations of hoarders it may find that the invisible gold is widely distributed, and that a large portion of it is legally held.

One other reason why a large volume of gold certificates remains outside of the Treasury is probably public ignorance as to what a gold certificate is. In practice the public has made no distinction between a gold certificate and a Federal Reserve note. They are the same size and are very similar in wording and design. Thousands of people may have gold certificates locked up in safe deposit boxes or hidden between the leaves of books, not dreaming that this currency is a warehouse receipt for so much gold stored in the Treasury. The Treasury has given instructions as to the difference between gold certificates and other currency, but such information escapes the attention of many hoarders.

Even though the gold standard has been suspended, it is important for the Government to acquire all of the yellow metal that is available. It is unfortunate that the threat against the dollar on Capitol Hill has interrupted the anti-hoarding movement.

THE ECONOMY LEAGUE.

As Admiral Richard E. Byrd completes his services as chairman of the National Economy League he is entitled to a public vote of thanks. This organization under his direction has performed a remarkable service to taxpayers of America. No doubt Admiral Byrd is largely responsible for the fairness and the determination with which the Economy League has driven toward its goal. He has given the league prestige that it may carry into many future achievements.

Organizations of this kind frequently descend to the status of mere propaganda dispensers. The Economy League was guided away from such a fate by the high purpose of Admiral Byrd and his associates. He was especially adapted to lead the fight against exorbitant pensions that were being paid to veterans who suffered no injury or disability as a result of their war service. The league undertook, together with newspapers and magazines throughout the country, to educate the public as to the abuses in the pensions system. The public was in a mood to favor sweeping economies. Sentiment against the payment of gratuities under the guise of pensions for war service was mobilized throughout the country in a remarkably short time.

Admiral Byrd leaves the league with a major task well done. It is to be hoped that his resignation will not deprive the organization of any of its vitality in presenting to the public facts about the expenditure of public money. The Economy League still is confronted by challenging problems in Washington as well as in the State capitals. If it can focus public attention upon extravagance and waste in the administration of local governments, it will perform another notable service.

The war debtors are shrewd in asking for a moratorium. In a few months, if they must pay, they can pay in American marks, which they can acquire by the bushel for a few cents in real money.

The Senate decides that the way to restore confidence is to destroy the people's faith in the Government's promises.

There being no confidence in anything except the good old American dollar, Congress prepares to falsify the dollar.

INVENTOR OF SODA POP

From the Boston Transcript.

Perhaps the bicentenary of Joseph Priestley would have been more popularly celebrated if it had been made generally known that to this self-made chemist we owe the blessings of soda water, ginger ale and all the pop and other soft drinks which soothe the world's thirst.

Priestley's first success in producing aerated water in England, in 1772, in imitation of natural effervescent spring waters, sprang from his studies of the nature of gases. It was a noble experiment which made possible in perpetuity the Englishman's ante-prandial appetizer of brandy and soda and built up a tremendous industry. But it was after Priestley came to America in 1794, and associated himself with Dr. Physick and Townsend Speakman, of Philadelphia, that the idea was conceived of adding fruit juices to the charged water for flavoring. The experiments were continued until Priestley's death in 1804, and by 1807 a flourishing industry in the new "soft" drinks was under way. The bottled "pop" and "tonic" and soda phase of the industry continued with little change to about 1855, when the marble soda-fountain came into being, and somewhat later the famous Tufts fountains did much to make drugstores brighter and better places from Boston to San Francisco. Even before the Augustan age of the soda-fountain, contraptions had been devised, both in Europe and America, for tanking the charged water and drawing it off, but they went the way of the high-wheel bicycle and the bustle.

Somewhere a willow weeps over the grave of the forgotten man who invented ice-cream soda. He conferred his boon upon humanity in the early eighties, an age in which youth needed some excitement in view of the fact that Sunday reading at home had to be confined to Frederick W. Robertson's sermons and secular music was strictly forbidden. Did drugstores serve ice-cream soda on Sundays? To the unregenerate, yes, but the children of light passed by on the other side of the way with parched tongues and a feeling of probity. They only hoped that the wicked druggist would not be struck down by lightning before Monday so that they might with clear consciences indulge in his mellifluous mixtures.

While juggling with minor figures Congress should apportion a billion or so to match the British equalization fund, if we are going to sit in the exchange game.

A Democratic Congress will probably never validate that horrid word, moratorium, even though it may be necessary to authorize the President to postpone debt payments.

A little better team work, please, between the labor secretary and the labor leader. Miss Perkins says a minimum wage bars low wages, but Bill Green says it pulls higher wages down to a common level.

The bonus vets were hardly to be blamed this time for thinking their little three billion demand might take passage on the big farm bus and hardly be noticed.

Recognizing American determination not to become involved in any general European security pact, France will compromise with our promise always to aide with her.

Inflation, even threats of it, can create paper profits, but attempts to cash them in precipitate collapse.

Any effort to peg the dollar value now would be as futile as starting the Republican campaign for 1936.

THE NEED TODAY.

With bitterness let's all be done.
What's lost is not regained by whining.
At night we'll be no further on
If we stay sullenly repining.
What matters whose the blame or why
Misfortune sorely has beset us?
To sit beside the wreck and cry
Toward our goal will never get us.

In hatred lies no help at all!
We're losing time with all our cursing,
Who broods upon the past may fall
In deeper woe his grief rehearsing.
Let's leave the past and turn ahead
And face our duty as we meet it.
The things of yesterday are dead!
The dawn is near; let's rise to greet it!

Not as we wished them tides have turned,
But as they are we now must brave them.
Our hopes are sadly seared and burned,
But granted strength, we still can save them!
Let's strap our burdens on our backs
And forward look and cease complaining
Who bravely now his care attacks
Shall shortly newer goals be gaining.

It Is Always Unlawful to Sass a Smith Where Smiths Make the Laws.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

LET us give the devil his due. Let us examine both sides of the story.

The affairs and motives of men are so tangled that right and wrong can be recognized in some instances only by their effect. Let us therefore examine the effect on the victim.

The victim in this case is Bill Smith.

Bill worked hard and pinched pennies for twenty years to save two thousand dollars.

Then, being old and unfit for work, he surrendered one thousand dollars to Mr. Banker and the other thousand to Mr. Householder and retired to live on the interest his small capital would earn.

The money given to the banker was called a deposit; that given to the householder was called a loan. But note this: In each instance Bill hired out his money to earn interest.

As security for the safe return of his money he received from the banker a piece of paper called a certificate of deposit; from the householder he received a piece of paper called a mortgage on a house.

Now observe this further similarity. The householder used the money to buy a car and show his wife a good time; the banker, who was naughty, used the money (along with many other thousands) to show a chorus lady a good time.

You will say that one man's act was legal and the other illegal, but we are concerned only with the effect on Bill Smith. In both cases his hard-earned money was spent for pleasure by the man who got it.

The banker, being found short, which is an unlawful state, was threatened with jail unless he made good. So he sacrificed his fine house and squared accounts and Bill Smith got his money back.

Then, the mortgage being due and times hard, Bill demanded his money of the householder. But Mr. Householder had no money. He was hard up and jobless.

"That may be," said Bill, "but you spent my money. Now replace it or give up the house you pledged as security."

Now observe a curious thing. When Mr. Banker could not return Bill's money, having spent it, he was forced to give up his home. And everybody said: "The dirty crook! Serves him right."

But when Mr. Householder could not return Bill's money, having spent it, everybody said: "The poor man is about to lose his home and it isn't right. We must have a law to keep that shylock Bill Smith from running people out of their homes."

The moral is that toothache never seems very painful in the other fellow's jaw.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The West Wants Action.

Williston (N. Dak.) Herald.

The West is solidly behind the administration in its efforts to pass the farm bill. It is less concerned with details of the measure than with the hope and demand that something be done, and that quickly, to give agriculture a chance to get back on its feet. The broad powers to be conferred upon the new Secretary of Agriculture amount to an economic dictatorship. No one is objecting to that. It is not claimed by its sponsors that the measure will correct all the ills of agriculture. It is claimed that flexible powers should be given one responsible head to afford opportunity to see what may be done, speedily, to help the farmer. The usual differences among farm organizations begin to appear. They are unfortunate. It should be remarked that often in times past while economic doctors quibbled, the pains of agriculture increased in severity. The situation now is more critical than ever. The West and the Northwest want action. They are behind the administration and its program, for the time being, at least.

France's Isolation.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Something like retribution has happened to France. Alone among the great nations it sits upon the huge gold reserve it has piled up in recent years, uncomfortable and isolated. With the free flow of the precious metal from other countries cut short by embargoes, it refuses to close its vaults to outside transactions and thus is in danger of being drained of its rich hoard. It faces the dilemma of either having to close its doors and thus going off the gold standard, or of continuing on its firm foundation with the danger that the foundation will be pulled from under it.

In his appointment of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen as Minister to Denmark, Mr. Roosevelt has made a choice popular in both countries. This was shown by the Senate's unanimous approval, in which it dispensed with the usual practice of sending the nomination to committee, and by the expressions of approval from Danish newspapers and officials even before the appointment was actually made. Mr. Roosevelt again indicates his high opinion of woman's capability in modern public life. In designating the daughter of William Jennings Bryan as this country's first woman minister, he also pays tribute to a distinguished late leader of the party. As for Mrs. Owen, she has served her country capably in Congress, and her extensive travels in Denmark, where she has many friends, eminently fit her to be this country's official spokesman there.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Investigator Expects 100,000 Extra Jobs in Washington in Development of New Program.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a needless alarm among the Federal employes in Washington concerning their tenure of office. Nearly every person in the service fears that he will be dropped within a few days. As a matter of fact very few have been dropped so far, though many believe a third of the force is off the pay roll.

The annual report of the Civil Service Commission for 1932 shows that there were 467,161 persons in the classified civil service, which was 889 less than for the preceding fiscal year. For each one who was laid off there were 525 retained in the service. Why be alarmed about that?

The prospects for the future are much better. Within the next few weeks the following important bills will probably be on the statute books: The farm mortgage bill, the farm relief bill, the home mortgage bill, the Tennessee Valley bill and the reforestation camps. Add to these the tremendously expanded public work program to be administered, and you will realize what an army of men and women it will take to do the office work alone, and we may catch a glimpse of what the future holds for Washington.

A few offices may be consolidated and the forces reduced, but it looks as though thousands of new places will be created and thousands of appointments made. Political writers are estimating that it will take from 100,000 to 125,000 extra employes in Washington and in the field to properly transact all of this business. Many billions of dollars will be involved in these enterprises, and Washington will be the "clearing house" for all of it.

I predict a boom for Washington to take the place of the present depression.

Says Canadian Liquor System Results in Increased Consumption and Increased Crime.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since repeal of the eighteenth amendment is confidently expected by many, the question that naturally presses upon us is, "What method shall America try now?" Some say we could do no better than to adopt the Canadian plan. Let us look into this.

We are informed that the system of government control in Canada has brought about a decided increase in the amount of liquor consumed. The number of permits issued to the people has nearly doubled in four years.

Lawlessness is another thing that concerns us. How about Canada? By their own statistics crime of all kinds has increased throughout the Dominion. The average number of convictions for drunkenness in Ontario, and for all crime for the three years prior to the coming into force of the control act, compared with the report of the same for the three years following, shows an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

The bootleg traffic is also extensive and on the increase, those who do not hold permits being a fruitful field.

World Will Not Wag Until Silver Is Monetized, Says Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: During the past three or four years this writer has iterated and reiterated the prophecy that the depression would not end until recognition was given to the free coinage of silver at a ratio to gold fixed by international agreement. The practical demonetization of silver by England's dumping India's silver on the market, with France dumping Indo-China's silver, and with both England and France and other nations turning a cold shoulder to the use of silver for small change or what is known as subsidiary coinage, brought on the world depression.

President Hoover hit the nail on the head when he said the world depression was due to the dislocation of the world's monetary system, and with his international prestige he might have secured an international agreement to restore the age-old gold and silver monetary system, but for some reason he turned cold on silver.

President Roosevelt now heads the Democratic party, and this party, with its Beck, Bland and Bryan, has always been the friend of silver. It was the late Senator Beck, who was a monetary expert and the leader of his party in the Senate, who made the prediction in his great silver speech of 1877 that when the world finally demonetized silver all farm products would follow silver down, and this is what has taken place.

Leading Englishmen, such as Darling, of the great Midland Bank, and Deterding, the oil king, have said the demonetization of silver filched the buying power of silver-using countries, such as India, China, Mexico, Central and South America. Until this purchasing power is restored there can be no relief that will last. New standards of money will not restore this buying power.

The gold standard should be preserved. Instead of the United States going off that standard by its embargo it has intrenched itself more strongly on the gold basis. The great trouble in these matters is so few people, both in and out of Congress, really make any attempt to understand the money question.

FIRST LADY PRAISES WORK OF RED CROSS

Honor Flag Is Presented to Montana; Al Smith's Record Lauded.

Sincere appreciation of the assistance the Red Cross has rendered the Nation was expressed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a speech yesterday at the closing session of the annual convention.

"I am glad to take this opportunity to express particularly to the hundreds of thousands of American women who have been making millions of garments from Government cotton for the unemployed, and to all others who have worked in the various Red Cross volunteer services, a very deep and sincere appreciation of the great assistance they have rendered," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"Because of the great and unusual amount of work my husband has had to do, he was unable to see you this year," she said. "But he hopes in another year he will be able to do so."

Flag to Montana.

Following her speech, Mrs. Roosevelt presented the honor flag of the organization to Senator John E. Erickson, of Montana, who was governor of that State at the time it won the greatest annual membership in 1932.

In his acceptance speech, the senator thanked the Red Cross for its assistance in the Montana drought of 1931 and 1932.

Four persons were reelected to the Red Cross boards and two were appointed by President Roosevelt.

Those reelected were Mrs. Henry P. Davison, of New York; Henry Upson Sims, of Birmingham, Ala.; George E. Scott, of Chicago; and Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Al Smith Praised.

Of Mr. Smith, the nominating committee's report said: "As governor of New York his interest and understanding of social and relief problems was exceptional and he brings to the Red Cross special wisdom and experience in the field of Red Cross work."

The two named by the President were William Phillips, Undersecretary of State, and Admiral Percival Rossiter, surgeon general of the Navy.

The registration this year was 1,200, as compared with 1,106 last year.

Campus Barbered By A. U. Students

300 Coeds, Professors and Others Assist in Big Landscaping Job.

A holiday spirit prevailed on the campus of American University yesterday as some 300 students and faculty members laid aside caps and gowns and donned overalls and work clothing in the celebration of Campus Day, a vigorous program to beautify the 90-acre wooded tract occupied by the liberal arts college at Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues.

Coeds, athletes, professors and everyone connected with the university armed themselves with hoes, shovels, rakes, wheelbarrows and mowers and proceeded to acquire blistered hands and aching backs. At noon a picnic lunch was served on the wooded hillside which forms a natural amphitheater west of the gymnasium.

When the happy, but weary workers, laid down their hoes and rakes at sundown, the approach to Hamilton House, the men's dormitory, had been landscaped, trees and shrubbery from the college nursery fringed newly stoned paths, tennis courts had been rolled, and a new 7-hole golf course had been further developed.

The new cars are the De Luxe Plymouth of 112-inch wheelbase and the Standard Plymouth Six, 108-inch wheelbase. The new Standard Plymouth Six Sedan is stated to be the lowest-priced six cylinder sedan on the American motor car market.

Nye Acts to Clear Title As House Deed Is Lost

Senator Gerald P. Nye yesterday in the District Supreme Court took steps to clear a tangle that involved a home at Thirty-eighth and Gramercy streets northwest, when a paid-up deed of trust on the property was lost.

To satisfy the requirements of a clear title, Senator Nye yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to appoint a substiute trustee who would have the power of canceling the missing paper, legally, and could take the steps necessary to show that it was paid up. All parties in the litigation consented to the action. Attorney George H. Paltridge filed the papers, and Justice James M. Proctor signed the order appointing Edgar M. Mayne substitute trustee.

Sheer Cotton Nets Are in Demand for Summer, Meanderer Finds.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

Swings in Team Play Are Discussed Today by Contract Expert.

The Meanderer

Finds Sheer Cotton Nets in Pastels and Dark Colors Highly Favored for Summer Frocks; New Styles in Lamp

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Frills and swirls of fluffy net are not to cost much this summer. One popular department store on Pennsylvania avenue has a sheer, firm quality net of 2-yard width, ready for summer sewing, and this nice, wide net costs just $1 a yard. The style-wise buyer in the lace department showed the Meanderer the excellent value in net and at the same time displayed her advance number of an authoritative style periodical, which only stylists and advertisers are allowed to have, in which the subject of net frocks for summer was elaborately developed. Gowns entirely of net, with hemlines finished with ruchings of self-materials, using many yards of the filmy cloth, are suggested for bridesmaids' gowns and for summer-time parties. Readers may quickly figure that a net gown of the most voluminous width need not be expensive.

Black, brown, navy and eggshell nets are to make some of the smartest summer frocks, while, of course, the dazzling array of pastel colors—and bright colors—are to have many buyers.

Net footings, used for more years than readers of this column can remember, are still favored for simple ruffings and edgings. The footings in half-inch widths are in several colors at 5 cents and wider footings up to 5 or 6 inches wide may be had in many colors at correspondingly low prices.

Woven seersuckers in light summer colors, striped with white, are 50 cents a yard in the same store where the Meanderer found the attractively priced net. Dotted swiss in many color combinations and white is but 28 cents a yard in the same department.

New fabric gloves that are washable, some with pique or starched lace cuffs, are showing in the department store on Pennsylvania avenue. Many of the gloves are of mesh material, so much talked of in fashion magazines.

Eyelet pongee or printed pongee lamp shades, neatly tailored, lined with soft colors, are among the new arrivals in the housefurnishing department of a G street department store. Lamp shades that have "gone plaid" are selling well in this department, too. Plaid and chintz patterns on parchment, made to be durable, are made in designs that may be matched with bedspreads and pillows and curtains in the same store.

Full-length robes of Turkish toweling, in all white or in pink, blue, gold, or green bordered white, are $1 in the Pennsylvania avenue shop. Such robes are efficient summer bathrobes or excellent for beach wear.

"Then came the crash," is the original way a fashion journal refers to the use of linen crash in new costumes. The Meanderer has noted with interest the combinations of heavy natural-color crash with silks and woolens. One frock of soft black woolen in a Fourteenth street dress shop has a crash coat lined with black material matching the dress. The coat may be worn with either side out at the will of the wearer, and with the varying weather.

Another crash effect that is truly smart has a three-quarter length coat of off-white crash, worn over a black sport frock with vertical dashes of the off-white at the neck alternated with more and similar dashes in scarlet. A scarlet cord draws in the neckline in subtly simple effect, and the scarlet cord makes the girdle. The off-white, black and red combination is one the Meanderer found in a women's wear department store on F street.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Putting on the ritz never pays, a moral which was emphatically proved by a middle-aged fellow who used to be one of the gayest blades about town. He came into a sum of money, attempted a futile climb of the social ladder and finally won prominence because he was appointed to a New York political office.

Here I must digress a moment. Now I'm a country boy, right out of the creek bottoms of Texas. So I can't be accused of prejudice when I say that New Yorkers, the natives, may be a lot of things, but they are rarely hypocrites. Your native New Yorker may be a bum, or he may be the greatest fellow in the world—but, whatever he is, he usually confesses to just that.

Pass the Bread.

So, here is how a group of sham-despising Manhattanites put this fellow in his place. Shortly after he came into his fortune and political affluence he gave a dinner for himself.

The boys who attended were those who knew him when—and when means the lean days when he plucked his lunches out of those coin-in-the-slot places on Ninth avenue. But tonight he was host and he started things off wrong by promenading grandly down the stairs attired in a frock tail coat and stove pipe hat all made of white silk. Oops!

That passed, but at the dinner table this erstwhile sandwich snatcher followed the ritzy custom of serving neither bread nor butter.

Which was just too much for a regular fellow like Pat O'Brien and he swooped into the kitchen, retrieved a loaf of bread and pound of butter and passed them around to the hungry guests of the too, too swanky host.

Easy for Joe.

The circus people had at least one surprise following their opening parade here in which a number of Broadway stars participated.

When the first performance began in Madison Square Garden the regular trapeze artists came forth, accompanied by a roll of the drums to do their regular stunt.

Imagine their embarrassment when, on looking upwards, they discovered another fellow going through a series of dangerous tricks on the trapeze.

As you might have suspected, the impromptu performer up there was than zany Joe Cook, and having the time of his life.

Which was no more than proper because Cook's greatest musical comedy was a play about circus life in which the pride of Evansville, Ind., played the part of an acrobat. And, he is a good one.

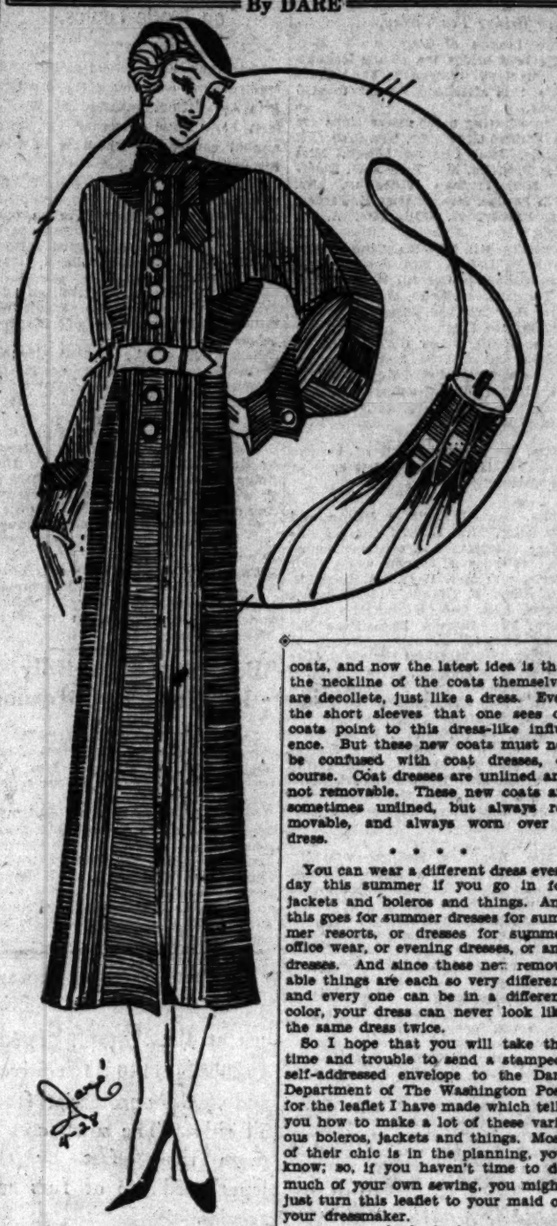
Interpreting the Mode

By DARE



Two tones of a gray woolen ribbed cloth makes a very smart spring coat with important details in its construction. (Courtesy Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

FRINGE creeps hourly further into the mode, or maybe I should say sways. One of the loveliest dresses I ever saw in my life was one that I saw just the other evening, which somehow achieved tier after tier of black silk fringe about 10 inches apart, the edge of each tier evenly and regularly scalloped. I recall one other lovely fringe dress that I saw ages ago on a woman with a simply divine figure—and the dress must have been made right on her, because the entire bodice and down to her hips was a sort of open meshed woven and knotted design of the silk threads, which then continued right down straight to her ankles in a sheath of long fringe. Hand fringed Spanish shawls are made this way, with this open work and knotted design between the shawl and the fringe itself.

Coats are getting more dress-like every day—first it was the white pique collar and cuffs on dark colored coats, and now the latest idea is that the neckline of the coats themselves are decollete, just like a dress. Even the short sleeves that one sees on coats point to this dress-like influence. But these new coats must not be confused with coat dresses, of course. Coat dresses are unlined and not removable. These new coats are sometimes unlined, but always removable, and always worn over a dress.

• • • •

You can wear a different dress every day this summer if you go in for jackets and boleros and things. And this goes for summer dresses for summer resorts, or dresses for summer office wear, or evening dresses, or any dresses. And since these new removable things are each so very different and every one can be in a different color, your dress can never look like the same dress twice.

So I hope that you will take the time and trouble to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet I have made which tells you how to make a lot of these various boleros, jackets and things. Most of their chic is in the planning, you know; so, if you haven't time to do much of your own sewing, you might just turn this leaflet to your maid or your dressmaker.

• • • •

Lanvin does the most extraordinary things with white linen on black cloth and then turns round and does more extraordinary things with black linen on white cloth. As far as that goes, it does not have to be linen, the black, I mean, to be used very effectively by this couturiere in combination with lighter colors.

• • • •

If any of you are still laboring under the impression that a coat should be fur-trimmed to be smart, I ask you to show me any smarter spring coat anywhere than the one I sketched for you today. And I am so glad that Bernard et Cie. exercised their usual good taste by not adding any fur.

Two different shades of gray wool in a very fine ribbed weave make it. And I think that the details of the collar and sleeves and the cut in general are well worth studying.

• • • •

And the velvet evening bag with the long slender silver bottle neck that I told you about the other day just simply had to be sketched for you. I'll bet you have one in some old attic trunk—or the bottle neck top, at least.

Au revoir.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE ALKALI HABIT.

THE abuse of medicines is a source of great harm to health. When it comes to taking medicine some people are quick on the trigger. If they don't feel just right they take a dose of medicine. It matters little what the feeling is or what the medicine is. If it is medicine there is some magic about it.

They lose sight of the fact that nature, left to herself, will usually bring a man safely into port. I presume cathartics and laxatives lead the list of medicines taken without due provocation, but soda is right up near the front. It is taken to combat indigestion and a lot of other symptoms and, lately, some go so far as to take it to prevent colds and some other disorders that they know not but they fear.

Here is a letter from a man who says he takes a teaspoonful twice a day and he wants to know how long he can keep it up without harm. As he had a page of symptoms it is possible that he had taken too much soda when he took his first dose.

Some of us are very much afraid of acidosis. Probably it is not known that alkalosis is about as prevalent as acidosis. Furthermore, some who think they have the latter have the former.

Dr. Portis gives the following as symptoms which should cause those taking alkalis to suspect that they have alkalosis, or are on the brink of it: "The first thing is that your patient tells you he is developing a distaste for his alkali. You want to be on your guard, for that patient is having an alkalosis. If a patient whose urine has been acid suddenly has an alkaline urine be on your guard."

This advice was given during the course of an address to a medical society by Dr. Portis. Among other symptoms of alkalosis he gave are: A sour nausea, constant headaches, vertigo; then comes slight edema or dropsy, a lowering of mentality, and, after that, delirium.

Among the persons who do not stand alkalis well are the old, those with certain types of Bright's disease, and some of the troubles in certain parts of the upper digestive tract.

If physicians must be on guard to protect their patients from too much alkali, how about the persons who keep the soda handy and who take a dose on suspicion How about those who have the soda habit?

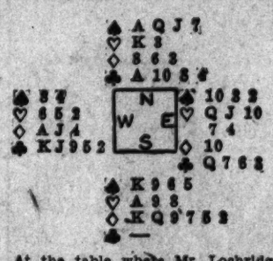
SWINGS IN TEAM PLAY.

IN the recent match that was played in the final round of the Eastern championships, held in New York City, between the Crockford's Club team-of-four and the Bid-Rite team-of-four, the following hand resulted in a very unfortunate swing against the former team:

West, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



At the table where Mr. Lochridge and Mr. Schenken sat North and South a contract of four spades was reached and five made very easily. At the other table, however, Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Watson reached a more ambitious contract of six-odd and were defeated 1 trick. Although this resulted in a swing of some 700 points, I believe, upon close analysis, that the Slam should be bid, as the result was dependent on only one situation. The bidding at the second table proceeded as follows:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♠	Pass	3◇ (1)
Pass	3NT	Pass	4♠ (2)
Pass	5♠ (3)	Pass	6♠ (4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This bid may be open to question since the hand contains only 2½ honor-tricks. However, the Opening bidder does not have to hold much more than a minimum to make the Slam a certainty. The mere holding of the Ace of diamonds and five spades to the Ace—which holding is not even an Opening bid—would make a Grand Slam a near probability. Admittedly, the dangers of duplication are great, but I believe that these considerations should be waived in favor of the policy of immediately attempting to find the best fit. A mere bid of four spades would not come close to disclosing the real power of the hand.

2—Having forced with only 2½ honor-tricks, Mr. Watson is content to leave the next decision to his partner.

3—Mr. Jacoby holds considerably more than a minimum. His lack of a diamond honor militates slightly against a further bid, but his hand is a little too strong in honor-tricks to consider dropping the bidding.

4—Obviously the Slam invitation must be accepted.

There was nothing to the play of the hand—it is apparent that 2 diamond tricks must be lost. However, had the Ace of diamonds been correctly placed or had the diamond suit itself broken 2-2, the hand would have been an absolute laydown. The fact that a Slam such as this was bid, even though not vulnerable, and was defeated 1 trick can not react against the accuracy of the bidding.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

All players are experts. How should North and South bid their hands to reach the best game declaration?

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF April 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:50 a. m. to 8:20 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:20 a. m. to 11:40 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will most likely prove of an uncertain nature which will react in the lives of people generally; their movements, thoughts, in fact all their activities, will be wavering and vacillating and at times it will be difficult to discover any central purpose in much that is going on.

The child born on this April 28 will invariably seek to be the dominating one in any group in which he finds himself. An ability to persuade others to do his will may lead him into difficulties. Not a dependable youngster, but one who will grow more stable as he grows older.

If April 28 is the date of your birth, you are quite possibly a person who pets and pampers himself and gives way to his many whims. Although you probably have many odd and eccentric ways about you, you are a thoroughly likeable person. You will never suffer from loneliness for you invariably have a flock of friends about you. Not all of them, however, are of the right kind. You are inclined to be dictatorial in your dealings and relations with others, and if this tendency can be curbed to the requisite extent you will show yourself to be an able executive. You will do your best work in a position that will enable you to command and direct the activities of many workers. You have not the personality that would enable you to deal directly with your underlings but with the services of a go-between you could accomplish much.

Born on April 28, you are beyond a doubt a person to whom it would be difficult to be married. You are inclined to try to run the whole show, and your mate should have a great deal of tact and understanding, to say nothing of patience in order to get along with you. Your attitude toward your children will be autocratic, and even though you love them dearly, you will rule them with an iron hand.

Successful people born on April 28: James Monroe, fifth President of the United States.

Lewis E. Parsons, lawyer and governor.

Palmer Cox, artist and author.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

CHILDREN often are genuinely frightened when for the first time they realize that it is possible for mother to go away and leave them.

Especially is this likely to be true when the child is not prepared for her absence, and wakes up from sleep to find her gone. In her place is a virtual stranger, who tells him that she is taking care of him and that everything is all right.

Often he does not believe this person, for he has no reason to have confidence in her, and until his mother returns he suffers the agonies of having been really deserted.

This sort of shock can be avoided. From the beginning the mother should make it a point to tell the child when she is going out and just when he may expect her return. The fact may still be an unhappy one, the child may cry and make a scene, especially if he sees that mother is distressed by his behavior (and many a mother, secretly flattered, unconsciously draws it out), but almost always he will become calm as soon as she is gone, confident that she will come back.

When a child is especially dependent on his mother, it is important to leave him in care of some one whom he already likes and to provide something especially pleasant to do during mother's absence.

If her going away becomes associated in his experience with visiting the zoo, with enjoying some new plaything, or with an afternoon treat of ice cream or candy instead of the more prosaic usual afternoon lunch, the child more readily reconciles himself to the unwelcome separation.

These things must not be offered as bribes, however, but quite naturally must come to be expected on days when mother goes away, until the child has become used to it and accepts it without distress.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WHILE the chances for the Radio Commission closing down Station WJSV May 1 seem remote, there is considerable uncertainty as to what the outcome of the proceedings against the 10,000-watter may be. The commission, following a complaint that the station was interfering with the Naval Research Laboratory transmitters, only about a mile away, ordered it off the air.

Instead of heeding this removal order, WJSV got busy with a new directional antenna, in hopes of diverting the offending ether waves to the north-south direction instead of from east to west. Evidently the engineers have done a pretty good job of it.

"They have accomplished some wonderful things with their directional antenna down there," a Navy official said yesterday, "but there is still a question as to whether or not their accomplishments have been wonderful enough."

This official said the Navy was watching the experiments closely, and the intimation was that WJSV would be given every opportunity to show what it could do in the way of lessening the interference.

It is possible the Radio Commission may take the same attitude when it comes to handing the station its hat and asking it what's the hurry May 1. If not, the courts will be resorted to, and then no doubt everybody will stall along indefinitely. It will, however, be the Navy's attitude which will finally determine whether or not WJSV will have to be scrapped.

If the Navy expresses itself as satisfied with the directional antenna and feels there will not be sufficient interference to cause trouble the station will stay. If, on the other hand, the Navy says "thumbs down," courts or no courts, it will be only a question of time until WJSV has to go. National defense would be the basis for any such drastic action.

UNCLE DAVE SARNOFF, president of the Radio Corporation of America, is making one of his regular visits to Washington in connection with the Officers' Reserve Corps, but it is the first time we ever heard of his being captured for a reception. Frank Russell, of the N. B. C., has invited the newspaper people to an informal party in his honor this afternoon.

No doubt, everybody will be on deck.

While he does not seek the limelight, Mr. Sarnoff has always been popular with the newspaper men, though they do not see as much of him as they used to before he became loaded down with so many duties. In addition to being the skipper of the R. C. A. he is the chairman of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum and has a hand in the RCA-Victor, and the numerous other Radio Corporation subsidiaries.

Mr. Sarnoff is, among other things, an extremely good after-dinner speaker. This despite the fact that 20 years or so ago he was a Russian immigrant boy in New York who could hardly speak a word of English. Today the addresses of Mr. Sarnoff are probably as scholarly as those of anyone in the radio industry. He is one of the few men who know how to make statistics interesting.

Despite his great success Mr. Sarnoff is only 42 years old.

The Washington Boys' Harmonica Band will make things lively tonight (WJSV, 8:15 o'clock).

Arthur Boran will bring his impersonations of Al Jolson, Jimmie Durante, Maurice Chevalier and Eddie Cantor into the Musical Grocery Store for the approval of listeners over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight.

COL. LOUIS McHENRY HOWE, personal friend and political adviser of President Roosevelt, will appear with Ed Hill over WJSV tonight at 9:30 o'clock. For more than 20 years Col. Howe has been in constant association with the Roosevelt family and he is now a resident of the White House. In addition to engaging in an informal conversation with Hill, the White House adviser will witness dramatizations of the highlights in his career.

A symphonic review of outstanding works by American composers will bring to a close the fifth season of Music Appreciation Hours this morning. The concluding program of the 1932-33 season will be a gala "graduation" broadcasts to the army of school children and their parents who have followed the student course under the direction of Walter Damrosch.

It is rumored because of a proposed cut in pay Dr. Damrosch may not find it possible to continue with this hour, in which case it would probably continue with somebody else.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingston will join James Melton, tenor, and Frank Black's orchestra for a half-hour of music and merriment over WRC at 10 p. m. Black will lead the orchestra in "He's a Son of the South" as the opening number, with Melton singing the chorus.

PREMIER BENNETT, of Canada, will be heard over WRC at 6 p. m. It will probably be his only radio talk while in the United States.

Conservation of natural resources and wild life of the United States will be discussed by noted leaders of the movement in a broadcast from the convention of the Izaak Walton League of America at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon over WMAL.

Various phases of the league's work will be commented on by Senator F. C. Walcott, of Connecticut; "Ding," the cartoonist; D'Arcy Magee, conservation leader in Maryland. Music and entertainment will be furnished by the Sisters of the Skillet, Ruth Lyon, soprano; Edward Davies, barytone, and the Homesteaders' Orchestra, under the direction of Walter Blaufuss.

Stokowski will present orchestral highlights from Wagner's music-drama, "Die Walkure," in the last Philadelphia Orchestra broadcast of the current season today from 2:30 to 4 p. m. over WJSV.

The broadcast opens with a presentation of Brahms' "Song of Destiny," sung by the Mendelssohn Club, Bruce Carly directing. The famous "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" will follow, and a "Fragment of Goethe's Rhapsody," with Rose Bampton as soloist, will conclude the Brahms portion of the broadcast.

Following the intermission, Stokowski will present selections from Wagner's "Die Walkure." Among the highlights will be the scene between Siegmund and Sieglinde, the "Ride of the Valkyries," Wotan's "Farewell" and the "Magic Fire Music."

THE outstanding events of the first day of the University of Pennsylvania's annual relay carnival will be described today (WMAL, 3:15 p. m.; WJSV, 4 p. m.; WMAL, 4:30 p. m.). The relays will be run off on Franklin Field in West Philadelphia, and C. B. S. engineers have devised an elaborate microphone set-up so that running accounts of the various races and field events will be covered from various positions along the track.

Freddie Rich, conductor, composer and arranger, will lead his 45-piece symphony ensemble, the Columbians, in the premiere of his own first symphony entitled "Penthouse," during the broadcast over WJSV at 9 p. m.

Dr. James B. Macelwane, of St. Louis University, and president of the Jesuit Seismological Association, will speak over WJSV this noon at 12:45 p. m. His subject will be "Earthquakes—What Are They?"

A dramatization of Bret Harte's short story, "The Luck of Roaring Camp," postponed from last Friday, will be enacted during the Days and Nights program tonight at 8:30 o'clock over WJSV. Carson Robison and his Buckaroos will create a background of cowboy songs. The part of "Kaintuck" will be played by John Battle, one of radio's outstanding character actors, and Artells Dickson will assume the role of Pete.

THE opera ball at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight will provide an unusual hour and a half program over National Broadcasting Co. networks, during which a number of distinguished artists will be heard.

During the first hour of broadcast, which will be heard over WMAL starting at 11:30 p. m., there will a pageant based on an opera ball given in honor of the Empress Eugenie in Paris in 1860. More than 500 persons will take part in the spectacle and the ballet will be led by Rosina Galli and Rita de la Port.

The latter portion of the program will include solos by Lucrezia Bori, Jascha Heifetz, Frieda Hempel and Grace Moore.

Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, according to an N. B. C. press story, will speak over the WEAF network at 11:30 o'clock tonight on the currency question now before Congress. Neither WRC or WMAL has the speech scheduled, but listeners might tune in in case there is a change.

Stocks Fractionally Lower As Dealing Volume Drops

Increased Business Activity Ignored; Sales Cut to 1,881,175 Shares.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—On a dwindling turnover, stocks made frequent shifts of trend today, the net result being small losses for most leaders.

Reports of increased business activity were encouraging, but Wall street appeared to lack incentive for taking a stand one way or the other and price movements narrowed.

A few stocks responded to special influences; metal issues were slightly stronger and alcohol equities had a rally. Commodities reflected less pronounced speculative interest, except that silver futures were polished a bit by buying that followed yesterday's silver coinage amendment in the Senate.

Allied Chemical slumped 5 points as an aftermath of the stock exchange's action in connection with the company's reports. Consolidated Gas, whose dividend was reduced to an annual basis of $3.40 compared with $4 previously, met covering by shorts who had looked for a larger cut. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Westinghouse, General Motors, Union Carbide, Case, North American, New York Central, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania were narrowly changed at the close, though mostly lower. U. S. Smelting, International Silver and Cerro De Pasco Copper finished higher. American Tobacco "B" dipped 2 points. Sales totaled 1,881,175 shares.

The weekly reserve bank statements showed a continuance of recent favorable trends, but gave no evidence that aggressive open market policies were being resumed. Holdings of Government securities held stationary.

Brokers are commenting on the stock market's current resistance to selling; so far there has been no pronounced technical reaction from last week's upsurge, but in some quarters the possibility of such a movement is not being overlooked, especially if no immediate stimulus is provided by fresh news developments.

CURB PRICES HIGHER IN MIXED MARKETS

Trading Becomes Irregular as Turnover Drops to 281,000 Shares.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—There was a general lessening of speculative interest in curb stocks today and prices pursued about the same irregular course as yesterday. Transactions amounted to approximately 281,000 shares against 363,000 on Wednesday.

Divergent movements featured several groups, notably the utilities in which advances and declines were about evenly divided. Some of the old favorites in the industrial commodity classification were again soggy as if seeking more reasonable levels after their runaway advance, but others were bid up rather easily.

Singer Manufacturing shot up 8 points on small sales. General Tire & Rubber, Celanese preferred, Childs Co. preferred, Axton Fisher and Cleveland Electric Illuminating gained 2 to 4 points on odd lot dealings.

There were losses ranging from fractions to 2 points in Glen Alden Coal, Aluminum, Ltd., New England Power preferred, Lake Shore Mines, Newmont, National Sugar and Electric Bond & Share preferred.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Gold mining shares received further support in a quiet session of the stock exchange today owing to the firmness in the price of gold. This together with the recovery of transatlantic issues on the Washington conversations were the chief features of the market. The latter, however, eased somewhat in the late trading, while Argentine rails were firmer. Otherwise movements were small and the market closed steady.

Paris—Heaviness again prevailed on the bourse, international issues reacting to the weakness of the pound sterling. The market closed heavy.

Berlin—The opening tone of the boerse was weak, but prices turned irregular later and were recovering at the close.

Corporate Bonded Debts Now Total $36,198,483,000

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—America's total corporate bonded debt was incurred at price levels closely corresponding to those of 1930, not those of 1926, according to a research released today by Moody's.

Congressional inflation proposals have selected 1926 prices as the level to which prices should be raised to ease the burden of the debtor. The research said the 1926 figures were selected in these proposals on the premise that most of the debt outstanding was incurred at 1926 levels.

Total corporate debt outstanding today was calculated at $36,198,483,000 in the study, divided into $11,327,893,000 of railroad bonds; $12,529,078,000 of industrial and real estate bonds and notes, and $12,341,512,000 of public utility bonds.

The rail debt was contracted at prices roughly corresponding to those of 1931; the industrial and real estate debt at a level below the average for 1929; the utility debt at a level slightly above the average for 1930, and the composite at about the 1930 level.

Taking 1926 as 100, the railroad debt was incurred at a price level of 74; the industrial and real estate at 92.5; the utilities at 87.5, and the total at 85. These figures compare to a present price level of 60.3.

The theory of raising the price level to the 1926 mark is based on the hypothesis that debtors could sell their services and materials at prices which would bring in the same amounts as when the debts were incurred. A debtor who borrowed money in 1926 has to sell more goods and services today to get the same amount of money as in 1926.

Theoretically if the price level were raised only to the points at which the research found the debts to have been incurred the burden of payment now would be the same as the burden of payment at the time when they were incurred. The research said, however:

"The relation of the current purchasing power of the debt, in terms of commodities, to the purchasing power of this debt at the time of its creation has little or nothing to do with the difficulty of debtors in paying current interest charges.

"Thus, while superficially the railroad debt, as shown above, would appear to be in the most comfortable position, it is, in fact, probably the hardest to maintain at the present level of earnings. On the other hand, the utility debt, which was mostly contracted in a period of very high prices, is relatively the easiest to bear and the utility industry is seldom heard complaining about it."

United States Gains In Bank Clearings

Business for Week Totals $3,839,956,000; Under 1932.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Bank clearings in the United States during the week ended April 26 rose $550,275,000 from the previous week to a total of $3,839,956,000, says the report of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The decline from a year ago was 9.4 per cent.

The improvement represented largely a more favorable showing at New York, the agency said, for activity in the metropolitan financial markets increased bank settlements considerably.

"The decline," it added, "continued mainly at some of the Western points, although there was an increase at Minneapolis, while for Southern cities and those of the Pacific Coast percentages of less are quite generally smaller than they were in the two preceding weeks of April." A year ago clearings dropped $549,134,000 from the previous week.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN UNDER LIGHT SALES

Two-Tenths Gain Recorded as Trading Declines to $11,357,000.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The bond market closed today, but it kept one eye open and prices maintained a steady to firm position.

Enthusiasm for the recent speculative favorites was inclined to dwindle and trading volume dropped sharply. Sales totaled only $11,357,000, par value, compared with $14,978,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds, however, advanced two-tenths of a point.

Both traders and investors were encouraged by the evidences of continued improvement in business and industry, but there was an apparent inclination to adopt a more cautious attitude regarding further heavy commitments, especially in the secondary groups. The "gilt edge" divisions were moderately cheered by the continued strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets.

United States Government securities were fairly firm but dull, as followers of the Federal section awaited clarification of the Treasury's financing plans which involve some large refunding operations over the next few months.

Principal corporation gainers included some loans of American Telephone, Armour & Co., Santa Fe, Canadian Pacific, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, Illinois Steel, International Great Northern, Louisville & Arkansas, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pan-American Petroleum, Pennsylvania, Postal Telegraph, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and Wabash. International Telephones were off a point or more, as were some bonds of Southern Pacific, Iron Mountain, Denver & Rio Grande, Chesapeake Corporation, Chile Copper and American & Foreign Power.

Obligations of Argentina, Denmark and Australia rallied 1 to around 3 points and German government issues recovered ⅞ to 2½ points. The Belgians were heavy, and the British and Italians eased.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON LIGHTER BUYING

Estimates for May Expected to Be Less Bullish; Other Grains Cut.

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—Abrupt falling off in speculative demand for wheat led to lower prices late today.

Brokers said curtailment of transactions made the day's total business the smallest in the last fortnight. Professional and nonprofessional traders were both apparently awaiting more definite details as to what the inflation and farm commodity bills at Washington would finally include.

Wheat closed weak at almost the day's bottom figures, ¾ to 1¼ under yesterday's finish; corn, ¾ to 1⅛ down; oats, ⅜ to ¾ off, and provisions showing 5 to 12 cents decline.

Estimates in May.

Suggestions that forthcoming unofficial May estimates of 1933 domestic winter wheat yields would prove less bullish than heretofore expected were given considerable notice. A reason assigned was that beneficial rains of late might make a material difference in the crop outlook. Another unsettling factor was a severe setback in British exchange.

The best rallies which the wheat market showed were associated with emphasis given in some quarters today to the joint statement issued by President Roosevelt and Premier MacDonald. Friends of higher prices contended the statement made perfectly clear that hoisting of commodity values was contemplated. One of the largest grain houses in Chicago said the advance of commodity prices must go far beyond the present level to justify the tremendous world effort that was being exerted in economic, monetary and political fields and that inflation of currency in other countries than the United States was plainly forecast.

Enlarged receipts of corn did much to pull corn and oats prices downward.

EARLY COTTON RISE TRIMMED TO LOSS

July Closes at 7.56 With General Market Down 4 to 7 Points.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was quieter today with a slight early advance followed by reactions.

Some scattered selling appeared to be influenced by the rather irregular stock market and the closing declines in grain. July contracts after selling up from 7.58 to 7.68 during the early trading, declined to 7.54 and closed at 7.56, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 4 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 1 point. Orders appeared to be rather evenly divided at the start with liquidation, Southern and foreign selling absorbed by covering, trade and commission house buying. The demand picked up right after the call owing to the advance in silver and the higher opening of the stock market with May selling up to 7.52 and October to 7.88 or about 5 to 8 points net higher.

This bulge met increased offerings which seemed to include a little Southern selling, and the market turned easier with prices reaching the lowest points of the day in the later trading when May sold off to 7.40 and October to 7.73 under further liquidation. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

The smaller volume of business and irregularity were attributed partly to a disposition to even up commitments pending the further progress of farm relief legislation.

Aviation Merger Plan Is Approved

North American and General Consolidation Voted by Stockholders.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Plans for merging North American Aviation, Inc., and General Aviation Corporation were formally approved today by the stockholders of both companies. As a result of the consolidation, the General Motors Corporation, as the controlling interest in General Aviation, now becomes the dominating factor in North American Aviation and its wholly owned subsidiaries, said a statement by Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of the automobile company.

The wholly owned subsidiaries are General Aviation Manufacturing Co., B. J. Aircraft Corporation and Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

"North American Aviation, Inc.," said Sloan, "also has a substantial interest in Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., Western Air Express Corporation and Transcontinental Air Corporation, Inc. The latter two companies each hold a 47½ per cent interest in Transcontinental and Western Air." The North American Aviation board will meet April 28 to select officers.

Dollar Comes Back Into Favor Abroad

Pound Closes at $3.74 1-2; Franc Is Improved; Shorts Cover.

London, April 27 (A.P.).—The dollar, which was "left to look after itself" when America went off the gold standard, appears to be coming back in favor, now that the MacDonald-Roosevelt conversations have been closed in favorable circumstances.

Speculators who sold the dollar short some time ago are hurriedly covering as a result of the proposed increase in Britain's exchange equalization fund. They, along with other purchasers, were in the market today and the quotation appreciated 5 cents, closing at $3.74½ to the pound.

The franc also improved. It was believed this resulted from operations of the exchange equalization fund, although no official news was available regarding those operations.

Exchange dealers, however, say there is little doubt that authoritative operations are proceeding with the main object of preventing violent fluctuations in both the dlolar and franc, as well as keeping sterling at a level favorable to the business of export houses.

Federated Stores Pay $925,000 Notes in Year

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The report of Federated Department Stores, Inc., for the year ended January 31, reveals that the company paid off $925,000 notes during the period.

Consolidated net profit was $564,058 after preferred dividends on subsidiaries, equivalent to 82 cents a share on the capital stock, compared with $1,246,594, or $1.37 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. Inventories were reduced and cash and net working capital were increased.

Shell Petroleum Cuts Price.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The Shell Petroleum Corporation, announcing today that it had met the reduction to 10 cents a barrel in East Texas crude oil, said the action had been taken "reluctantly."

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Alcohol—Gossip in the trade suggests a generous expectation of an upward revision in prices in the industrial product. Demand is not unusually heavy, but it is said that stocks have been depleted by the first quarter's heavy movement to the antifreeze trade.

Canned goods—Prices of tall tins of Alaska red salmon have been advanced from $1.45 to $1.50 a dozen, and the pink from 90 cents to $1 a dozen. The advance is understood to apply only to carryover. Local dealers attribute the rise to a strong statistical position.

Silk—Trade reports say that Canton and crepes continue to move in good volume at the advanced prices established last week. Broad silk sellers report that stocks of desirable merchandise are light.

Lead—Demand has become less active as the buying wave of the past week continues firm at 3½ cents a pound. New York, and 3¾ cents, East St. Louis.

DEBTS CUTS ASKED BY WOMEN VOTERS

National League Also Urges World Control of Arms at Final Session.

International agreements controlling manufacture and shipment of arms to aggressor nations in conflict and revision of war debts were approved yesterday by the general council of the National League of Women Voters as additions to the organization's legislative program.

Ending their meeting here yesterday at the Hotel Washington, the general council defeated, after considerable discussion, a proposal looking to going on record as favoring an embargo covering shipments of arms only.

Those in favor of restriction of manufacture also were led by Miss Ruth Morgan, of New York City, chairman of international cooperation, and Mrs. Elsie A. Zinsmeister, Louisville, Ky. Both declared that without control of manufactures as well as shipments any international agreement would be weakened.

Eight legislative proposals, three of which relate to unemployment relief, Muscle Shoals and reorganization of the Federal-State employment service and which are now pending before the special session of Congress, were selected for immediate pushing by the organization in the 1933-34 legislative program.

The other five measures given the council's support call for adequate appropriations for the Children's and Women's Bureaus, the Bureau of Home Economics, Federal Trade Commission and the Office of Education. The last was an addition to the former program of the women voters.

On recommendation of its legislative chairman, the council voted to continue its advocacy of the merit system in the civil service, in all branches of the Government, as of pressing importance in the maintenance of efficiency standards.

Following final adjournment of the council, practically all of the delegates went to Capitol Hill to interview senators and representatives from their respective jurisdictions with regard to the organization's legislative program.

$12,000 Is Needed In Symphony Fund

Unless Money Is Raised National Orchestra Must Be Disbanded.

Unless the $12,000 still needed to complete the National Symphony's sustaining fund is quickly raised, the orchestra will have to be disbanded, Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor, and Walter Bruce Howe, secretary of the orchestra association, stated at a meeting of the women's committee yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel.

That the management may make preparations and to assure the musicians that the orchestra will be in existence next season the committee was told that the fund must be completed by May 4.

Each member pledged to secure two orchestra memberships or its equivalent. Dues to the orchestra members are $25 a year. At the meeting it was also reported that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had given a substantial donation to the orchestra fund, and that Mr. Andrew Mellon, Mrs. E. E. Robbins, Mrs. Thomas Phillips, jr., and Mrs. Emil Berliner had given $500, to match Dr. Kindler's offer of $500.

Shell-Shocked Veteran Is Sought in Arlington

Arlington County police were asked last night to institute a search for E. Murray, a shell-shocked veteran of the World War, who disappeared from the home of his brother, N. C. Name Two Baby Jaguars And Win Post's $25 Prize

Two baby jaguars bounced around in their cage in the Zoo yesterday and if in their kittenish tussling they spat a name or two at each other, it doesn't mean a great deal.

Because it's up to some Post reader to find real names for these jaguar baby boys and the said Post reader who suggests the best monicker for the two jungle cats will receive a $25 prize.

The next ten readers who suggest the next ten best pairs of names for the spotted little animals will receive respectively a brace of tickets to Loew's Fox where "Zoo in Budapest" opens today or for any succeeding show.

The jaguars, who are native to South and Central American tropic wildlands, are in their infancy about the size of a well-grown house cat. When full-grown, they reach a height of 2½ to 3 feet. They are brown, spotted with tan. They are known to zoologists as among the fiercest of jungle cats.

The baby jaguars that Post readers are going to christen were born, however, not in their jungle forbears' home, but right here in the Zoo and so Washingtonians have a close interest in them.

All entries must be sent to the Fox Theater. The contest closes next Monday night at 6 o'clock. So look lively, folks!

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE coming to the Palace Theater today of the Fox picturization of Noel Coward's historical spectacle, "Cavalcade," serves to center attention once more on the career of that brilliant young British actress, Miss Diana Wynyard.

Diana Wynyard.

Miss Wynyard has been variously cited as one of the two or three arresting feminine personalities discovered by the cameras and microphones this past twelvemonth. Katharine Hepburn is the other one, if there be but two, and Mae West the third, if the proper number runs to three.

Miss Wynyard's widely heralded appearance in "Rasputin and the Empress," with the three Barrymores, was to many a bit of a disappointment. The blame, however, was less hers than Charles MacArthur's for having distributed his notable acting opportunities with such meagerness in that tragic drama of the fall of the Romanoff dynasty, which a large segment of the press and public was so astonished that he, of all persons, had written in the first place!

It was not until "Cavalcade" was released that both critics and lay public began to become aware of the vast potentialities lying beneath the placid surface of this young woman's strangely tranquil yet dynamic endowments. As Jane Marryot, Diana Wynyard moves quietly and majestically through the turbulent events of "this cavalcade called life," a living symbol of the imperishable worth to the individual and to society of a rigid and unwavering fidelity to the principles of courage, honor and virtue. It is a portrayal tender in its gentleness, formidable in its strength and moving in its simplicity.

And now we are to look forward to another performance by this gifted actress no more closely resembling her impersonation in "Cavalcade" than Jane Marryot is like Princess Natasha in "Rasputin." For you will recall that Miss Wynyard is cast opposite John Barrymore in the screen version of Robert E. Sherwood's inflammable postwar comedy, "Reunion in Vienna." Mr. Barrymore, of course, appears in the role of the Hapsburg exile created by Alfred Lunt, and Miss Wynyard as his former inamorata, originally played with such fine skill by Lynn Fontanne.

When these three screen performances are lined up side by side, it will be pretty generally apparent what a versatile and resourceful young actress this Miss Diana Wynyard really is.

The Palace engagement of "Cavalcade," it might be noted in passing, is its first in the Capital at the popular scale of prices customarily charged for continuous daily performances.

Having sat in at the Wednesday night broadcast of Waring's Pennsylvanians on the Old Gold hour from the auditorium of the National Press Club, and observed proceedings from a front row chair immediately next the remote control set, it is a matter of remark what changes have come over the technique of sponsored broadcasting since that distant evening nine years ago when these same Waring's Pennsylvanians were the featured attraction on the first Crandall Saturday Nighters' broadcast from the old Station WRC, out at Fourteenth street and Park road.

In those days, the broadcasting station was operated principally to create a demand for the receiving sets manufactured by the RCA and was charged off to advertising. We ran wild on those care-free and air-free Saturday nights! Now the business is timed to a split second, hedged about with what seems a vast amount of superfluous flubdub and otherwise "built up" to the proportions of a "big time" racket.

Probably Fred would agree that we had more fun in the old days; more fun, but not so much dough, if you know what I mean!

The Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania, which brings its forty-fifth annual production, "Out of the Blues," to the Belasco Theater for one performance tonight, is one college organization that has done something for alma mater in a material way.

From profits of past years the club has built a unit in Pennsylvania's beautiful dormitories and sponsored lectures on the art of drama by leading playwrights.

Much of the success is due a devoted band of alumni who, from the days of "Lurline," its first presentation in 1889, spend a good part of the time between seasons in working out the details of the next year's production.

For example, this year's show, "Out of the Blues," was finished by Christmas, after surviving the competition of a dozen other "books."

Incidentally, the club's three-year absence from Washington has whipped up a keen and impatient anticipation of tonight's relighting of the Belasco.

As one gathers these vagrant notes for a sparse and wistful Friday column, he learns by great good fortune and a little of Teddy Mitchell's foresight that Joseph Santley, Collie of the "Lambs All-Star Public Gambol," down for a single performance at the National Sunday night, arrives from New York tomorrow to complete final arrangements for the Lambs' show here exactly as it was done—also for a single performance—in New York last Sunday night.

With the Collie will be William Norton, of the Sam Harris offices, in charge of all ticket matters, the crew from the Lambs' own theater and one or two of the musical directors.

This advance guard will have the National in perfect shape for the Lambs when they tumble out of their special train in Union Station on Sunday afternoon.

If you go in for adding machines and statistics and that sort of tosh, there will be 150 or more in the Lambs' party. Immediately following the performance, they will entrain for New York, where many of them have to report early Monday morning for radio work and rehearsals.

And make no mistake about 150 Lambs being able to "put on a show."

Waring's Pennsylvanians being the box office whams they have always been, and their second weeks being just like their first so far as "pull" is concerned, the Earle Theater already is laying emphasis on the fact that five de luxe performances will be given on Saturday, doors opening at 9:15 a. m., if there is any such hour as that!

Personal aside to Mrs. Annie J. Sucrow, Wheaton, Md.: Hobart Bosworth calls it a "writer's round of applause." Thank you very much.

And if you think there isn't genuine exhilaration of the spirit in messages like this, you are approximately, or more, crazy:

"Dear sir: Permit an old man near 80 to thank you for objecting in your popular column to suggestive jokes on the stage. Signed) LOUIS W. REILLY, 6006 Broad Branch road, Chevy Chase."

And thank you, sir, for your thoughtfulness in writing.

A news flash advises that Douglas Fairbanks cabled Mary Pickford from Biarritz on Wednesday that he will sail for New York tomorrow.

COLD AIR COLLISION NEW AKRON THEORY

Dr. Von Karman Says Polar Fronts Meeting Could Have Doomed Ship.

A terrific and infrequent weather phenomenon, the collision of two great masses of cold air, may have rent asunder and crashed the airship Akron, according to a theory advanced yesterday.

Dr. T. von Karman, director of the Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory, declared that such a condition existed on the night of the Akron disaster.

When two such masses of air meet—they are called polar fronts—a powerful upward surge of warm air is formed, which no airship could weather, he declared.

In his talk before the American Physical Society, Dr. von Karman said that under present forecasting methods such a meeting of polar fronts is not predictable.

Quake Data Studied.

At another scientific meeting, that of the American Geophysical Union and the Seismological Society of America, records of the California earthquake of March 10 were reported.

These records and their interpretation, presented by Frank Neuman, of the Coast Survey, are expected to aid the designing of buildings which will withstand quakes.

A primary conclusion was that architects must strengthen buildings against the vertical earth movement as well as the horizontal, which was formerly considered the most important.

A new distinction for the Bureau of Standards is imminent—that of the "world's center of gravity," it was reported at the meeting.

Gravity Measurement.

Measurements of the force which anchors man and all his works to the ground have been in progress for four years at the bureau and when they are completed a more accurate result than ever before achieved is expected.

This report was made by Dr. Paul R. Heyl, prominent physicist. At present the gravity has been measured most accurately at Potsdam, Germany.

Knowledge of the power of gravity is valuable in many ways—prospecting for minerals and oil and studying earthquakes are two examples.

LINKE LIMITS RED SOX TO FOUR HITS TO WIN, 3-2

McAfee Goes To Rescue In Ninth

Rookie Develops Wild Streak After Brilliant Hurling.

Schulte Drives in 2 Tallies; Only 2,000 Watch Contest.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Mass., April 27.—Ed Linke, the cockey kid from Chicago, whose smoke ball lifted him out of the Mississippi Valley League into the majors with no stops en route, had the Red Sox swinging like a lot of yokels this afternoon and the Boston team that beat Earl Whitehill and Alvin Crowder in Washington took a 3-to-2 beating from the Nats today.

Only about 2,000 saw the game.

But Linke was blocked on the threshold of a complete triumph with one man out in the ninth when a streak of wildness and a two-base blow by Pinch-Hitter Smead Jolley threatened to deprive the Nats of the ball game.

The Sox had three men on base and needed two runs to tie the score when Manager Cronin decided to place the Nats' fate in older and more experienced hands.

Bill McAfee was summoned from under the grandstand, where he had been warming up, and, aided by a sensational stop of Pinch Hitter Walwood's hot smash by Joe Kuhel, pulled out of the hole with colors flying.

Permits Only Four Hits.

Linke, the cockey kid from Chi, with the cherubic countenance that imported no harm to any one, raised considerable havoc with the Red Sox batting averages, slipping his fast ball by four for strike-outs and permitting only four safe hits in the eight and one-third innings he toiled, demonstrating a deal of intestinal fortitude when his wildness filled the bases once.

The Nats had picked up three runs at odd moments off Gordon Rhodes in the first and fifth innings and added a third, which proved to be the decisive tally, off Bob Kline in the ninth to cement the fame of Rhodes as the season's outstanding hard-luck pitcher. The Red Sox twice this season had previously dropped 2-1 decisions, allowing only five hits on each occasion.

Linke, left in the box by Cronin during trying moments in the sixth and seventh from which he extricated himself like a veteran, faltered with one out in the ninth by passing Oliver. Jolley, pinch hitting for Shea, rifled a double to right field. Oliver taking third. When Linke also walked Stumpf, batting for Kline, filling the bases. Cronin gave him a pat on the back and bid him Godspeed to the locker room.

Oliver Scores For Sox.

Pinch-hitter Winsett, who is skating on thin ice with the Red Sox and will soon have to shuffle off to Buffalo again unless he shows rapid improvement with the willow, was the first to face McAfee, and he smacked one between first and second that would have left Joe Kuhel no play had there not been a man on first. Kuhel, however, tossed to Cronin for a force-out on Stumpf at second while Oliver scored from third and Olsen, running for Jolly, took third.

The ball game was then up to Roy Johnson, but he bit on a slow curve that dribbled into the box to McAfee, who lobbed it up to Kuhel to end the threat and the ball game.

Ossie Bluege got the first of the

Blaeholder Wins Over Indians, 3-2

Holds Enemy to Four Hits as Browns Take Only Game of Series.

Cleveland, April 27 (A.P.).—The veteran right-hander, George Blaeholder, held the Indians to four hits and won, 3 to 2, in the final game of the Browns' engagement here today, giving St. Louis one victory out of the three-game series.

Mel Harder, of the Indians, continued to play in his losing streak, dropping his third in succession since the opening of the season.

Jim Levey batted in all of St. Louis' runs. His single over third base in the fifth inning scored Rick Ferrell. In the seventh he punched a single past Burnett with the bases full, scoring Campbell and Ferrell.

Repaid Withdrawn From Derby Field

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—James F. Johnson, owner of the Quincy Stable, announced here today he had withdrawn his colt, Repaid, from the Kentucky Derby.

Repaid, for a brief period, was the future book favorite for the Kentucky classic, but has run poorly in two starts at Havre de Grace. It was because of his colt's poor showing in Maryland that Johnson decided to withdraw him.

Repaid will be shipped to Aqueduct and continued in training.

White Sox Pound Detroit by 10 to 4

Get 16 Hits and Knock Out Marberry as Appling Leads Attack.

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—Chicago's White Sox hammered Fred Marberry and Whitlow Wyatt today for sixteen hits, concentrated in the seventh and eighth innings, to defeat Detroit, 10 to 4, and get an even break in the series.

After Gerald Walker's home run with a man on had tied it for Detroit in the sixth, the Sox batted Marberry out in the seventh and continued their assault on Wyatt. Luke Appling paced the batsmen with a triple, a double and two singles. The three former Philadelphia stars, Al Simmons, George Haas and Jimmy Dykes, accounted for half the Chicago hits. Ed Durham pitched the whole game for the Sox, yielding eleven hits.

2 Argentine Drivers Reach U. S. for Race

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Juan Antonio Gaudino and Paul Riganti, Argentine automobile race drivers, arrived today from Buenos Aires on their way to Indianapolis, where they will participate on May 30 in the speed classic.

Riganti, who is expected to do most of the driving, with Gaudino, who dropped out of last year's race at the 175 mile mark, acting as relief driver. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, former race driver and World War flying ace, met the Argentines when they arrived on the liner American Legion. Gaudino and Riganti will stay here several days before proceeding to Indianapolis.

BOAT MARKS BROKEN.

Gardone, Riviera, Italy, April 27 (A.P.).—Count Carlo Casalini set what were claimed to be new outboard motorboat records in the 350 and 250 cubic centimeter classes today. He averaged 64.992 kilometers an hour in the former category and 55.660 in the latter.

Yank Homers Humble A's By 5 to 2

Combs, Ruth, Gehrig Hit for Circuit; Ruffing Wins.

Macks Given Only 4 Hits; Cain, Wild, Allows Six.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees lashed out with their famous home run assault today and defeated the Athletics, 5 to 2, in a sprightly pitching duel between Charley (Red) Ruffing and Merrit (Sugar) Cain.

All except one of the Yankee runs came through the simple but effective method of clouting the ball out of the park. Earl Combs walloped his first homer of the season in the third inning. Babe Ruth hoisted one far over the right field wall after Joie Sewell had drawn a pass in the fifth for his third homer of the season, and Lou Gehrig topped off the carnival in the seventh by smashing his fifth circuit drive of the campaign.

Not until the final inning could the Yanks score by any other method, but Ruffing meanwhile limited the A's to four hits and the New Yorkers had a comfortable lead. In the last frame after two were out Ruth drew a walk. Gehrig hit to Foxx and Cain dropped his throw to first, then Dixie Walker, subbing for his suspended roommate, Ben Chapman, beat out a single that drove in Ruth with the final run.

A's Score Two In Sixth.

The only Philadelphia scoring came after two were out in the sixth. Ruffing handed passes to Roger Cramer and Mickey Cochrane then Jimmie Foxx and Bob Johnson bunched a pair of singles, half the A's hits, to bring in two runs.

Except for throwing home run balls and for wildness, Cain pitched a good game. He allowed only six hits, but walked nine.

Raines Victim of E. Dusek In Headline Rassle Bout

Rough Match Ends in 35 Minutes as 4,000 American Legion Night Fans Cheer; Shikat Tosses Grobmier.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

DICK SHIKAT returned to the Auditorium last night and remained just long enough to throw fearless Fred Grobmier, wrestling's boy scout, in the seminwind-up on the card presented by Joe Turner at the Auditorium, but it was lisping Ernie Dusek's grueling struggle with Dick Raines in the feature attraction that actually stirred the sporting blood in those present.

Officially, it was American Legion night, and legionnaires and their friends swelled the attendance to well over the 4,000 mark. There was a predominance of blondes in the audience, giving rise to the belief that after all they may not prefer gentlemen. Certainly, the gladiators in the main go were anything but well mannered.

Young Dusek Wins Feature.

Young Dusek spilled Raines out on the mat with a series of crotch holds and body slams to win the three pats on the back after 35 minutes of laborious work, thus adding another story to his build-up.

The pair stormed about the inclosure, slapping, kicking and butting one another, getting and breaking various holds and raising heck in general, while gales of laughter swept through the ranks of the cash customers.

If Mr. Barnum and his partner, Mr. Bailey, neglect to sign these two when their circus makes its annual two-day stand in this city next week, they will be guilty of treason to the show business. Raines inserted his fingers in Dusek's mouth and made a good effort to extract his tonsils, but Ernie chewed off a big hunk of thumb and evened the score.

Dusek got credit for a double play, throwing the big Texan into the orchestra pit twice in rapid succession, and just to prove that there were no hard feelings between them, Raines sent Ernie hurtling down to meet the folks sitting in the front row.

Two slaps in the mush and bony elbow in the ribs started Raines back to the dressing room. He floundered around a bit before Dusek walked over, picked him up by his fat neck and proceeded to use him for a bass-drum stick on the floor.

Shikat evidently graduated from the old school of wrestling while Grobmier probably quit in his freah-

DODGERS WIN, 1 TO 0, OVER BRAVES

Beck Bests Brandt, But Brooklyn Gets Only Four Hits.

BROOKLYN, April 27 (A.P.).—Walter Beck outsteadied Ed Brandt to give the Dodgers a 1-to-0 victory over the Boston Braves today, although the Boston southpaw held Brooklyn to four hits. It was the third mound duel of the season between Beck and Brandt, each having won a 2-to-1 decision previously.

Del Bissonette drove in the only run in the second inning, cracking out a single after Johnny Frederick had singled and Tony Cuccinello had advanced him to second with a sacrifice.

LEAGUE LEAD IS LOST BY PIRATES

Double-Steal Hurts Bucs as Cubs Win Out, 3 to 2.

PITTSBURGH, April 27 (A.P.).—The championship Chicago Cubs, scoring all their runs in the fourth inning, trounced Pittsburgh, 3 to 2, today and blasted the Pirates out of first place in the National League.

A double steal by Stephenson and Grimm while pitcher Bill Swift was winding up, was a large factor in the invaders' triumph over Swift's five-hit pitching.

Babe Herman scored the first run in the fourth for the Cubs. Then with Stephenson and Grimm on first and second, Swift took a big wind-up. Both Cub runners advanced.

Koenig then scored Stephenson on a long fly and Hartnett followed with a single to send Grimm home.

Swift Eased Out for Pinch-Hitter.

Swift, who checked the Chicago artillery in the other frames, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Guy Bush about equalled Swift's tossing, holding the Pirates hitless until the fifth. The Pittsburghers touched Bush for three wallops in the sixth to score their first run.

A rally in the ninth failed by inches. With two out and P. Waner on first, Vaughan tripled off the right field screen. The drive missed the top of the screen by a narrow margin Piet failed in the crisis, popping out to Demaree.

Bush went the route for the Cubs, allowing six safeties.

Griffith Plans Vigorous Defense

Club Owner Aims to Prove Attempt to "Get" Myer.

Peaceful Contest Is Expected With Yanks Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., April 27.—The Nats moved out of Boston this evening by train to bivouac within the gates of Little Old New York tonight and await tomorrow's developments on the field at Yankee Stadium and in the judicial chambers of League President William Harridge, who will hold court on the now famed battle of Griffith Stadium enacted last Tuesday.

A few hours before Manager Cronin leads his lads against the Yankees the Nats' front office force, captained by Owner Clark Griffith, will go into session with Mr. Harridge on the matter of the suspensions and possible fines

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Boston, Mass., April 27.

TIMES being what they are and ready cash not plenty, a couple of subdued ball teams are slated to take the field at Yankee Stadium tomorrow in the resumption of hostilities between the Nats and the Yanks.

The fines that doubtless will be levied against Buddy Myer, Earl Whitehill and Ben Chapman will be a forceful reminder that the guy who takes the first poke at the opposition will in turn be socked where it hurts most—in the pocketbook.

The Nats have their own private opinions concerning the Yankees and vice versa, but if tradition is maintained it will be a nice, placid ball game tomorrow to the great disappointment of the fans who anticipated further fireworks and fisticuffing.

The return of the Yankees to Griffith Stadium last year on the first visit after Bill Dickey led with a potent right that busted the jaw of Carl Reynolds was accompanied by no further violence by the ball players who, it seems, had heard about Dickey's $1,000 fine.

Speaking of fines, they are not being paid by the club owners these days. The magnates a few years

SWEEPING LIGHT REPEATS IN HAVRE DE GRACE FEATURE

Track Record Equalled by Lacy Colt

Broadway Lights Is Second, With Open Hearth Third.

Victory One of Three Credited to Jockey Hank Mills.

By WALTER HAIGHT.
(Post Staff Correspondent.)

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 27.—Sweeping Light, which raced to victory yesterday, came back today to equal the track record of 1:44 2-5 for a mile and 70 yards set in 1928 by Victorian. It all happened in the Lansdowne, the day's feature race which wasn't a race at all, but a romp for the slick-coated son of Manna—Sweeping Glance, which was once pointed for the Kentucky Derby.

By a margin of three lengths, Sweeping Light led the reformed plater, Broadway Lights, across the wire while Open Hearth was third in the three-nose place finish which found Old Master barely nudged out of the money.

Sweeping Light is owned and operated by one M. J. Lacey, who shifted from yesterday's choice of Jockey Petz to Hank Mills and, aside from a brief moment at the start when Open Hearth beat the gate, the combination was never headed. Mills had a two-length advantage at the clubhouse turn while Open Hearth was doing the chief chasing. Going down the back stretch, Mills gave the 4-year-old a breather and then let out several notches entering the stretch to draw away.

Races Attended By 8,000.

The race featured a program which drew some 8,000 to the course. Favorites were failing with regularity all afternoon.

Sonny Workman and Ladogan proved a winning combination in the 2-year-old romp, but it was a very lucky victory. Golden Measure, the odds-on favorite, and several others prominent in the early running, went to the outside fence at the stretch turn and Workman, who had been hugging the rail, went to the front never to be headed. Ladogan, which campaigned last winter in the South, paid $17.20, while Off Duty, second, rewarded at $23.60. Peedeeque, of the field, was third.

Towee, one of the heavier played in this sprint, led from the backstretch to the wire to bring a victory to the Sagamore Stables. Mack Sennett and Rock Point finished noses apart for the minor awards. Towee had to shake off several in the field, but was being hard pressed by the other money horses. Towee paid off with $7.40 mutuel.

March Step Wins Third.

March Step stepped home in the third race. It was the Buddy Hanford-Preston Burch combination that had charge of the gelded son of Light Brigade, and after a slight struggle soon after the break March Step maintained his superiority. Wise Money, a longshot, was second, with Tommy Lad, the favorite, third. March Step was an outsider in the betting and paid a $29.80 mutuel. Wise Money had a $42.40 place ticker.

Hank Mills rode Cabezo to a decision over Wedding Ring in the fourth, another 6-furlong sprint. This pair was credited with a length verdict over the favored Wedding Ring, and Mills certainly shared honors with his mount, which stayed behind the terrific pace set by Wedding Ring and then moved up inside the quarter pole. Proteus accounted for the show.

Hank Mills made it three winners for the day by riding Walter H. home in the sixth. Coucci and Bun D. were second with the favorite, Golden Fate, a close third.

Daudet saved the favorite players from a shutout in the final by defeating, among others, Polar Brush and Soeur Blanche.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADOGAN, $17.20, $8.20, $5.60; OFF DUTY, $23.60, $10.40; PEEDEEQUE (field), $3.80.

LADOGAN, kept close up and strongly handled, raced the pacemakers into submission and drew out at will during the final furlong. OFF DUTY, a keen factor, disposed of VANDIS when straightened into the home stretch and held on well, but was no match for the winner. PEEDEEQUE slipped through on the inside at the stretch turn, and finished steadily. DONTARA, forced to race on the outside, was racing gamely at the end. GOLD STRIKE was vigorously ridden and had no excuses. STEPBROTHER overcame interference to close full of run. IPSE DIXIT had a rough trip. HEROWIN stumbled and almost unseated Jones in the first sixteenth mile. LIBERTY OAK broke very slow. GOLDEN MEASURE had a rough journey. VANDIS tired early.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:07. Winner, Sagamore Stable's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOWEE, $7.40, $4.40, $3.20; MACK SENNETT, $13.00, $6.00; ROCK POINT, $4.00.

TOWEE, showing sudden improvement, shook off STROLL ALONG after the initial furlong, saved ground and had something left when put to mild urging nearing the finish. MACK SENNETT moved up fast on the outside when entering the home stretch, but hung when the final test came. ROCK POINT stumbled when the start came, recovered quickly and coming through on the inside in the final drive was gradually overtaking the first two. BRAVE AND BOLD was under strong pressure all the way and had no excuses. INSTIGATOR raced evenly. STROLL ALONG weakened after a half mile. WARD IN CHANCERY closed fast from a slow beginning.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:41. Off at 3:46½. Winner, Mrs. T. H. Somerville's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARCH STEP, $29.80, $21.40, $10.40; WISE MONEY, $42.40, $12.80; TOMMY LAD, $2.80.

MARCH STEP, rushed up on the inside to take command midway of the back stretch, withstood stout contention from WISE MONEY, responded to punishment during the closing furlong and held on stoutly. WISE MONEY, securing racing room on the inside, and following MARCH STEP closely, weakened slightly when approaching the finish.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CABEZO, $7.20, $3.00, $3.20; WEDDING RING, $2.60, $2.40; PROTEUS, $3.60.

CABEZO lunged into the air when the break came, moved into contention swiftly, and continuing stoutly for the final drive outfinished WEDDING RING. Latter, away quickly, opened up a good lead while saving ground, but weakened when caught. PROTEUS, hard ridden all the way, was unable to menace the first two. GRACE BLOTTER was making up ground slowly at the finish. VISA showed speed for a half mile. MY COUNSELLOR was outrun after the opening quarter mile. BATTLING KNIGHT broke slow and was never a factor. STROLLING MAID was practically left. NOAJOYCE broke down and was pulled up rounding the turn.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Lansdowne. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEEPING LIGHT, $8.40, $5.20, $3.80; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $8.40, $4.60; OPEN HEARTH, $9.20.

SWEEPING LIGHT, rushed to the first turn, was raced in front while setting a swift pace, and then drew away steadily when straightened into the home stretch. BROADWAY LIGHTS, steadied along in the early stages, came through on the inside during the stretch run and closed fast. OPEN HEARTH broke in motion and swerved in front of OLD MASTER when the break came. He raced close up and held on stoutly. The latter moved up determinedly rounding the turn, but was not good enough. MAD PRUMP finished strong on the outside. GLIDELIA was taken under restraint directly after the start and just galloped along under very timid handling. She was eased up all during the stretch run.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:30. Off at 5:31. Winner, I. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WALTER H., $12.80, $4.40, $3.60; BUN D., $3.80, $3.00; GOLDEN FATE, $3.00.

WALTER H. showing much improvement and going close up with the leaders, swung to the outside for the final issue and finishing determinedly were the pacemakers down in the final drive. BUN D., taken under steadying restraint early, raced hard and tired in the last half mile and outstayed GOLDEN FATE. Latter, rushed hard after breaking with the trailers, was used up chasing BUN D. and he weakened. CANON LAW could not reach the pacemakers when put to a drive. ARCHWOOD and the others were outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate for all but Grand Hopes. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:00. Off at 6:06½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DAUDET, $3.80, $2.80, $2.40; POLAR BRUSH, $5.20, $3.40; SOEUR BLANCHE, $2.80.

DAUDET took command at his leisure when midway of the back stretch, went into a winning lead and held POLAR BRUSH safe during the final drive. POLAR BRUSH, prominent and racing strongly, could not seriously threaten the winner when put to a drive. SOEUR BLANCHE made up ground on the outside. REVONAH could not reach the pacemakers under strong pressure. THE OFF closed a good gap. PRETTY WISE stopped after six furlongs and then lost much ground when he was forced out at the stretch turn. ELECTRIC GAFF stopped fast. GRAND HOPES refused to break.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

HAVRE DE GRACE, APRIL 27.

DEAR AL:

Blank, blank, blank . . . well, anyway, when we get to Pimlico we will have eight races every day . . . zero, zero, zero . . . the great Bennings, the same fellow who picked five winners Wednesday . . . shutout, shutout, shutout . . . and we were going to hit the boss for a raise . . . seven losers, seven losers, seven losers . . . yes, sir, right down the line and not once to the payoff . . . Mike crawled under the press box just before the seventh . . . he said Polar Brush couldn't beat Daudet, and he was right . . . for tomorrow, I suggest a few mind bets on these . . . you can parley 'em, if 'em and reverse 'em . . . as for me, I'll only be watching 'em.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—RAGTOWN BELLE is an experienced young racer with enough speed to make her presence felt in a field of this sort. No standout, but looks like a paying proposition. ESPERANTO may be the second one ahead of BIG DIPPER.

SECOND RACE—Don't be surprised if BALLY BAY goes the route today in speedy fashion despite the fact that she is looked upon as a quitter. Certainly couldn't be in better shape than at present. GRAND ACRE was racing a trifle high the last time, but will show improvement tomorrow.

DAMASCENE for the show.

THIRD RACE—RHODESIA is alleged to have worked 6 furlongs in 1:14 for this maiden affair. Gets top pick on that effort. PRINCE ABBOT and ELECTRIC GAFF for the remainder.

FOURTH RACE—EDELWEISS is reported to be in excellent shape and I expect her to open the season with a victory. PARITY ran well on an off track and may be dangerous. STAR PORTRE for the show award.

FIFTH RACE—ILLUSIVE can better that last and must to take care of these. She is right up to tops, I'm told, and will be ready to battle every inch. BLACK QUEEN and CUTIE FACE to fight it out for the other money places.

SIXTH RACE—WISE COUNT is my pick. Came with a closing rush the last time. BUTTER BEANS has been prominent here, having led the field home twice. Can't see her worse than second tomorrow. GLORIFY for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—MATADI shot and missed here. Might be worth a wager tomorrow. TRAFFIC JUDGE made a nice move entering the stretch the other day. SYRIAC is home when they say the word. You try to guess.

Speedy Derby Workout for Charley O.

Wins Backers by Running 1 1-8 Miles in 1:53 3-5.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27 (A.P.).—Charley O., winner of the Florida Derby, who has steadily won more backers for the Kentucky Derby here, May 6, turned in a mile and an eighth workout today that gave him additional promise.

The Brown colt, named as the only eligible by the R. M. Eastman estate, clipped off the mile and an eighth in the fast time of 1:53 3-5. He worked at Douglas Park here since the Churchill Downs track still had some damp spots at one turn and trainer J. T. Taylor evidently wanted to give him another test on a fast track.

Red Whisk Shows Fast Workout.

Charley O. was clocked the quarter in 0:24 2-5, half in 0:48 3-5, five-eighths in 1:01 1-5, three-quarters in 1:13 4-5, and the mile in 1:40 flat. After doing the mile and an eighth in 1:53 3-5, he galloped out a mile and three-sixteenths in 2:00 2-5.

Red Whisk, C. C. Van Meter's chestnut gelding, was worked over a mile at the Downs, covering it in 1:45. His fractional time was: quarter 0:24, half 0:49, three-quarters 1:15. Jockey Willie Garner, who was up, lost a stirrup in the last eighth and had to ease him up a bit.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 27 (U. P.).—Although a high wind swept the local course several candidates for the Kentucky Derby were exercised over a fast track early today.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Dark Winter covered a speedy mile in 1:41 3-5, the half in 0:50, and six furlongs in 1:16. Dark Conquest, stablemate of Dark Winter, stepped six furlongs two seconds slower than his half-brother. Both colts are by Traumer, sire of Dark Fey and Dark Law, also nominated for the derby by Kilmer.

G. H. (Pete) Gostwick's Garden Message did an easy half mile in 0:52, with P. A. Markey's Swinhaven stepping six furlongs in 1:17 2-5. William H. Gallagher's Crack Flyer worked an impressive mile in 1:45, while William Ziegler, jr's., Keep Out breezed eight panels in 1:50 flat.

Leslie Makes Terry Willing to Stay Out

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—No matter how soon his broken wrist heals, Manager Bill Terry will not return to first base for the New York Giants if his understudy, Sam Leslie, is hitting well.

"I don't know how long I'll be out of the game," Bill says, "but the first base job is Sam's as long as he can make good. If the team puts on a winning streak with him there I won't break up the combination."

Incidentally Terry's injury has broken an "endurance record" that had lasted for three years. Until yesterday, he had not missed a game since October 6, 1929.

DELAWARE NINE ROUTS G. W. IN NIGHT BASEBALL GAME

3,500 Crowd Sees 12-2 Game

Colonials Never in Running After the Fifth Frame.

Reichelderfer Tosses Out the First Ball; Shriners Parade.

DELAWARE UNIVERSITY baseball team surprised George Washington University here at Griffith Stadium last night by trouncing it in the first game of a two-game series by a score of 12 to 2. Despite the chilly weather, 3,500 fans were on hand to witness the first night baseball contest in the Capital City.

Prior to the game a colorful procession of shriners paraded in their finest fashion to the delight of the fans.

Commissioner Throws First Ball.

Prominent among those in attendance was Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners, who tossed out the initial ball, and Senator Daniel O. Hasting, of Delaware.

As to the game, the home team scored a marker in the first, saw the score tied in the third and then the Delaware team went on a scoring spree starting the fifth and tallied at least once in all of the remaining innings.

Riley, on the hill for Delaware, allowed but seven hits and kept them fairly well scattered. The Colonials used three pitchers and all were hit hard on occasions, with Hudson, G. Thompson, Brady and Pikus getting two hits each, while Pitcher Riley helped win his own game by crashing out three.

The two teams meet again in the stadium tonight, with amateur boxing bouts as an added attraction. No admission will be charged.

man year. The big Dutchman applied his knowledge of pretzel-bending to good effect on the arms and legs of his opponent.

For a time the match seemed to be a part of J. Dempsey's Boxing Shows, Inc., but when it got too rough Shikat simply dumped Legs flat on his back for the three strikes. Grobmier suffered a minor neck injury when he fell on the lower strand of the ropes.

Paul Jones pinned Joe Cox with a figure-four scissors after 26½ minutes of work in the main preliminary. In the other bouts, Eli Fischer threw Jim Atlas with a body press in 13 minutes, and John Katan drew with Vic Christy in a 30-minute time limit engagement.

Harridge to Make Decision On Nat-Yank Brawl Today

faced by Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill for their part in the pitched affray in Washington.

No visible evidence that the Nats will turn the other cheek to the Yankees is detected in the grim mutterings of the trainload of Washington players that left the Hub today, and matters between the Nats and Yankee players are apparently still highly-combustible, but the pronouncements of sentence on the suspended players by Harridge tomorrow is expected to cool the militant feelings of both teams.

Harridge Hears Yanks.

Harridge heard the New York and the umpiratical angles of the case today in Philadelphia and will call in Griffith tomorrow morning for the Washington testimony with the prospect that the Nats' owner will bring both Whitehill and Myer before the league head for interrogation.

Griffith is preparing a vigorous defense for his athletes. The silver-thatched owner of the club, who has participated in and witnessed baseball brawls for nigh onto 50 years, is traveling with the club on the present northern invasion and is condoning the actions of Myer and Whitehill without reservations.

He will tell Harridge that Myer, if he were not justified in attacking Chapman, could hardly be expected to restrain himself in the heat of the play inasmuch as the spiking was the culmination of what Griffith terms a deliberate two-year attempt of the Yankee base-running star to "get" Myer, who is ready to display several gaping spike wounds inflicted by Chapman this season and last. Griffith will seek to show a motive by Chapman.

Whitehill's defense will be based on the fact that Chapman struck the first blow in the dugout affray. The fact that Whitehill taunted Chapman as the latter was making his way to the locker room is held by Griffith to be no grievous offense inasmuch as such taunts are a daily occurrence in the big leagues and the big-league ball player should learn to take them.

Umpires' Say Is Important.

Griffith admits, however, that Harridge's decision will hinge largely on the tenor of the umpires' testimony, but he expects the worst from the umps and will present the Nats' side of the case in no uncertain terms. He will ask, furthermore, why Walker, who was chased out of the game by the umpires, was not suspended, while Whitehill, who was not banished and therefore not indicated at the time, was given a suspension.

The Nats do not expect to escape without a penalty including both fine and suspension, but Griffith is incensed at the suspension of two Washington players as contrasted to the Yankees' one.

Speculation on the extent of the Whitehill-Myer penalties range from the perfunctory three days to the maximum 30 and the $1,000 fine. But those who point to the extenuating circumstances predict a ten-day layoff and $200 fine for Myer, with a less severe punishment for Whitehill. Chapman, who Griffith will say was the one to incite the riot that brought spectators on the field, is expected to draw the same penalty as Myer.

Harridge himself is on the spot. The week before the riot he issued a pronouncement that it behooves the ball players to put more spirit in their work in an effort to bring back the golden days of the game. At the same time he announced severe penalties for fighting on the ball field, and thus is torn between conflicting emotions.

Light Suspensions Expected.

Belief that the suspensions would not be unduly severe, although the fines may be heavy, is caused by Harridge's own delicate position, and the fact that as the league president he is charged with much of the responsibility of engineering a successful season for the league.

Thus, with the Nats the chosen contender of the heavily favored Yankees, heavy suspensions that would deprive the Washington club of such valuable cogs as Myer and Whitehill would widen the margin between the Yanks and the opposition, and result, perhaps, in another runaway pennant triumph for the Yankees and a profitless season for the league.

Harridge is in no enviable position, with Griffith ready to ask for a hearing before the league directors if the sentence is deemed unreasonable, and Owner Ruppert, of the Yankees, doubtless prepared to take the same action.

Yankees Tell Harridge Their Side of Riot Story

Philadelphia, April 27 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees went on trial before a one-man judge and jury today for their part in the free-for-all fight with the Senators in Washington last Tuesday.

Some of the fans attending the game took part in the disturbance, adding to the seriousness of the investigation by William H. Harridge, president of the American League.

"We are in favor of aggressive baseball, but at the same time can not stand for rioting in parks," Harridge said in answer to a question, "Will you deal heavily with the players already suspended?"

After consultation with Umpires George Moriarty and Harry Geisel, star witnesses to the Capital feuding, Harridge asserted he could give out no indication of what he would do in the case.

"I received the umpires' report, and I have talked with Manager McCarthy of the New York Club and his players who were engaged in the altercation," he said. "I am going to New York tonight, where I shall meet the Washington players and their manager as well as Clark Griffith."

He indicated his ruling would be made tomorrow.

Harridge was firm in his remarks about "rowdyism" among rival clubs, though he said he was inclined to view more leniently the incidents that started the fight—Red Chapman's slide into Buddy Myer at second base for the Nats.

Of greater importance, he indicated, was the second rumpus which precipitated more excitement, drawing hundreds of fans to the field where a fight serious enough to bring out the police reserves occurred.

This, apparently, will be the basis of whatever punishment that will be meted out, Harridge suggested indirectly, for it was Earl Whitehill's mix-up with Chapman, when the latter was on his way to the clubhouse that, umpires said, started the major disturbance.

The chieftain of the junior major league circuit questioned at length McCarthy, Chapman and Fred Walker in the Shibe Park umpires' quarters prior to the Athletics' game with the Yankees. Later, he watched the game.

It was noticed that Chapman, though under suspension, was out in uniform, and took practice with his teammates before the game. Under the American League rules, however, he had to withdraw before the game began, resuming street clothes to sit in the stands during the game.

THIS MORNING:

ago discontinued the practice that was so popular, especially during Ruth's bad boy days. The club owner who pays a player's fine is liable to a $5,000 fine himself for violation of the league's rules.

Both Whitehill and Myer worked out with the Nats before the game at Fenway Park today, although league rules required them to be out of uniform by game time; but Cronin has ordered them to keep in top condition.

Young Ed Linke's performance eased the pitching situation for Cronin, who had sent nine pitchers to the post in the last two games with the Yankees and saw his carefully planned hurling turns sadly disrupted.

Walter Stewart, who was chased by the Yanks in the second game at Washington, is slated to face New York tomorrow, with Monte Weaver as the probable choice for the Saturday game.

Cronin and Sewell were running to the box all afternoon with words of encouragement for Linke, who had what it takes until the last inning when a mild streak of wildness persisted. Sewell said that soapstone mixed up in the dirt on the pitching mound, where Linke was rubbing his hands, had made his fingers slippery and affected the kid's control.

Johnny Kerr had a poor day at bat, but he was no drawback out there in the field, making a sparkling catch out in center field of a ball that Schulte couldn't reach and end one Boston threat. He's a handy guy to have around.

Boston fans were hooting Kolls, the new umpire, all day. Kolls' decisions on strikes and balls were by no means pleasing and he had the unhappy faculty of getting in Catcher Shea's way on two foul pops.

The four-hit performance was quite a feat for Linke, inasmuch as the Red Sox had routed Lefty Grove off the hill in their last performance.

Heinie Manush went far up the bank in left field for Warstler's two-bagger that was the first hit off of Linke, and he looked great in the ascent. But coming down the incline was something else again for Heinie, who skidded ingloriously on his back out onto the playing field.

Sharkey Not to Box Schmeling, Report

Titleholder Not to Fight for Promoter Dempsey, Says Manager.

Boston, April 27 (A.P.).—The assertion that Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, would not give Max Schmeling a crack at his title this year and would never box under Jack Dempsey's promotion were given today by Manager John Buckley.

Buckley said that Sharkey's only bout this year would be his title defense against Primo Carnera for the New York Madison Square Garden in June. After that, Buckley said, Sharkey planned to make a European trip with his family.

"It is true," Buckley said, "that Sharkey's contract with the New York Garden expires on June 30, but that does not mean he will not continue boxing for that organization. During the past five years it has paid him $1,000,000 in purses and he regards it as the soundest boxing club in the world.

"Under no consideration will Sharkey ever box for Dempsey. Schmeling was given an opportunity to meet Sharkey this year but he refused it. By 1934 it is possible that some new sensation may come to the front and in that event Schmeling will receive no consideration from Sharkey.

Buckley said Sharkey would return tomorrow from Nova Scotia, where he has been fishing and would start active training for Carnera early in May.

Drake Relays Draw 1,000 Today

Smallest Entry List in Years Is Ready; New Marks Due.

DES MOINES, April 27 (A.P.).—Stars of the Midwest's cinder paths converged on Des Moines tonight for the opening of the twenty-fourth annual Drake relay carnival tomorrow.

The field of more than 1,000, sprinkled with members of the 1932 Olympic team, represented one of the smallest in recent years, but what it lacked in numbers it promised to make up in performances.

The oldest marks in the relays record books were in for a serious challenge during the two days of competition among representatives of 53 universities and colleges and 57 high schools.

Among the Olympic competitors who will resume their activities tomorrow will be Glenn Cunningham, Kansas University's great middle distance runner; Ivan Fuqua and Charles Hornbostel, of Indiana's Big Ten indoor championship squad, and Ralph Metcalfe, Negro speedster from Marquette.

Metcalfe To Seek New Mark.

This quartet is expected to lead the assault upon existing records, with Metcalfe seeking to better the Drake mark of 9.5 seconds in the 100-yard dash and anchoring Marquette's sprint relay teams. The other Olympic performers will see action chiefly in the relay events, although Cunningham may take a shot at the 2-mile mark of 9:13.6 made last year by Henry Brockamith, of Indiana.

The oldest relay marks in the carnival's record books, in the mile and 4 mile relays, face a severe test.

Indiana's hustling mile quartet raced the distance in 3:17.2 at Kansas last week, within three-tenths of a second of the Drake mark made by Iowa in 1926. The 4-mile relay mark of 17:45 was made by Illinois in 1922 and may undergo a revision when the 1933 Illinois quartet hooks up with the teams of Indiana and Grinnell.

One New Trophy Is Added.

One new trophy has been added to awards for winners at the carnival. It is the Saling Memorial Trophy, a traveling award to be given each year to the winner of the 120-yard high hurdles. The trophy was established by residents of Croydon, Iowa, hometown of George Saling, Iowa's Olympic high hurdles champion who was killed two weeks ago in an automobile accident in Missouri. Saling captured the Drake high hurdling crown last year, equaling the world's record of 14.4 seconds.

Tomorrow's program is featured by the finals in the university distance medley relay, in which Cunningham, the Kansas star, will make his first appearance as anchor man on the Jayhawker Team.

Other events include preliminaries in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, the 440, 880, and mile relays in both college and university sections, and in the field events. The finals of the Iowa College Conference half mile also will be run off.

Mrs. Powell Takes Manor Tournament

Mrs. J. P. Powell, who Tuesday won the Phyllis Keeler Miller Memorial tournament at Washington Golf and Country Club, added more laurels to her golfing crown yesterday by winning the "Dirty Dozen" ladies tournament on the Manor Club course.

Mrs. H. B. Hartig was second, Mrs. J. W. Cramer, third, and Mrs. G. E. Scott, fourth. Twenty-two women were entered.

Mrs. J. T. Powell, winner of the Phyllis Keeler Miller Memorial championship Tuesday, won the "Dirty Dozen" golf tournament at Manor yesterday. She had three pars for the twelve holes. Second place was won by Mrs. D. C. Hartig; third by Mrs. J. H. Cramer, and fourth by Mrs. Everett Scott.

Mrs. May Is Low Net Winner in Miller Golf

In the play-off for second low net prize in the Phyllis Keeler Miller Memorial tournament yesterday at Washington Golf and Country Club, Mrs. Catherine May, of Kenwood, triumphed with a 95—14—81. She defeated Mrs. L. B. Platt, of Chevy Chase, with 101—14—87, and Mrs. W. E. Hall, of Washington, who failed to turn in a card.

FOUR new leaders, two individuals, one team and one doubles, came to the fore last night in the City of Washington championship bowling tournament being staged on the Lucky Strike drives. In Class B singles C. T. Milne turned in one of the best scores of the tourney, breaking the 400 mark by three. Milne, who represents the Income Tax Unit League, holds quite a margin over the runner-up and his total figures to stand up.

K. C. Abernathy, of the Supervising Architect's League, was the other singles entrant to top his class. Rolling in the "C" division, he knocked down 372 maples.

In the Class A doubles, Meade and Harrison turned in a 705 set.

Tech and Western Nines Clash Today at Eastern

Foxley's Hopes Dealt Blow by Illness of Nau, to Be Replaced by Wilmuth; Teams About Even at Bat.

TECH and Western plunge into the swim for the interhigh school baseball crown this afternoon at the Eastern High School sports stadium, where they are scheduled to cross bats at 3:30 o'clock.

Tech's hopes were dealt a serious blow when Freddy Nau, clever and dependable regular second baseman, was stricken with an attack of appendicitis and rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation two days ago. His condition was reported as good last night at the hospital, but the situation was much different at Tech.

Ed Foxley, Tech mentor, will send Wilmuth to the keystone sack to replace Nau. The remainder of the team will be Williamson, third base; Beach, right field; Wheeler, shortstop; Thomas, catcher; Karl Nau, left field; Sullivan, first base; Virnstein, center field, and either Turner or Wiles, pitcher.

From the recent games of the teams it would seem that they are about on par in batting strength. Tech blasted a couple of Episcopal hurlers for a 12-3 victory, and Western pounded as many Hyattsville moundsmen for a 16-11 win.

Afield, what edge there is will be in the Eckington nine's favor. Sullivan, a lanky first baseman, has shown well in practice sessions, relieving Foxley of a heavy burden. Wheeler at shortstop, and Thomas behind the plate, both veterans, give the team somewhat of an even keel.

Although one of the youngest teams in the series, Western is represented by a capable lot of ball players. Coach Cliff Moore has been using Stephen at third, Rohrbaugh at second, Corcoran, shortstop, and Brennan at first, a combination that has smoothness afield and a punch at the plate.

Edmonston, Loveless and Kingsley will patrol the pasturelands, with MacPherson likely to start on the mound. Should the latter weaken it is probable that Loveless will be called into silence the big Tech bats.

Navy's Crew Leaves for New York

Will Meet Columbia Tomorrow; Other Events at Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 27.—The Naval Academy varsity crew, admittedly showing more power and decidedly better form compared to early-season performances, left Annapolis for New York today for the annual brush with the Lions of Columbia University, to be rowed on the Harlem River Saturday at noon.

There is considerable rivalry between these institutions in aquatics, growing out of the fact that Richard J. Glendon, former head coach of the Navy sweepsters, has been handling the New Yorkers in recent years, whereas Charles (Buck) Walsh, chief mentor of the Middies, coached the Plebe oarsmen while Glendon was at Annapolis.

The Middies got an even break in their two previous starts this season. They were beaten by Princeton by a slim margin in the opener, two weeks ago, but came back last Saturday to register an impressive victory over Massachusetts Tech in much better time than their own or that of Princeton, and under more adverse conditions of water.

Good Contest Expected.

Both of these brushes were over the Henley course of 1 5-16 miles. The pull with the Lions will be over a 1-mile stretch, and the Tars have registered good time in their preparations this week, although greatly handicapped by rough conditions. This year's crew is somewhat lighter than most Navy varsity groups, but it has power and stamina, and a fine contest in oarsmanship is expected in Saturday's race.

With the oarsmen away and also the field and track representatives participating in the Penn relays, Navy athletes nevertheless will be busy on home grounds, presenting a card of six events. Starting at 1:15 with a baseball game between the plebes and Mount St. Alban's School, of Washington, the following program will be run off:

Lacrosse, plebes and Friends' School, of Baltimore, and tennis, plebes and Maryland State Normal School, both at 1:15. Baseball, varsity and West Virginia University, at 2. Tennis, varsity and North Carolina University, at 2:30. Lacrosse, varsity and University of Pennsylvania, at 3.

Cards Send Art Shires To Farm at Columbus

St. Louis, April 27 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals today announced Arthur "The Great" Shires, infielder recently obtained from the Boston Braves, and three other Cards would be sent to Columbus, their American Association Farm, in exchange for Burges Whitehead, promising second baseman. The others sent to Columbus are Jim Lindsey, pitcher; Charles Wilson, infielder, and Gordon Slade, infielder.

MME. CURIE, whose work with that of her husband in the field of radium resulted in obtaining the element in pure form from pitch-blende, was awarded the Nobel prize for physics in 1903, jointly with her husband and Henri Becquerel.

Her continued work in the field of science brought her honors unattained by any other woman when, in 1911, she was again awarded the Nobel prize, this time for chemistry. She had won other world-wide recognition—the Royal Society honored her with the Davy Medal, and women of America presented her with a gram of radium in 1921.

Experiments conducted at the University of Chicago recently showed that rats can partially digest steel fed to them in the form of ball bearings. The bits of steel remained in the digestive tract for 15 days in one case, during which time the metal had lost 24 per cent of its weight. The digestive acids in the rat's stomach enable it to digest almost anything—even steel.

The site of the pole from which the national ensign was flying September 13, 1814, inspiring Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner," has the distinction of being the birthplace of the national anthem. The ensign seen by Key after the bombardment was his original Star-Spangled Banner.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE ROYAL (MOTOR) MOUNTED.

("The Canadian Royal Mounted Police, famous in fact and in fiction, are giving up horses and will do their work in automobiles."—News item.)

JEAN BAPTISTE roamed the wilderness
And lived in constant fear;
His features paled in deep distress
Whenever he would hear
The sound of any motor car,
And like a sword it cut
Each time there echoed from afar
A flivver's phut-phut-phut.

II.

He'd scamper like a frightened deer
Whenever there would come
A noise across the wastes so drear
That seemed a motor hum;
Jean once jumped nearly 30 feet
(A record, so I think),
When through the wintry snow and sleet
He saw a headlight blink.

III.

Much wanted for a major crime,
He felt his body torn
To little pieces every time
He heard a motor horn;
He'd shudder at the smell of gas
And to his knees he'd go
And tremble like a jellied mass
At wheel prints in the snow.

IV.

At distant sound of grinding brakes
He'd scale the mountain peak,
And leap across a dozen lakes
At any body squeak;
A siren sounding in the night
Would cut him like a whip
And nothing gave him greater fright
Than sound of motor-skip.

V.

I've seen him sniff the morning air
And turn a little green
As he, in tones of deep despair,
Exclaimed, "That's gasoline!"
I've seen him climb a giant tree
And in a sweat inquire,
"I wonder if that noise could be
Some car's exploding tire?"

VI.

"Da horse," said Jean, "he's fina boost,
No knock he's got from me,
But joost da samo, I tell you, Moost,
He no can climb da tree,
He no can joomp across da bay,
He no can scale da mount——
Eets, little theengs like deese, I say,
What most time always count."

VII.

Jean saw fate written in the stars
And all his fears came true;
With R. M. P.'s in motor cars,
What could a fellow do?
When he would jump a mountain peak
The flivvers likewise flew,
And if he swam six lakes a week
The cars would swim them, too.

VIII.

One day so close came R. M. P.
Jean climbed a giant spruce . . .
The flivver likewise climbed that tree
And shook Jean Baptiste loose.
As Jean fell limply in the snow
Down roared the cop's tin can . . .
The Royal Mounted, as you know,
It always gets its man!

Mrs. Norton Praises Uplift Work of Chest

High tribute was paid to the character building organizations of the Community Chest for their work in the prevention of delinquency by Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee, in a talk on "Juvenile Delinquency" made on the Community Forum period over WMAL last night.

Mrs. Norton was introduced by Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, who paid tribute to the speaker as the "Mayor of Washington" and cited her many interests in charitable and philanthropic work both in her own State of New Jersey and in the Nation's Capital.

DIRECTORS ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE

Architectural Awards Are Made and Renovation Drive Is Started.

Election of ten directors, architectural awards and inauguration of the renovize campaign featured the annual meeting of the Washington Board of Trade last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

Those elected directors are: Edgar Morris, president of the Edgar Morris Sales Co.; Lawrence E. Williams, vice president of Fries, Beall & Sharp Co.; W. W. Everett, vice president of Woodward & Lothrop; T. Brooke Amiss, jr., Gallihar & Huguely Lumber Co.; John Joy Edson, president of the Equitable Building Association; Francis G. Addison, jr., president of the Security Saving & Commercial Bank; George W. Offutt, attorney; Elmore T. Burdette, cashier of the Potomac Savings Bank; Herman F. Carl, president of Call Carl, Inc., and E. C. Brandenburg, attorney.

The directors will meet at an early date to elect new officers.

Describes Philadelphia Prospect.

Interest in the Washington Renovize campaign was spurred by a talk from I. D. Gindhart on the success of the campaign conducted in Philadelphia. Mr. Gindhart, an official of the Keystone Telephone Co. of Philadelphia, revealed that $21,000,000 was put into circulatoin through the campaign. Of this sum, $14,800,000 went to labor, he said.

Arthur B. Heaton, general chairman of the local campaign, who introduced Mr. Gindhart, estimated that 5,000 persons can be put to work each month for six months in Washington if the campaign is properly supported.

A feature of the campaign here is to be the renovation of a dilapidated house on a plot of ground opposite the new Department of Commerce Building.

Architectural Winners.

Certificates of merit for outstanding buildings and homes in Washington were awarded to the British Embassy, 3100 Massachusetts avenue northwest, designed by Sir Edwin Luytens and Frederick H. Brooke; Japanese Embassy, Delano & Aldrich.

Standard Oil Co. Building, 261 Constitution avenue northwest, Clyde N. Friz; Brookings Institution, 22 Jackson place northwest, Porter & Lockie; residence at 1719 Hoban road northwest, designed by Horace W. Peaslee, landscape designing by Gertrude Sawyer and J. H. Lapish; dwelling owned by Miss Emma T. Hahm at 6036 Daniels road northwest, designed by James W. Adams, landscape award to Rose Greely.

War Memorial Wins.

District War Memorial, in Potomac Park, designed by Frederick H. Brooke, Nathan C. Wyeth and Mr. Peaslee, independent architects; manufacturing plant of A. F. Jorss Iron Works, 1224 Twenty-fourth street northwest, designed by Porter & Lockie; new Brownley Building, Thirteenth and F streets northwest, also designed by Porter & Lockie.

Montgomery County courthouse at Rockville, Md., designed by Smith & Edwards. These architects also received the best sign award for the sign in front of the Christ Lutheran Church, Sixteenth and Gallatin streets northwest.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby bade the board farewell in a somewhat caustic address, in which he asserted that the District Commissioners are handicapped by work being spread among a score of agencies instead of in one body.

Crosby Commends Board.

Gen. Crosby declared that he had grown to admire the Board of Trade because it worked for the community as a whole and not for one section. He criticized citizens who "come upstairs and ask for things after being told downstairs that there's no use asking."

"After you get through trying to make some improvement in municipal affairs you feel as if you've lost your self-respect," he said.

The Men's Glee Club of American University sang several numbers under the direction of Harlan Randall.

Beer Banned

Conduit Citizens Against Sale of Beverage in Their District.

Fearing that celebrants from Glen Echo would be tempted to stop and celebrate unduly, the Conduit Road Citizens Association last night asked that no "on sale" beer permits be issued to establishments in that district.

The association also asked the Federation of Citizens Associations to demand the continuance of the present zoning regulations, which prevent the opening of roadhouses in the District.

BOYS GO WITH BROCK WITHOUT FAREWELL

Two Children Believed to Be in England Did Not Get Parents' Leave.

The two boys believed to be in England with the "Rev." H. Priestly Brock, whose standing as a clergyman is under investigation by Episcopal Church authorities, are out of the United States "without so much as a by-your-leave" of their Washington parents, it was learned from the Rev. George W. Dow, in charge of the Episcopal City Missions, 1329 K street northwest.

While reluctant to discuss the matter, Dr. Dow admitted that the two boys — Robert and Richard — were placed in the care of Brock when he established a school for boys at Cockeysville, Md., a suburb of Baltimore.

The parents of the boys, said Dr. Dow, are residents of Washington and are "working people." He would not disclose their surnames and referred queries to higher church authorities.

Viewed as "Mental Case."

The Rev. Guy Kagey, pastor of the Episcopal Church at Cockeysville, has averred that Brock is, in his opinion, a "mental case."

The parents of the two boys are very much concerned over their whereabouts, admitted Dr. Dow. He was questioned as to claims said to have been made by Brock that the boys were adopted legally by him. The local clergyman said that as far as he knew this had not been done.

From Cockeysville it was learned that a birthday cake baked for one of the boys bore the surname "Brock" in sugar frosting.

Clergy Status Probed.

Brock left the school on March 3 with the two boys. On March 5 servants at the school received a telegram instructing them to close the establishment and send the other boys to Washington. In the telegram Brock was said to have announced the intention of going to Montreal.

Since then nothing has been heard from the minister and his young charges except a post card marked London, England, which was received by a Cockeysville boy from one of the two boys with Brock.

Brock's status as a clergyman in the Episcopal Church has been under investigation for several weeks by church authorities. The inquiries were begun after he repeatedly was unable to produce credentials as to his purported ordination in Canada.

Overcoat Thief Left When Shot Claimed

The overcoat removed by a fleeing man who was shot early Tuesday by Policeman R. N. Kirby at Connecticut avenue and Porter street northwest has been claimed by Paul Little, 2121 California street northwest. Little told police the coat was stolen from his automobile near McKinley High School several days ago.

Believing that the man was drawing a gun when he suddenly removed the coat, Kirby opened fire on him. The man was suspected of having stripped an automobile.

CROSBY'S PROPOSED TRAFFIC CODE SEEN HEADED FOR DISCARD

P. U. C. and Council Tangle Over Revision Blocks Its Approval.

The proposed simplification of the District traffic code, which Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, wished to see enacted before his retirement, has encountered obstacles which probably will delay its approval and may lead to its discard.

Because of the failure of the Public Utilities Commission to agree with the Traffic Advisory Council and Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer over the traffic authority of the commission, the District Commissioners are expected to withhold their approval of the revised code until a further study can be made. This will leave the whole matter up to the new Commissioners.

Corrections Are Proposed.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday submitted certain proposed corrections to the code draft to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. These changes, it is said, are not agreeable to the Traffic Advisory Council and the traffic director.

Mr. Bride has been holding conferences with representatives of the commission and the traffic council in an effort to effect a reconciliation, but his efforts apparently have failed.

Drafted Months Ago.

Today he will submit the code to the Commissioners with a recommendation that no provision of the code be interpreted as being in conflict with the public utility act, which gives the commission limited jurisdiction over the operation of public vehicles.

The revised code was drafted several months ago, chiefly by the traffice director and the Traffic Advisory Council. It was submitted to the corporation counsel's office for investigation of legal aspects. The traffic authorities contended that approval by the utilities body is not necessary, but Mr. Bride insisted that the code be submitted to the commission for a report.

D. C. Socialists Granted May Day Parade Right

The District Commissioners yesterday granted another May Day parade permit, this one to a Socialist organization, the May Day arrrangements committee, headed by Robert Shostech.

They also approved a route proscribed by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, for the parade sponsored by the Washington Unemployed Council, said to be affiliated with the Communist party. The permit was granted earlier in the week.

Spanish Training Ship Arrives Here

Elcano Docks at Navy Yard After Motor Delay at Potomac's Mouth.

Delayed at the mouth of the Potomac River for several hours because of motor trouble, the Spanish training ship, Juna Sebastian Elcano, scheduled to reach here Wednesday night, arrived at the Washington Navy Yard shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday.

An elaborate program of entertainment, planned for yesterday, was postponed pending the craft's arrival. Today, however, will see sightseeing tours and visits to Government officials by officers and midshipmen aboard the ship.

Capt. Joaquin Lopez Cortijo, commander of the vessel, will call upon the Secretary of the Navy today. He also will present his credentials to Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. Dances, golf and a visit to the Naval Academy at Annapolis have been arranged as part of a program for the visiting ship's crew. They will remain about a week.

Seeking Radio Auto Curb, Brown Cites Baseball Riot

Tells House Committee Crush of Drivers Who Had Heard of Battle Tuesday Delayed Arrival of Police at Griffith Stadium.

A zealous public, with a nose for excitement, is interfering with police activities. Alarms, broadcast via short wave radio, are bringing almost as many civilians as policemen to the scenes of various incidents which require the strong arm of the law.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, testified to this effect before the House Merchant Marine Committee yesterday. Hearings were being held on the Ludlow bill to prevent criminals from using short wave radio sets to evade arrest.

Maj. Brown cited the recent riot call at Griffith Stadium as an example. When the alarm of trouble at the ball park was put on the air citizens riding in automobiles equipped with sets scurried to the scene, many of them arriving before police.

"After the riot call was sent," Maj. Brown testified, "so many persons with short wave sets heard it that by the time police arrived the congestion was so great it was difficult to restore order."

Maj. Brown indicated he did not approve of the bill as it now stands, but said it could be improved "with study." The legislation was indorsed by Michael F. Morrisey, police chief of Indianapolis, and John B. Kuesport, chief at South Bend, Ind. The International Association of Police Chiefs voiced opposition to it in a letter read before the committee.

REVISED GAS LIGHT BILL BEING RUSHED

P. U. C. Hopes It Will Pass Congress Before Firm Is Evaluated.

With the hope that passage may be effected before the valuation of the Washington Gas Light Co.'s properties is completed, the Public Utilities Commission plans to send to Congress very shortly a revised bill designed to take away from the courts much of their authority to review the engineering and accounting facts in appeals from valuation decisions.

Upon the insistence of George E. Sullivan, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, Representative Lorin Black, chairman of the public utilities subcommittee of the House District Committee, promised to hold hearings on the measure at this session providing it is submitted at once. Mr. Sullivan, several weeks ago, introduced a resolution in the Federation of Citizens Associations proposing such a bill.

A similar measure was introduced by the commission, in cooperation with the federation, two sessions ago, but strong opposition developed and the bill was shelved.

The proposal, which has the backing of People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, would greatly expedite the termination of valuation cases, which are now often tied up in litigation for several years only then to have the court grant a higher valuation than that found by the commission.

The bill, which is being drafted by William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel of the commission, would practically restrict the courts to a review of judicial issues providing the valuation data is properly substantiated by the commission.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES FALL MILLION

INTERNATIONAL LAW SPEAKER PREDICTS U. S. TO STAND PAT

Middlebush Says Policy of Noninterference Is Likely to Stand.

Continuation of the United States policy of noninterference in international disputes was forecast at the opening session of the annual meeting of the American Society of International Law at the Willard Hotel last night.

"Apparently little or no initiative is to be taken by the United States Government in securing constructive solutions of international problems," Frederick A. Middlebush, of the University of Missouri, told the gathering.

Talking on "Nonrecognition as a Sanction of International Law," he declared that nonrecognition should be used only as a coercive weapon "conditional on the successful carrying-out of plans for a satisfactory settlement of the issues."

The general application of nonrecognition, he said, will inevitably tend to make international relations more unsettled and uncertain, with the utilimate prevailing of an approximate condition of "international anarchy."

Powerful Force.

It can only be effective when applied collectively, he said, adding "general nonrecognition in a world as closely integrated as is ours, can be a sanction of considerable force."

Another weapon for the settlement of wars of aggression, the economic boycott, was evaluated by Charles Cheney Hyde, of Columbia University.

He attested the effectiveness of the boycott, saying: "Collective intervention through a boycott may sap the strength of the country against which it is applied as effectively as a victorious army or a triumphant blockade."

However, the boycott, he said, "challenges the accepted theory of political independence, unless preceded by a judicial determination of the conduct complained of.

Judges, not statesmen, diplomats nor politicians, he said, should fix the guilt of a nation that is to be subjected to economic punishment.

Favors World Code.

In his address, the president of the society, James Brown Scott, declared "there should be a codification of the law of nations, not necessarily in its every detail, but of the principles which are to be passed upon and applied in judicial decisions which may be rendered in controversies between states."

At the Brookings Institution, at the coincident meeting of the Conference of Teachers of International Law, under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Fred K. Nielsen, prominent international lawyer, declared that the opinions of international tribunals should be the highest evidence of the law. His was one of several talks at the gathering. The two groups will meet jointly today at the Willard Hotel.

Atkinson Resigns Police Force Job

Man Who Recently Fired Revolver at Random Leaves Service.

Policeman William E. Atkinson, who several months ago fired his service revolver at random into the midst of a crowd near Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, has submitted his resignation from the Police Department, it was learned yesterday.

Examination by police surgeons revealed the fact that Atkinson had suffered, momentarily, an ailment bordering on lapse of memory. Several weeks ago he was called before a trial board and reinstated to duty. Testimony was presented by physicians that the policeman was fully recovered.

When reinstated he was appointed to the property yard at the Fourth Precinct. The resignation, which was accepted, will become effective May 1.
